

Lively Scramble for Seats Held by Herter and Whitmore ... Democrats Will Support Ike to Extend Excess Profits Tax ... Gov. Herter's Compulsory Insurance Plan Has Merit ...

It's going to be far from easy for the people of Newton to find two new legislators of the stamp of Representatives Christian A. Herter, Jr., and Howard Whitmore, Jr., even though there is likely to be a lively scramble for the two places they will shortly relinquish on Beacon Hill.

Anyone who prophesied a few months ago that Herter and Whitmore would be stepping out of the Legislature at the end of the 1953 session would have been considered a fit subject for a psychiatrist and a rigid mental examination.

Yet, that is exactly what is shortly to happen, and it demonstrates rather strikingly the uncertainties of politics. Six weeks from now, Herter will be serving as a special assistant to Vice President Nixon, and six months from now Whitmore will be preparing to take office as the next Mayor of Newton.

In exchanging his place on Boston's Beacon Hill for one on Washington's Capitol Hill, young Herter will be seeking principally to step out from the difficult and unusual role in which he found himself as the legislator-son of the Governor, with his every vote and every word construed as reflecting the views of his father.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN M. STEWART

Mr., Mrs. J. M. Stewart Mark Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Stewart of 380 Waltham street, West Newton, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at home with a family dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart were married on June 3, 1903, at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament in Jamaica Plain. They have lived in Newton for the past 30 years.

They have two daughters, Mrs. Wilfred J. Tetrault of Cambridge and Mrs. Donald G. Bruce of Newton, and five grandchildren.

Mr. Stewart, who is now retired from the wool business, was captain of the Boston English High School baseball squad in 1896 and played semi-professional in his youth.

"We believe that a happy marriage is a 50-50 proposition," said Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, "plus a willingness to help each other to enjoy all the happiness possible and make it one long honeymoon, to have faith in God and be ever thankful for His blessings."

Oppose New Dormitory at B.C., Sale of West Newton Hall

Continuance of the non-conforming use of Odd Fellows Hall in West Newton after its sale to the Newton Council, Knights of Columbus, and the conversion of a Chestnut Hill house to a dormitory for Boston College students were opposed last week by neighbors of the two buildings at a public hearing in City Hall.

No objection was registered at the hearing before the Claims and Rules Committee of the aldermen for conversions of buildings in Chestnut Hill and at St. Raphael's Home for the Blind, Centre street, Newton.

The local Knights of Columbus is seeking to purchase Odd Fellows Hall.

Newton, Cambridge Gangs Clash

Youths Beaten As Teen-Agers Seek Revenge

Brutal gang warfare between Newton and Cambridge teenagers flared into open violence this week after a hundred-member Cambridge gang, spoiling for a fight, invaded the Riverside Recreation Grounds in Auburndale, and 17 Newton teenagers went to Cambridge to avenge a beating.

Nineteen members of the Cambridge group, ranging in age from 15 to 21, are scheduled to face charges tomorrow (Friday) in Newton District Court of disturbing the peace. In addition, two of the juvenile members are charged with assault and battery.

According to Metropolitan District Commission police, the youthful gang came to the recreation grounds Sunday to start a fight with any Newton boys they encountered. Francis E. Carroll, 19, of 61 Walker street, Newtonville, was knocked down and his clothes torn.

In retaliation, 17 teenagers from Newton went looking for members of the notorious Senott Park gang in Cambridge Monday night. Unable to locate the gang, they attacked three youths near Central Square. Two escaped and summoned police, but the third was beaten before aid arrived.

Nine of the 17 were arrested by Cambridge police, and were held for trial in East Cambridge District Court. Their cases were continued yesterday (Wednesday) until October 1.

The trouble began, according to testimony in Newton District Court, when some Cambridge boys were at a dance at Riverside Sunday, June 21, with some girls from their city. Angered when the girls danced with Newton boys, the youths returned this Sunday to "avenge" alleged insults.

The gang was ordered from the grounds by apprehensive MDC police, but they later returned and attacked Carroll. The 19-year-old Newtonville youth was beaten with garrison belts and fists.

Inaugurate Newton's Annual Driver Safety Clinic and Safety Campaign at Elks Lodge

Rep. Herter Leaves Soon For Capital

Rep. Christian A. Herter, Jr., of West Newton will leave for Washington shortly after the close of the present legislative session to accept a post as administrative assistant to Vice President Richard N. Nixon.

Gov. Herter, who previously had indicated that his son was considering three offers from the federal government, revealed the West Newton representative's impending resignation at a news conference Monday.

In Washington, Rep. Herter's salary will be $11,000 a year. His duties were described as "general." The vice-president, Gov. Herter explained, has sought someone with legal and legislative experience to carry some of the work load.

The governor said he had been very friendly with the vice-president when both were serving in Congress "but I assure you that has nothing to do with this."

The younger Herter, who is 34, makes his home at 11 Sylvan avenue, West Newton. A graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School, he is currently serving his second term on Beacon Hill.

It has been predicted in the columns of the Graphic that the representative's resignation was imminent ever since his father took office as governor. Informed sources have felt that Rep. Herter would rather get "out on his own" than be his father's spokesman in the state legislature.

His resignation will mean a special election for his vacated state post. This election will doubtless be included with the city voting in November. Also expected on the November ballot is an election for Rep. Howard Whitmore's legislative seat, who will probably resign at the close of the recent session to campaign for mayor.

Funds Still Being Received By Red Cross

The Newton Chapter of the American Red Cross is still receiving volunteer contributions to the Worcester Tornado Disaster. The past week four young children age nine years old from Newton Centre held a talent show in the back yard of one of the homes, and also sold home made cookies and cold drinks. They brought to the Newton Chapter $16.00 towards this fund. Their names are: Karen Holland of 164 Elgin St., Brenda Lindemann of 6 Warren street, Judy Ross of 156 Elgin street and Nancy Patterson of 142 Elgin street.

Young people from the Weeks Junior High School also raised $78.75 towards the Red Cross Disaster Funds, which they turned over to the Chapter. The employees of the Boston Knitting Mills collected $84.00 which was also turned over to the Newton Chapter.

Wins Scholarship At Colby College

Charles A. Morrissey of 48 Waverly avenue, Newton, is one of three undergraduates at Colby College, Waterville, Me., who have received scholarships from the Colby chapter of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

A member of the fraternity and president of his class, he played football, baseball and freshman hockey this past year. He was captain of the hockey squad.

An excellent scholar, the Newton High School graduate received the Lella M. Foster Prize in May for "showing the characteristics and ideals most likely to benefit society."

The Newton Lodge of Elks, in co-operation with the Newton Police, inaugurated Newton's annual Driver Safety Clinic and Safety Campaign Monday at Elks Lodge, Centre street, Newton.

The Clinic, composed of two experts, gave a series of psycho-physical tests followed by a road test of 6 miles which is designed to show the licensed driver that poor habits may be formed by the most experienced of drivers.

Monday, a number of Elks and members of other service clubs took the test and following the test a radio forum was held to discuss the merits of the program. Chief Philip Purcell, acting as moderator, had the following on the forum:

Roy S. Edwards, representing Newton Service Clubs; Wilfred Chagnon, President of the Chamber of Commerce; Leo S. Cannon, Newton Lodge of Elks; Stuart Spaulding, Massachusetts Junior Chamber of Commerce Safety Committee; Thomas I. McNerny, Massachusetts Elks Safety Committee; Henry S. Pratt, Atlantic Refineries; and John Gillis, Atlantic Refineries.

The committee for arrangements consisted of Judge Wilfred Paquet, president, Massachusetts Elks Association; Thomas L. McNerny, Safety Committee, Massachusetts Elks Association; and Charles E. Feeley, Newton Police Department.

Participating in the tests were Paul Mullen, Tom Foley, Martin Torney, Bernard Haffey, Jr., James Higgins, and Charles Burgess.

The parade will consist of the Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, horribles group, doll carriages, bicycles, tricycles and marchers. Envelopes Are Now Being Distributed To Every Home Throughout City

With its slogan, "God Spared You—Give All You Can Spare," Mayor Lockwood's Worcester County Disaster Advisory Committee announced this week that the campaign to secure funds to aid the victims of the recent tornado is now under way and will continue through July 20.

At its meeting Monday at the City Hall, the Advisory Committee completed plans for the solicitation of funds for this worthy cause. Every home in Newton will, within the week, receive an envelope containing a message urging every resident to make a donation.

In a statement printed on the envelope, the committee states: "The resources of the disaster victims in the tornado-smashed Worcester County Area need replenishing even though so many people are proving able and willing to handle their own disaster problems. Every gift is needed and none will be wasted. The Governor's Central Massachusetts Disaster Relief Committee will distribute all contributions through established relief and welfare organizations to whom applications for emergency help are presently being made or will be made."

"This plan enables certified agencies to care immediately for cases in accordance with established service policies and the demands made upon them. Local welfare boards, the American Red Cross, Red Feather Services and organized charitable and relief agencies are over-taxed financially."

EDWARD L. SCHWARTZ of 131 Clark street, Newton, standing, left, is one of three Massachusetts Commissioners on Uniform State Laws discussing with Gov. Herter changes in the "Blue Sky Laws" which will save businessmen millions of dollars throughout the United States in stock and bond issues. With Mr. Schwartz and Gov. Herter are Willard B. Luther of Cambridge, seated, and Joseph F. O'Connell, Jr., of Boston, the two other members of the commission, who with Mr. Schwartz will act as hosts to the national Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws in Boston August 17 where the new code will be presented.

has announced that it has sanctioned the solicitation of funds to be taken up by the committee at the Fourth of July celebration of the association this Saturday night. The Advisory Committee is of the opinion that the citizens of Newton will respond wholeheartedly to this very worthy cause and while no goal has been set up, it feels that the response to the appeal will be exceedingly generous. All donations to the fund should be mailed to Tornado Relief, Inc., c/o Archie R. Whitman, City Treasurer, City Hall, Newton Centre 59, Mass. All funds collected in Newton will be sent to the Official Governor's Committee (Central Massachusetts Disaster Relief Committee) for distribution in the area hit by the tornado. Educational and religious institutions throughout the Disaster Area which have been physically damaged will, of course, retain as their own the gifts and contributions which they are soliciting and receiving. When the emergency relief problems have been met, it is the intention of the Central Committee to extend all possible help to these institutions out of funds. "Newton," stated chairman Pillsbury, "has never failed to respond to an emergency and I feel certain that every citizen of this city will want to do his or her part to aid these unfortunate victims of the recent tornado. Let us all remember that but for the Grace of God—it could have been us."

Gangs-

After the attack, MDC police called for assistance and Newton officers helped round up the 19 youths near the Riverside Railroad Station. The group was then marched to the MDC station on Commonwealth avenue near Norumbega Park.

The members of the gang were identified by MDC police as being part of the Scenott Park gang which has been accused of "terrorizing the neighborhood" in Cambridge. The defendants are all residents of Cambridge with the exception of one Somerville juvenile.

Monday night at about 11, two carloads of Newton youths "jumped" the three Cambridge youths. Two of those attacked escaped into a bowling alley, but the third was cut off and surrounded by the gang.

The Newton youths severely scratched him while holding him captive by the chain of a religious medal about his neck. Finally breaking loose from his assailants when the chain snapped, he ran into a darkened doorway for safety.

Two patrol cars were dispatched into the neighborhood when a neighbor spotted the attack, and nine of the Newton youths were immediately rounded up. The second car, containing the remaining eight members of the gang, escaped but its registration number had been taken. Newton police later halted the car with three boys in it, and turned them over to Cambridge police.

Celebrate-

Pony rides will be available throughout the day. A large refreshment stand will be erected, to serve cold drinks, hot dogs, candies, etc. for the people attending the celebration.

A complete card of races, including sack races and three-legged races will be held for all age groups of boys and girls. This portion of the program will be held between 2 and 4:30 p.m. Prizes for the foregoing events will be awarded at 6 p.m.

The evening program will begin at 8:30 with a record hop, consisting of modern dancing contests and jitterbug contests. Prizes for the most adept dancers will be awarded.

At 8:30 movies will be shown for the entertainment of young and old. The celebration will conclude with a grand display of fireworks starting at 10 p.m. and lasting a full half hour.

"We possess, as a people, all the qualities, all the talents, and all the resources necessary to resolve the problems inherited from the past or inherent in the present. We live — not in an instant of danger but in an age of danger." —President Eisenhower.

Hospital Aid Earn and Give Project Being Repeated for Second Year

For the second year in succession, the ladies of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital Aid Association, under the presidency of Mrs. Paul T. Babson, of Wellesley, are conducting an "Earn and Give" campaign. Proceeds from unique project will be used to help establish a post-operative recovery room in the hospital for the better care of patients following surgery. It is estimated that this room will cost approximately $15,000. Money earned by Hospital Aid members will go directly into the fund for this valuable new facility. The Post-Operative Recovery Room will be equipped with every modern device to assure prompt recovery of the surgical patient under ideal conditions. The patient will return to his own room in much better shape, which, in turn, will materially aid the hospital by easing the nursing burden.

Mrs. George C. Prather, of Wellesley, is General Chairman of this project. Serving with Mrs. Prather and representing the various villages are: Mrs. Susan H. Wright, of Auburndale, Mrs. Donald L. Gibbs, of Newton, Mrs. Morris Courtiss, of Newton Centre, Mrs. Martin P. Luthy, of Newton Highlands, Mrs. Alvah Ring, of Newton Lower Falls, Mrs. F. Hopewell Underhill, of Newtonville, Mrs. Donald B. Wheeler, of Oak Hill Village, Mrs. Gordon B. Gifford, of Waban, Mrs. Benjamin D. Miller, of Wellesley Hills, and Mrs. William F. King, of West Newton.

First and second prizes are to be awarded for the most efficient method of earning money; for the greatest amount of money raised; for the best group effort and for the best family effort. Earnings are to be turned in to the Hospital Aid office by November first.

Newton Highlands has already gotten off to a flying start in this program. Its Hospital Aid directors, under the Chairmanship of Mrs. Luthy are: Mrs. Herbert G. Dunphy, Mrs. Ward J. Cornell, Mrs. P. Edward Eden, Mrs. John D. Fox, Mrs. Grosvenor D. Marcy, and Mrs. Fred G. Sandford. These ladies have completed plans for a big bridge party to be held in the Workshop of the Newton Highlands Women's Club in October. Mrs. Leonard Jenney, President of the Newton Highlands Garden Club, has expressed the willingness of her fellow club members to co-operate with the ladies of the hospital aid by supplying floral decorations for this event. Since there are over a hundred members of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital Aid Association in Newton Highlands, the directors anticipate a sell-out attendance at the bridge. All other aid members are urged to follow the lead of Newton Highlands and turn the summer months to good advantage.

Tax Board to Create More Efficiency

One of the most important pieces of legislation passed by the House last week, according to Representative George E. Rawson of the 4th Middlesex District, was House Bill 2850 to reorganize the Department of Corporations and Taxation. The bill was based on recommendations of the "Baby Hoover" Commission and the Governor's message. It replaces the office of the single Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation by a three member commission, one of whom will be designated as Commissioner by the Governor.

Henry F. Long, the present Commissioner, retires by law September 30, as he will on that date have reached the mandatory retirement age for State employees. The Act takes effect on October 1.

The Democrats seized upon the bill as an opportunity to attack the present able Governor for discharging a very able official. One member carried on a two hour filibuster filled with hypocritical sarcasm and vitriolic invective. The entire opposition to the bill was loaded with the sheerest demagoguery, stated Rep. Rawson, for everyone knew that Henry Long's retirement was mandatory by law.

"I have known Henry Long ever since he was secretary to Calvin Coolidge, who was then Governor," continued Rep. Rawson. Mr. Long was appointed by Governor Coolidge in 1920. Though I have differed with him strongly on many occasions and have fought against measures proposed by him, some of which I succeeded in defeating in the House, we have remained warm friends. His integrity, his great ability and his success as a tax collector have never been questioned. At least two Democratic governors swore that they would fire him but they did not because they could not find a member of their own party to replace him, although Tobin did keep him waiting a year for reappointment. The very fact that the bill requires a three member commission to do the work that Henry Long has done, is of itself a notable tribute to him.

"The attempt to defeat the bill was smothered by a roll call vote of 146 to 66. Those of us who supported it believe that it will result in a more efficiently organized department, a saving of expense, and a better service to the taxpayers."

Men's Educational Ass'n Has Spring Outing and Dinner

More than 100 members of the Newton Men's Educational Association attended a Spring outing and dinner recently at the Marlborough Country Club.

The organization is composed of the administrative and teaching staffs of the Newton Public Schools. Following a smorgasbord dinner, the meeting was addressed by Dr. Harold B. Gores, superintendent of schools. Mr. Gores was introduced by the retiring president, Clifford R. Nelson.

Officers elected for the 1953-54 years include William F. Clark, director of business services, president; Frank W. Harrigan, teacher at the Underwood School, vice-president; Abner H. Bailey, high school teacher, treasurer; and Clarence E. Churchill, principal of the Hyde School, in charge of the insurance program.

New Benefit Amendment Is Now in Effect

On July 1 a new amendment to the Employment Security Law went into effect, increasing the maximum duration of benefits from 23 to 26 weeks. The effect of the change is to lift the ceiling on maximum benefits payable in a benefit year from $575 to $650.

In discussing the change Antonio England, Director of the Division of Employment Security, pointed out that the amendment specifies that only persons filing new claims on and after July 1, will be eligible for the increased benefit amount. Persons who have filed claims prior to July 1 will be limited to the benefits allowable under existing law for the balance of their benefit years.

Director England said that while it is impossible to estimate how many will be affected by the change, new claims are currently being accepted at the rate of about 20,000 each month. More than half of this number of claimants have been using up all of their benefits. If present conditions continue it will, therefore, cost the Unemployment Compensation Fund about a million and one half dollars a year. The change in the Employment Security Law was approved by the Legislature on May 26th.

Plan $40,000 Paint Project For 14 Schools

A $40,000 Summer painting program which will include 14 Newton school buildings was announced last week by Public Buildings Commissioner Arthur Campbell.

Contracts for the work, which will be performed while the school children are on their annual two-month vacations, have been awarded to seven companies after competitive bidding for the projects. The largest amount of work to be done is on the Warren Junior High School, where $3343 will be expended. Plans call for painting of the walls, ceilings and windows of all stairways and corridors, complete repainting of two rooms, and repainting of boys and girls locker rooms, among other items.

Contracts for the various painting projects were awarded as follows: John T. Bradley Co., West Newton, Carr School, $1280; Emerson School $635; Franklin School, $1830.

C. Dale Garbutt of Revere, Bigelow, $1330 and Cabot, $1430. John D. Ahern, Co., of Everett, Classical High, $362; Warren Junior High, $3343; Weeks Junior High, $2827.

J. Howard Youlden and Sons of Newton Centre, High School Administration Building, $2916. H. M. Nordstrom of Newton Centre, Lincoln-Eliot, $1725.

John W. Egan Co., of Newton Centre, Angier School, $1947; Ward, $1089.

M. W. Hemen of Newton Lower Falls, Horace Mann, $935.

duce his number of appearances in opera and concert, the great singer has wanted to appear in a straight dramatic play. "South Pacific" combined acting and singing but, because he had established himself as a vocal artist long before this show, Mr. Pinza was more anxious to establish himself as a straight actor. No happier combination than "The Play's the Thing" and Ezio Pinza could be imagined. The Molnar play, adapted for the American stage by the great humorist, P. G. Wodehouse, was a fabulous success when it was premiered in 1926.

The entire production is under the supervision of actor-director Ezra Stone, one of America's most capable producers and directors. Tickets are still available for most performances including the matinees scheduled for Wednesday and Friday afternoons.

Taxpayers Hard Hit

Whatever his income, the taxpayer is hard pressed today.

He pays local taxes, state taxes, sales taxes, inheritance taxes, and corporate taxes
through the manufactured products he buys.
Heaviest of all is the Federal income tax,
which takes from 22.2 cents to 92 cents of every taxable dollar.

The present Congress has made good progress in cutting the "lame duck" budget inherited by the Administration. It must do more, however, because the present level
of taxation is more than the economy can bear indefinitely. People in every community must cooperate by forgoing demands not only for "pork-barrel" projects, but also for some of the "plush" services the government has been furnishing. The Truman "lame duck" budget will have to be cut by around $12,500,000,000 down to $66,100,000,000 in order to give minimum tax relief to the people and balance the budget.

Political Overtones

It is very likely that this competent and likeable young man is just taking temporary leave from Massachusetts politics and that he will be called back in the not too distant future to run as candidate for higher office
in his own right.

Democrats Want to Keep Excess Profits Tax; New Auto Insurance Penalizes Poor Drivers

A majority of the members of Congress are caught in the middle of an unusual situation which gives them no alternative but to line up with President Eisenhower, when the showdown vote is taken next week on the extension of the excess profits tax.

Up to now the Democrats have been able to sit back and watch with undisguised enthusiasm the struggle between Eisenhower and those elements in the Republican party seeking to kill the excess profits tax immediately, and they would not be at all unhappy if Ike were to suffer a defeat on the issue.

But they know that when the preliminary skirmishing is over, when the chips are down and the time comes for them to stand up and be counted, they have got to rescue
the President in order to save their own political skins and avoid the wrath of their own constituents.

There will be some talk from Democratic Congressmen that they realize President Eisenhower is still popular with the people and that consequently they're going to disregard partisan politics and go along with his program, even though some members of his own party may refuse to do so.

The fact of the matter is that they can't afford to do anything else. The Democratic voters in most districts would take a very dim view of any vote by their Congressmen to allow the excess profits
tax to die before their own income taxes are lowered, and the Democratic Congressmen realize that.

President Eisenhower made a very shrewd move in his nation-wide telecast a few weeks ago, when he carried his fight
on the excess profits tax directly to the people, explaining to his listeners that he didn't want to wipe out that tax until all taxes were cut and placing many Congressmen squarely on the spot.

Most of his listeners agreed wholeheartedly with Ike that no one else's taxes should be cut before their own, and the President actually won his battle then and there, even though he had to do a lot of pulling and hauling before the chairman of the House ways and means committee would agree to report out the matter or even hold a meeting on it.

A few Democratic Congressmen in conservative Southern districts probably could afford to vote to kill the excess profits tax,
while allowing the personal income tax to remain at its present level until the end of the year, but the number would not be too large.

The political experts in Washington are trying to weigh the damage President Eisenhower suffered in his own party by the extreme methods taken to whip some of the unwilling Republicans into line, but this long-distance observer can't see that it was very great.

Ike's prestige would certainly have taken a sharp drop if he had lost the fight, and he is a good enough diplomat to be able to soothe the bruised feelings of the ways and means committee chairman and the other

G.O.P. pooh-bahs who may have been offended.

For years virtually every one in Massachusetts agreed that something ought to be done about the compulsory automobile insurance program, which has grown steadily
more acute, with insurance rates on a continual rise and the number of highway accidents constantly on the increase.

But when Governor Herter finally proposed a program for penalizing accident-prone drivers and poor risks who are responsible for the high rates, he encountered a surprising amount of opposition from politicians who agreed that something should be done, had no ideas of their own on the matter, but criticized the suggestions he advanced.

The Governor's plan in time will mean lower rates for the careful driver and higher charges for the motorist who causes the accidents, which seemingly is a fairer arrangement than fixing the rates solely by communities, but it also will serve as the spearhead for a State-wide safety campaign.

It has never seemed completely fair that a driver in Pittsfield with a poor accident record should pay substantially less for his insurance than a motorist with a perfect record living in Newton, Dedham or West Roxbury.

The money paid out to settle highway accident cases obviously has to come out of the pockets of the automobile owners, and it is only reasonable that a higher percentage of it should come from those drivers responsible for causing the accidents.

It's very easy to sit back and poke holes
in any program that is proposed, but the Governor at least came up with a seemingly practicable and workable plan after a lot of talk and no action over a period of years,
and it appears that it would be a sensible
step toward merit rating for all motorists.

Former Governor Paul A. Dever pretty definitely took himself out of the running as a potential candidate for the Governorship
in a speech the other day, and it now seems virtually certain that if he runs for anything
next year it will be against Leverett Saltonstall for the latter's seat in the United States Senate.

It is possible, of course, that Mr. Dever
may decide to remain at the private practice
of law and not run for anything in 1954, and Congressman Philip J. Philbin some time ago launched an energetic campaign
for the Senate nomination.

There is little doubt that Dever could win the Senate nomination over Philbin, if he chose to bid for it, but there is considerable uncertainty as to exactly what the ex-Governor's political plans are.

Dever told his listeners flatly that he would not again be a candidate for the Governorship. He made the statement after he was introduced as the "next Governor of the Commonwealth."

But he made no mention of the Senate race, and he didn't eliminate himself as a candidate for any office other than the Governorship. There is a feeling in some quarters that Dever may be desirous of running against Senator Saltonstall who defeated him by the slim margin of 5588
votes after an extremely tight gubernatorial race in 1954.

His pronouncement leaves former Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin virtually without serious opposition if he desires to run again for Governor next year.

Sheriff Howard W. Fitzpatrick is being mentioned in some circles as a possible candidate for the Governorship, but Fitzpatrick
would be no match for Tobin in a Democratic primary, if the latter sets his political gun sights on the gubernatorial nomination.

Dever's decision probably is motivated
at least in part by the terrific pressure and strain which a man assumes when he sits down in the Governor's chair and takes over the tremendous task of directing the State government.

The four years Dever served on Beacon Hill took a toll on both his nervous and physical system. Any man who serves as Governor pays a heavy price for doing so, and that may well be why he has decided that two terms are enough.

Tobin served one term on Beacon Hill,
was defeated for reelection by Robert F.
Bradford in the Republican sweep of 1946
and in the intervening seven years has carried a desire to wipe out that reverse.

He was running against Dever for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1948, when President Truman persuaded him to accept a place in his cabinet—a job that seemed likely to last no more than five months with Thomas E. Dewey regarded as virtually certain to defeat Truman—and it was with considerable reluctance that he withdrew from the race for the Governor-ship.

Now it appears virtually certain that he can be the Democratic candidate for Governor in 1954, if he desires the role.

There will be lively contests next year
for the Democratic nominations for both Lieutenant Governor and Attorney General,
and it is not anticipated that either Charles F. Jeff Sullivan or Francis E. Kelly will be on the 1954 Democratic State ticket.

A man who may be a strong contender
for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor, if he desires to seek promotion to higher office, is Governor's Councillor Patrick J. Sonny McDonough of South Boston, now the lone Democrat in the Executive Council.

McDonough ran for Mayor in 1949, was caught in the middle of a bitter fight between Mayor Hynes and ex-Mayor Curley and did not show his actual strength. He has campaigned in all parts of Massachusetts for Democratic tickets and is pretty well known throughout the State.

An owner of a Muncie, Ind., supermarket, hastily abandoned the practice of using a wastebasket to store his receipts after an employee dumped the contents of a basket containing $6,290 into a fire.

"If You Can Keep It"

As Benjamin Franklin left Independence Hall, a woman asked him, "Mr. Franklin, what kind of a government have you given us?"
He answered gravely, "A Republic, madam, if you can keep it."
In painting this Independence Day scene in Hometown, U.S.A., the artist, E. Franklin Wittmack, has found an echo of Franklin's warning in a quotation from the poet William Cullen Bryant. The historic scene of Magna Charta, the signal light on old North Church Tower, the embattled "rebels" of a great new nation—symbolize the hard-won victories, and the priceless freedom, which, on Independence Day 1953, are given every Hometown in the land—not done to celebrate, but to protect.

Prayer for Independence Day — 1953

By GEORGE LAWRENCE PARKER

God of Freedom, grant us freedom from the slaveries of our times. As our Fathers strove for a future that they could not see, help us to be loyal to a future that we cannot know.

Break the shackles of fear, timidity, and sloth, that we may have courage for life greater than our courage in death,
the disciplines of sympathy stronger than the disobediences of hatred. Cleanse the garden of our souls from superstition and criticism, that the fair places of all the earth may blossom with trust and confidence.

Release us from disrespect for government and law,
that order and cooperation may bear fruit in contentment
and peace.

Grant us freedom large enough to share with all nations and with all persons in every nation, that thy children may fulfill the possibilities of their differing gifts.

Grant us freedom of soul and personality, that our quenchless inward light may never be darkened by our own delays and disappointments.

Keep alive in the heart of America the freedoms of responsibility and the liberties of service, the guardians of our own rights.

Thus, O God of Freedom, shall we be true followers of our Fathers and worthy Fathers of our children, our generations blessed with a future for which the past was born.
AMEN.

A Few Don'ts For Safety On July 4th

Over the Fourth of July each year more and more lives are lost and people are hurt and thousands of dollars worth of property destroyed unnecessarily.
Today more than ever before
we are all slaves to the destructive forces of fire due to our own carelessness in our methods of living.

Fireworks and fire crackers are one of the largest causes for the rapid increase in fires and injuries to people at this time of the year. Both of these unnecessary losses can be greatly lowered now
by using common sense on our part.

Few people actually realize the explosive force that is contained in many of the fireworks. Many of the ingredients contained in fireworks are the same substances that are used in the manufacture of ammunitions and high explosives for war to kill and destroy. They possess both a fire and explosive hazard. If any of these substances should get into a cut or a wound, infection may result unless precautions are taken at the time it occurs. Lock jaw is one of the common results. The sale of fireworks and fire crackers have been restricted and banned in many states. Massachusetts has banned the sale of fire crackers.
The result has been the lowering of fires and accidents from this cause.

Here are a few simple things
to remember when handling fireworks and firecrackers:

DO NOT allow small children
to handle or play with fire crackers as they do the most unpredictable things at all times. They should be shown, when they are old enough, how to handle them safely, thus preventing injury to themselves and others.

DO NOT throw fire crackers at anyone or anything and do not hold them in your hand to explode.

Fire crackers thrown into the air could lodge in sections of a building and cause a fire, or they might explode in a person's face
and cause the loss of their eyesight.

Store all fireworks away from all open lights, high temperatures and in a place where there is not too much moisture and away from any combustible materials.

Keep fire crackers in a closed metal container.

Do not store fireworks in the home the whole year round. Use them all up on the Fourth.
Chemical changes take place under certain conditions and could result in spontaneous ignition.
THINK, before you light any type of fire crackers or fire works and makes sure the area is

THE PENALTY OF Leadership

In every field of human endeavor, he that is first must perpetually live in the white light of publicity. Whether the leadership be vested in a man or in a manufactured product, emulation and envy are ever at work. In art, in literature, in music, in industry, the reward and the punishment are always the same. The reward is widespread recognition; the punishment, fierce denial and detraction. When a man's work becomes a standard for the whole world, it also becomes a target for the shafts of the envious few. If his work be merely mediocre, he will be left severely alone—if he achieve, a masterpiece, it will set a million tongues a-wagging. Jealousy does not protrude its forked tongue at the artist who produces a commonplace painting. Whatever you write, or paint, or play, or sing, or build, no one will strive to surpass or to slander you, unless your work be stamped with the seal of genius. Long, long after a great work or a good work has been done, those who are disappointed or envious continue to cry out that it cannot be done. Spiteful little voices in the domain of art were raised against our own Whittier as a mountebank, long after the big world had acclaimed him its greatest artistic genius. Multitudes flocked to Bayreuth to worship at the musical shrine of Wagner, while the little group of those whom he had dethroned and displaced argued angrily that he was no musician at all. The little world continued to protest that Fulton could never build a steamboat, while the big world flocked to the river banks to see his boat steam by. The leader is assailed because he is a leader, and the effort to equal him is merely added proof of that leadership. Failing to equal or to excel, the follower seeks to depreciate and to destroy—but only confirms once more the superiority of that which he strives to supplant. There is nothing new in this. It is as old as the world and as old as the human passions—envy, fear, greed, ambition, and the desire to surpass. And it all avails nothing. If the leader truly leads, he remains—the leader. Master-poet, master-painter, master-workman, each in his turn is assailed, and each holds his laurels through the ages. That which is good or great makes itself known, no matter how loud the clamor of denial. That which deserves to live—lives.

To Feature 'Dark Of the Moon' at Wellesley July 7-12

The outdoor carnival of plays, which was launched earlier this week at Theatre on the Green in the open-air amphitheatre at Wellesley College, will continue next Tuesday through Sunday (July 7-12) with a production of "Dark of the Moon," featuring the Group 20 Players. In keeping with the new theatre's policy of varied theatre-fare, the management has picked "Dark of the Moon," a fantasy based upon the legend of Barbara Allen and the Witch Boy, to follow "The Taming of the Shrew," the current attraction which continues through Sunday (July 5).

Sylvia Short and Michael Higgins will be seen in the roles of Barbara Allen and the Witch Boy in next week's production.

"Dark of the Moon," considered to be one of the most exciting and absorbing folk-plays in the American theatre, is by William Berney and Howard Richardson and features music and dancing. It was seen in Boston prior to Broadway a number of years ago and won critical acclaim in London. Currently, the script is being prepared as a film scenario.

Patrons of Theatre on the Green are invited to come to the cool outdoor amphitheatre prior to performances to enjoy an informal coffee hour which is a regular part of the theatre program. Beginning at 7:45 each night, patrons may obtain coffee and light refreshments and listen to music in the adjoining patio. Performances are at 8:40 p.m. each Tuesday through Saturday and at 8 p.m. each Sunday. Reservations may be made by calling Wellesley 5-0393.

Resignation of Mrs. C. A. Bean Is Announced

The resignation of Mrs. Constance A. Bean, Health Educator for the Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association, has been announced by Miss Ruth Raphael, Executive Director.

Mrs. Bean has been in charge of chest X-ray programs in Newton, as well as other health education projects. She has also been in charge of publicity for the Association.

Miss Raphael is now accepting applications from those interested in Mrs. Bean's position.

Assistant Patrol Leaders, J. Dixon Bergman of Newton is the Troop Bugler.

Heat, cooking problems and an intense schedule did not phase the California bound lads who put in a busy and profitable week-end at Nobscoot Reservation last Saturday and Sunday. Setting up camp and getting used to charcoal cooking took up most of the time in the morning and afternoon, but by Saturday supper the Troop was well organized when it sat down to a well prepared supper of creamed beef and vegetables. The other main-meals were steak and fried chicken cooked in aluminum foil. Following a session of drilling and a campfire in the evening Scoutmaster Forbes expressed his satisfaction at the progress made by the young men. Sunday morning's program consisted of meal preparation, church services and correction of equipment set-up and shortages. The Troop broke camp early Sunday afternoon and marched down the trail to meet their parents.

Children Should Be Warned Blasting Caps Are Dangerous

Blasting caps are sometimes lost or stolen and boys and girls find them. While playing with these caps, explosions frequently occur, and as a result hundreds of people have been hurt. Some lose fingers and hands, some are blinded for life. Blasting caps are small copper or aluminum cylinders about as big around as a lead pencil and between 1 1/2 and 5 inches long. They contain a highly sensitive explosive and are used to explode dynamite, to mine coal and metals, quarry stone and build bridges, roads and skyscrapers.

There are two kinds of caps. The "ordinary cap" is exploded by sparks from a burning fuse inserted in one end of the cap. The other kind of a cap is an electric blasting cap. It has two wires coming out of one end. These two wires are connected by a very thin wire that is sunk in the explosive charge in the cap. When electric current is applied, the thin wire becomes red hot and detonates the cap.

The explosives in blasting caps are very sensitive, so that they will be sure to detonate the dynamite charge. An experienced person knows how to handle them safely. In the hands of an inexperienced person they are extremely dangerous.

Comparatively few persons know what a blasting cap looks like; children particularly are likely to play with them. When a cap explodes, hundreds of small pieces of metal fly out in all directions — sometimes as much as 200 feet — and even at that distance could cause blindness.

Boys and girls should know what a blasting cap looks like, and what a great damage it can do. If found it should be left alone. Other boys and girls should be warned and a report made to a fireman, policeman, sheriff, or other law enforcement officer at once. He will dispose of it properly.

If there is nobody available that knows how to safely dispose of such explosives contact any of the following agencies:

1. Get in touch with the county agricultural agent.
2. Call the area headquarters of any major quarrying, mining, or construction project.
3. Contact a representative of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, or
4. Get in touch with a representative of an explosive manufacturer. DON'T take any chances or allow others to take chances unless they are THOROUGHLY EXPERIENCED in handling such explosives. Remember this type of explosive can KILL, MAIM AND BLIND.

Miss Horrigan Wed at St. Bernards To Mr. Andrew Emmett Corrigan

For her marriage to Mr. Andrew Emmett Corrigan, son of Mrs. Joseph P. Corrigan of 138 Charlesbank road, Newton, Miss Ruth Ellen Horrigan, daughter of Mrs. John B. Horrigan and the late Mr. Horrigan of 460 Crafts street, West Newton, wore a gown of tulle and lace over satin with a portrait neckline, a chapel-length train and a fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of white orchids with Stephanotis streamers and lilies-of-the-valley.

The 10 o'clock ceremony was performed by Rev. John Saunders at St. Bernards Church, West Newton, last Saturday morning and the bride was given in marriage by her brother Mr. John B. Horrigan.

As maid of honor for her sister, Miss Elinor C. Horrigan wore a pink and white tulle over tulle with a bolero and wore flowers in her hair matching her bouquet of pink roses.

The bride's mother wore Dior blue chiffon over tulle with pink accessories and in her son's wedding, Mrs. Corrigan wore sheer powder blue with lavender accessories.

Mr. Edmund V. Corrigan of Waltham was best man for his brother. The ushers were Mr. Francis Corrigan of Boston, Mr. Brendan Horrigan, Mr. Francis McArdle and Mr. George MacLean of Newton.

After a reception at the Marlboro Country Club, the couple left for a tour of the great lakes and upon their return will reside at 498 Watertown street, Newtonville.

The final meeting of the Sisterhood of Temple Reym was held recently with the newly installed president, Mrs. George Shapiro presiding.

The entertainment and instruction offered by Mr. Harry Quint, Newton Highlands florist, was thoroughly enjoyed as indicated by the stimulating question and answer period that followed his program on floral arrangements. Highway No Place for Independence

Chief Philip Purcell of the Newton Police Department today pointed out that the observance of the Fourth of July, or Independence Day, is the more or less official start of the vacation season for many people.

"The Massachusetts Safety Council has informed me that it will require the utmost cooperation from all motorists if our increasing highway accident rate is to be reduced," said Chief Purcell.

"We Americans all value our Independence but the highway is no place to display such Independence."

"Safe driving, especially on holiday week ends demonstrates our dependence on all drivers to interpret signalling and other movements correctly."

"I would like to impress on all users of the highway," concluded Chief Purcell, "that a mechanically safe vehicle with a mentally safe driver will do much to stem the increase of highway accidents over the Fourth of July and throughout the summer season."

Retires After 55 Years of State Service

June 22 at the Boston Club, 46 Beacon street, a testimonial dinner was held in honor of John W. Henderson of Newton, assistant secretary of the Industrial Accident Board, who retired at the end of July after more than 55 years of service to the Commonwealth. As far as is known, he holds the distinction of having the longest term of service of any state employee.

Mr. Henderson, who is 69 years of age, first entered the state service on July 5, 1898 in the bureau of labor statistics. In 1901 he transferred to the state board of charity and in 1918 was appointed chief inspector in the department of industrial accidents. He was appointed to his present position as assistant secretary of the industrial accident board in 1933.

He resides at 62 Thornton road, Chestnut Hill with his wife. He has three children, Dr. John W. Henderson, Jr., of Worcester, Mrs. Donald Orr Lacey of Washington, D. C. and James Henderson of California.

The committee in charge of the dinner consisted of Anne van Gemert and Charles Murphy, chairmen, Mary Hart, Phoebe Nason and Irene Rowe.

POLITICAL OVERTONES

No Alternative Offered by Opponents of MTA Fare Increase Legislature Wound Up Session with a Creditable Record . . .

Every political demagogue in Greater Boston howled in violent protest earlier this week against the proposed increase in the MTA fares which become effective a week from Sunday. But not one of them offered a suggestion as to what alternative course the trustees of the road should follow instead of raising the fares.

The fiery controversy over the suggested rise in fares boils down to the very simple question of who should pay the expense of operating the transit system because the money has to come from some source.

It's probably smart politics to stand back and scream with outraged indignation that the people's pockets are being picked and that the MTA officials are committing a grave injustice, driving business away and taking bread out of the mouths of babies.

But it's also a fact that under the present fare schedule the MTA is operating at a deficit of more than $9,000,000 a year, and the law says it should be run on a self-supporting basis.

The 20-cent fare will not wipe out the deficit entirely. But unless there is a greater drop in patronage than is expected, it will cut down the loss which the home-owners in 14 Greater Boston cities and towns must make up.

Alderman Paul Rich to Seek State Legislature Vacancy

Alderman Paul S. Rich of 278 Franklin street, Newton, this week announced that he will seek the Republican nomination for state representative from the Fourth Middlesex District to fill the seat soon to be vacated by Rep. Christian A. Herter, Jr., of West Newton.

Rep. Herter has accepted an administrative post with Vice-President Richard M. Nixon in Washington, D. C. He is expected to resign his legislative seat momentarily, now that the current session has ended.

Alderman Rich once before sought to represent Newton in the state legislature but was defeated in the primary election by Reps. Herter and George E. Rawson. He sought a recount of the close balloting and lost to Rep. Rawson by a mere 194 votes.

He is currently serving his fourth year as an alderman from Ward 7, winning elections for the city post in 1949 and 1951. He was an overwhelming victor in his re-election bid in 1951.

PAUL S. RICH

swamping Edmund J. Cully 1187 to 282.

Mr. Rich is married and has two daughters attending the Underwood School in Newton. He is a lawyer with a Boston office at 73 Tremont street.

Relief Contributions Rise Steadily

$6663.13 Has Been Received Through Mon.

At a meeting of Mayor Lockwood's Worcester Tornado Advisory Committee held yesterday afternoon (Wednesday), City Treasurer Archie Whitman reported that a total of $6,663.13 had been contributed in Newton up to Tuesday morning. He reported that at the Fourth of July celebration held at Newton Centre, $217.25 was collected; the Raytheon employees contributed $115.59 prior to the start of their vacations and that gifts from industrial concerns and others was now starting to be received but that the total had not been officially tabulated as yet. The drive for funds to aid in the relief of the victims of this terrible tragedy will continue through July 20.

William Baxter, Civil Defense director stated that contribution envelopes had been distributed to all banks and industrial firms in the city and will be enclosed with bank statements and monthly invoices.

Superintendent of Streets Harold Young reported that employees of his department had completed distribution of contribution envelopes to every home in the city and the fine spirit of these employees in aiding the committee was warmly applauded. The work of the committee which took place the collection at the Newton Centre Playground, consisting of Jim Murphy, chairman; Alderman Leo Cannon, J. Joseph Ward, and Francis J. Pilon, were commended for their fine efforts.

Milton Shapiro, in the absence of Dr. Albert Gordon, told the committee that envelopes had been distributed to members of all synagogues throughout the city and Chief Philip Purcell of the police department reported that under the direction of Capt. Charles Walker, sealed metal can-

Schedule Test For Promotion To Fire Capt.

A State Civil Service examination for promotion to captain in the Newton Fire Department has been scheduled for August 18.

The examination is open only to permanent fire lieutenants in the Newton Fire Department who have been employed in that grade, after certification, for at least one year prior to the date of the August examination.

Application blanks must be placed on file no later than Tuesday, July 23, at the State House. The blanks may be obtained from the Veterans Services Department at City Hall.

All Outdoor Fires Banned by Decree Unless 'Emergency'

All permits for outdoor fires were automatically cancelled Friday at 6 p.m. when Gov. Christian A. Herter proclaimed the major part of the state was experiencing a "serious fire hazard."

Since Friday, all woodlands east of the Connecticut River have been closed to the general public. Recreation areas in the woodlands may be entered only if fire patrols are being maintained nearby.

All fire chiefs have received instructions from the state forest to not issue permits for open air fires except on the written permission of the forester. Raymond J. Kenney, state forester, has stated he will only allow open fires "that border on an emergency."

Along with closing the woodlands, the governor proclaimed a closed season on fishing, hunting and trapping. The possession of firearms in woodlands was also prohibited.

The only fishing allowed is from boats on inland waters which may be reached without passing through woodlands.

Assessed Poll Figures Drop 183 From 1952

A drop of 183 in the number of Newton residents assessed poll taxes was reported last week by John D. Wright, chairman of the Newton Board of Assessors.

A total of 22,148 poll tax bills have been mailed out, with the last batch sent only last week. During 1952, the bills numbered 22,331.

Mr. Wright reported that this year there were 2852 men over 65 and 898 residents in the service who are all exempt from payment of the poll tax.

The number of assessed polls by wards was: Ward 1, 1963; Ward 2, 3382; Ward 3, 3412; Ward 4, 2106; Ward 5, 5627; Ward 6, 4007; and Ward 7, 1671.

On Active Duty

Capt. Thomas S. Booz, Jr., of 246 Central street, Auburndale, is spending two weeks at the Ordnance Comptroller Office in Washington, D. C., for active duty training with the U. S. Army Reserve.

Police Now Have First Aid Plates

With all of its members having completed advanced First Aid courses, the Newton Police Department is the first law enforcement agency in the area to be entitled to the Red Cross Emergency First Aid plates.

The Red Cross plates attached to the front and rear of all cruisers indicate that they are equipped with an advanced First Aid kit and that the operators are qualified to assist in emergencies. The plates are also assigned to private cars which are used by teams of three or more advanced first-aiders and have the necessary First Aid equipment.

The emergency First Aid plates were attached to Newton police cruisers at ceremonies held at City Hall attended by Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood, Chief Philip Purcell, Captain Charles E. Walker, Patrolman Gilbert J. Champagne, First Aid Instructor, and General Chairman William Falconer of the Newton Chapter, American Red Cross. The plates were distributed by Frank B. Holland, Special Field Representative for the Red Cross Eastern Area, Alexandria, Virginia.

Alderman Anderson to Press For Decision One Way or Other

Rent controls will not lapse at the end of July without a vote by the aldermen. Mr. Anderson's motion came at the last possible time for consideration, as Monday's aldermanic meeting is the last one before the July 31 deadline.

The meeting will begin at the unusual time of 9 p.m. under a new arrangement which calls for committee meetings before the regular session instead of the preceding Thursday.

The later starting time was voted last month as an experiment since many of the aldermen have to drive long distances from vacation spots to reach City Hall. By combining the committee meetings and the alderman's session, they will only have to make a single trip.

Four appointments by Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood are scheduled to be acted upon Monday night. The appointments are of Charles S. Grover, 38 Vista avenue, Auburndale, as an associate member of the Board of Appeals on Building Laws; Mrs. Orpha Zimmer, 24 Shady Hill road, Newton Highlands, as a

Sees Benefit For Merchants In Fare Boost

Newton merchants will benefit from the increase in the Metropolitan Transit Authority rates to 20 cents since shoppers will lean more toward local shopping, Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood predicted Monday.

Praising the MTA trustees for their stand, the mayor stated the fare increase would also help reduce the city's share of the transit system's annual deficit.

The failure to increase the fares would result in an increased burden on the taxpayer, said Mayor Lockwood in commending the trustees as "capable officials who are doing their job regardless of politics."

At present the annual deficit of the system is made up by assessments on the 14 communities directly served by the line. A deficit of well over $10,000,000 has been predicted for this year.

The MTA trustees are seeking permission to increase the fares by five cents per ride, with a 2 1/2-cent increase for students. Their petition sets Sunday, July 19, as the effective date of change.

The entire group (less two who were absent due to illness) met with Mr. W. M. Cahill, President and Treasurer of the bank, and with Mr. H. W. Kestle, Assistant Treasurer and Personnel Officer and were welcomed into the employ of the bank and were briefed as to the possibilities of the career which they have chosen and the responsibilities in undertaking this work. A group photograph was taken and one copy was given to every trainee as a memento of their initiation into the banking fraternity.

County Playhouse To Present Famed Muscula 'Carousel'

Rodgers and Hammerstein's memorable musical show, "Carousel," an American adaptation of Ferenc Molnar's play, "Lillom," will brighten the stage of the County Playhouse in Shoppers World, Framingham next week. "Carousel" includes some of the best songs of the past decade. Now considered "modern classics" are such tunes as "If I Loved You," "June Is Bustin' Out All Over," "You'll Never Walk Alone," and "What's the Use of Wonderin'?"

The complete Broadway cast of young and talented stars will be headed by Patricia Northrop, who played important roles in "South Pacific," "Pal Joey," and "Oklahoma;" Tom Rieder from the casts of "Call Me Madam," "Guys and Dolls," "Where's Charlie," and "Finian's Rainbow;" Barbara Cook who was seen in Boston two seasons ago in a series of Rodgers and Hammerstein presentations; and Donald Blackey, a young man from Newton, who has sung with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and similar organizations.

Featured with the production are the duo-pianists Victoria Crandall and Moreland Kartkamp who have presented more than one thousand concerts in this country and Canada in recent seasons under the sponsorship of Community Concerts.

N.C. House Sold

Alvord Brothers, Realtors, report the sale of an eight-room Gambrel-type single house with a detached, two-car garage at 261 Homer street, Newton Centre.

The Social and Community Welfare Committee of the Newton Lodge of Elks, under the chairmanship of Elk Leo Cannon, conducted a very pleasing and successful June dance at the Lodge house recently. This party concludes the social activities of the Lodge for the Summer and will be resumed in the Fall.

Leaves Boston Insurance Firm

Calvin A. Hill of 69 Pine Ridge road, Waban, has resigned from the marine claims department of the Boston Insurance Company to join the Boston agency of Clapp, Hill and Company.

A graduate of Bowdoin College in 1940, Mr. Hill served in the Army during World War II. Before joining Clapp, Hill and Company, he served in the marine department for seven years.

Little League Twin Bill Sat. At Albemarle

The Newton North Little League will play a double-header Saturday at Albemarle Little League Field at 1:30 p.m., according to an announcement by T. Frank Copp, president of the Newton North loop.

"This double header will make up two of the games which were rained out earlier in the season," Copp said. "It will also give the North League fans an opportunity to see all four teams in action."

The Dodgers, leading the league, will meet the Indians who are fighting to regain their number two spot now held by the Cardinals. Mike Plantadosi, the Dodgers' pitcher, has scheduled Dave Seeley as his starting pitcher. Dave will be gunning for his seventh little league no-hitter. Walter Olson will have hard hitting Bob Fitzpatrick on the mound for his Indians.

Tom Urell, whose Cardinals recently knocked the Indians out of second place, has promised to start classy Buddy Ryan against the last place Yankees. Yankee co-managers Rene Beauregard and Gordon Boucher are confident they can win with lanky Vern Rollins.

Highlight of the afternoon will be the announcement between games of the All Star team roster. The fourteen boys selected will carry the Newton North colors into tournament play. Last year the All Star team topped all competition to win the Greater Boston Little League championship.

A community can be torn down from the inside much more quickly than from the outside.

Temple Reyim Ends 2nd Year With 265 Families Members

Temple Reyim at 321 Chestnut street, West Newton, closed its second successful year of its establishment recently after growing from a group of 75 families to its present 265 families. Reyim, the Hebrew name for friends, was chosen by the Temple's founders who have made the Temple not just a center for worship and education but for the development of friendship among its member families.

This year closed with what is now a traditional family picnic. Programs for the monthly meetings were planned to interest both men and women. The programs included such notable as humorist Mark Strickland, soprano Mary Wolfson, a political debate just before elections, a book review on Hal Lehrman's "Israel, the Beginning and Tomorrow," and the annual Chanukah square dance.

The Sisterhood with its many varied programs and the Brotherhood with its begle and lox breakfast meetings helped to cement relations among the

A Parent-Teacher Association has been formed, emphasizing the better understanding between parent, teacher and child as well as the importance of the relationship between child and Temple.

Not only were the educational needs of the children taken care of by Rabbi Harold Kastle, one of Boston's foremost educators, the School Committee and the excellent teachers, but their need for entertainment was taken care of by holiday parties sponsored by the P.T.A.

The Youth Activities Committee, working closely with youth director Bernard Rosen, has established the successful Junior Co-Eds, the Adars and the High School Group. September will see an active set of programs for all from the 8-year-old on up to the young adult.

Classes in adult education were also formed, attracting a large attendance. Temple Reyim is the only temple in the Boston area that has women in executive positions and on the board of directors.

Political Overtones-

That's the whole purpose of raising fares,
and the issue at stake is whether the additional revenue the MTA must get somewhere
should come from taxes or from fares.

Some politicians seek to convey the idea that the deficit now rests solely on the shoulders of the property-owners of the 14 cities and towns. That is not the case, as they very well know, because landlords are allowed under the rent-control law to raise their rents when their tax bills go up.

Every home-owner and every rent-payer
in the area covered by the MTA are now paying a portion of the road's staggering operating loss. There are no free riders in that sense.

The trustees who managed the road during the Dever administration closed their eyes to a provision in the law which says that the officials in charge of the transit system are supposed to charge whatever fares are necessary to make it pay its own way.

Their see-no-evil, speak-no-evil, hear-no-evil and general do-nothing attitude didn't alter the fact that they were openly disregarding the law, and it didn't lighten the burden which had to be shifted in taxes to the property-owners in the 14 cities and towns.

To this observer it seems that the trustees appointed by Governor Herter are doing a good job.

It's unfortunate that the deficit is so high, but they inherited it from their predecessors. It's unfortunate that the fares have to be raised, but there's no alternative to that step, if the law is going to be observed.

For many months before Mr. Dever went out of office his trustees sat on their hands and did nothing except to shout down every suggestion and to announce piously that they wouldn't think of raising fares.

The new MTA trustees launched an effective economy program. They retired about 200 employees who had passed the age of 65, and they cut down their pay-rolls. The savings they achieved were not great in proportion to the amount of the road's losses, but at least they did something, and they stopped the upward trend
of the deficit.

Governor Herter in last fall's campaign
did not, of course, promise to prevent a fare rise. He did criticize the job the MTA trustees were doing, and he said the system needed a reorganization which his trustees are now undertaking to give it.

This writer doesn't like the prospect of paying a 20-cent fare any more than anyone else, but all the evidence now indicates that it costs more than 15 cents for the MTA to transport a passenger from Newton or West Roxbury.

It would be a much greater public service if the politicians shouting out against the coming fare increase would speak right up and tell what they would do about the situation.

The State Legislature, which wound up its business for the year and concluded its 1953 session early last Saturday morning, didn't give away the people's money in generous gobs, as did its predecessor of a year ago, and the record it achieved was a reasonably creditable one.

But we don't think that it quite merited
the extravagant praise lavished upon it by Director Norman MacDonald of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Associations who termed its session one that might be used as a model by future Legislatures.

As MacDonald declared, there were no
sleight-of-hand performances, in which bills
were whisked through in the early morning hours, while weary legislators nodded in their seats, and a good many measures were unceremoniously deposited in the ash can,
which was where they belonged.

But the legislators forgot all about the solemn promises they made at their special session last September, when they announced to the world that midnight meetings were a thing of the past and that never again would they sit in all-night proceedings and vote on important matters with their wits dulled by fatigue and weariness.

They not only held several late-night sessions, but they sat until nearly daybreak on the holiday morning, and they did precisely what they said they wouldn't do in order to avoid returning to the State House this week.

The fact that the Legislature's record was as good as it was can be attributed at least partly to the tight rein maintained by Governor Herter, to the manner in which his lieutenants carried out their roles and to the work of Speaker Charles Gibbons as the presiding officer in the House.

As a result of Governor Herter's assistance, this Legislature probably paved the way for a reduction in State income taxes
next year. That is the objective of the Her-ter administration and the achievement on which it hopes to campaign for reelection.

Representative Christian A. Herter, Jr., of Newton, the Governor's son, will resign
next week from the State Legislature and leave for Washington to assume his new duties as administrative aide to Vice President Nixon, and when he departs, Governor Herter will lose his ablest lieutenant.

Most observers believe that young Herter's service as an aide to Vice President Nixon will be only a temporary interruption
in his public career in Massachusetts and that he will return, possibly in 1956, to seek higher office.

Those who have watched his work, first
as a freshman legislator and then as a first lieutenant to his distinguished father, will both wish him well in his new job and regret his departure from the Massachusetts political scene.

An extremely able, hard-working and conscientious young man, he has been of invaluable assistance to his father during the past six months and has made a very substantial contribution to the record achieved by the Herter administration during the first quarter of its term.

This is an extraordinary situation which finds the legislator-son of the Governor of Massachusetts, voluntarily moving out of his father's political orbit and spotlight and shifting his own career to the nation's capital.

Letters to the Editor

A REPLY FROM SENATOR LEE

Editor, Newton Graphic:

I am sorry that Miss Kincare,
a State employee, thinks that any statements made in my communication of June 11 are either misleading or incorrect. Of course
one has to generalize a bit in discussing the employment status
of 30,000 State employees, working at a wide variety of jobs and divided into more than a dozen salary grades. I would like to comment on the objections which she raises.

1. VACATIONS. This scarcely requires comment. I doubt if anyone other than Miss Kincare assumed that annual vacations
were granted before the end of the first year.

2. PENSIONS. Actuaries. Actuaries consulted by the Committee on Pensions say that Massachusetts is the most liberal of the 48 states in its retirement allowances. Many employers in private industry match
the contributions of their employees by an equal amount. The State does much more. It contributes three times as much as the employees do, out of tax revenue, and pays up to 80 percent of the highest salary earned in some cases. The benefits which Miss Kincare can receive under the State system would cost her more than $30,000 if she purchased them from an insurance company in annuity form. If some company with an equal number of employees has a better plan, I would like to hear about it.

3. PARTICIPATION IN EL-ECTION CAMPAIGNS. I am glad to accept this lady's statement that she has never been called upon to campaign. Many other State employees are not so fortunate.

4. RAISES. I stated that since 1946 each State employee had received at least $1,380 in raises. The young lady claims
she has not received this amount.
Let's look at the record.

Chapter 309, Acts of 1946,
granted $400.80 to $600.00 for each employee. This took the place of some temporary raises then in effect and that may be the cause of her disagreement.

Chapter 331, Acts of 1948
granted at least one annual increment to all classified employees. Increments run from $120 to $300.

Chapter 785, Acts of 1949,
gave a flat $360 increase to each classified employee.

Chapter 715, Acts of 1951, another $420 for each position.

According to my figures, this gives raises of $1,380 to the lowest paid classified employees, and up to $1,680 to those in higher brackets. This has more than doubled the salary of junior clerks and attendant nurses,
while the earnings of many taxpayers who contribute these salaries have failed to rise in proportion. It is regrettable that some State employees fail to appreciate what they have.

RICHARD H. LEE.

END CONTROLS

Editor, Newton Graphic:

It is apparent from many sources that tenants in general are getting nervous about the lifting of rent controls. It was an entirely different matter
when during rent freezes, the property owners might have been getting the short end of the deal.

Just as an example, a modern five-room apartment rented for $35 a month in 1936. In this specific case, the renter's salary was $34 per week. Today his salary is $97 per week. His rent has only been increased to $45 per month.

Another case—the rent was $40 per month; the renter was earning $38.50 per week. His rent has been increased to $57. His salary is now over $100 per week.
There are innumerable cases exactly like these. Therefore, we do not believe that rent controls should continue.

For the conscientious landlord who has been considerate of the comfort of his fellow human's comfort, these controls have been a decided hardship.

Let these controls "die a natural death" as of July 31. There is no housing shortage either in Newton or in other parts of the state.

BERNARDO PESCOLIDO

Youths-

MDC, testified she summoned
police aid "as a result of information that trouble was brewing."

On that Sunday, she said,
about 30 or 40 youths suddenly ran from the building, "creating a general commotion." They ran across the footbridge over the Charles River and up a narrow path toward the Riverside railroad station, Mrs. Ahearn continued.

She testified she heard later
that someone had been attacked
by a gang of youths. The commotion, Mrs. Ahearn stated, has disturbed her for the past week
"over this fear of some youngster being hurt."

Under questioning by the defense attorney, she admitted that the boys previously had not caused her any trouble, although they had been coming to Riverside for the past four years.
She testified she saw no assault.

William H. Johnson of the MDC police, who was the complaining officer, told Judge Mayberry he earlier had tried to break up the "unusual number"
of teen-aged boys in groups
about the area.

He also had not seen the actual assault which took place on the railroad bridge near the Riverside station. After hearing of trouble, he came across the 19

boys walking along Route 128
near Commonwealth avenue, questioned them and then took them to the MDC station near Norumbega Park.

His investigation showed, Officer Johnson said, that there was "supposed to be a gang war between Cambridge and Newton."
Other witnesses appearing were Sgt. Thomas H. McCormick of the Newton Police Department; Fred Lockwood, who was in the Boston and Albany tower
at Riverside when the assault happened; and Mr. Carroll, who described the assault but was unable to identify any of the defendants. None of the defendants took the stand to testify.

The defense attorney described police as "touchy" over possible
gang warfare, and claimed that all the boys did was to run out of the recreation area. They did not participate in any battle, he stated.

Earlier last week, 12 Newton
boys who staged a retaliatory invasion of Cambridge faced trial
in East Cambridge District Court.
Their cases were continued without finding until October 1, but Judge John J. Crehan ordered the teen-agers to stay out of that city unless accompanied by their parents.

Elected Grand Trustee

Jerry Leone of Newton, was re-elected grand trustee of Massachusetts Grand Lodge, Order of Sons of Italy, at 39th annual convention at Oceanside Hotel
in Magnolia this week.

These Eyes

have seen the fury . . .

She's just a little girl. She has brown eyes, but you wouldn't notice that. All you would see in them was the sadness and lonely terror.

The two biggest things in the world to her were her Mommy and Daddy. Now, Mommy and Daddy were gone. Don't ask her why.
She couldn't tell you.

One minute they were with her, tucking her into bed and saying,
"Good Night." The next she was alone in her crib, two walls and the ceiling of her room were gone . . . and so were her Mommy and Daddy.

Darkness and cold rain plummeted down on her frightened, trembling body. Around her was an angry, buzzing whirl of sound—high-pitched screams, splintering timber, rattling tin, clattering stones . . . then, rain-hushed silence.

She broke the silence. The only way a child knows how. All the lonely terror in her tiny heart tumbled down her cheeks in tears.

That's how they found her. Alone in her crib, crying.

They dug her Mommy and Daddy out of the debris two hundred yards away . . . but her parents will never know their little girl was crying.

The Worcester tornado left a wake of broken hearts and gutted homes.

You can't mend hearts with money. You can mend homes and hope the hearts will heal in time.

You help rebuild the homes and the hearts when you donate to the Central Massachusetts Disaster Relief Fund. Your money breathes life into a stricken city, your unselfishness and compassion for your fellowman brings hope to broken hearts.

So, give all you can today. Don't be ashamed if your contribution can only be a dime or a dollar. Give it gladly, give all you can, thank God you're here giving . . . not there searching for the tattered remnants of your life amid the rubble.

GIVE all you can spare . . . GOD SPARED YOU!

ree Troop 15. They will travel in the "Yankee Special" via Chicago, Omaha, Laramie and Salt Lake City, arriving at the Jamboree on July 13. Their homeward trip will bring them to the Grand Coulee Dam, Glacier National Park, St. Paul and Chicago before their arrival in Boston July 30.

Two other special trains, the "Nor'easter Special" and the "Lobster Special" will carry additional Scouts from New England Councils to the same sight-seeing spots and the Jamboree campsite. Each train will be operated under the direction of a competent Scout official and a railroad representative. A licensed physician will travel with each of the trains to assure the well being of all Scouts.

From New England to Chicago the Scouts will travel in air-conditioned coaches. From Chicago to East Los Angeles and return, each Troop will be quartered in its own Pullman car.

The Jamboree Scouts will have the opportunity, in advance of the official opening on July 17, for excursions to the RKO Movie Ranch, Long Beach Naval Base, Knott's Berry Farm, the Lock head Aircraft plant, Griffith Zoo, the oil fields and Catalina Island. They will also visit near by Huntington State Park Beach for surf bathing.

Program features of the Jamboree will start on Friday, July 17, with an evening pageant depicting the history and growth of the missions 450 years ago. On Sunday, July 19, there will be morning worship services conducted simultaneously in open-air chapels, and a massive evening convocation for the entire encampment highlighted with special music and an impressive candle lighting ceremony. On Tuesday, Hollywood will salute the Boy Scouts of America with a star-studded show topped by a grand finale of fireworks. Thursday there will be a Cavalcade of Scouting in the Jamboree area, a gigantic story and demonstration of Scouting skills with thousands of Scouts taking part. Interesting afternoon programs will include rodeos, variety shows, and spectacular demonstrations of Scoutcraft and skills.

A Jamboree brings together boys from all walks of life, of all races and creeds, to live together.

er, exchange skills, swap hometown products and learn about the customs and traditions of many sections of the nation and foreign lands. It is a practical demonstration of our democratic way of life. The Scout Oath and Law guide the operation of each Patrol and Troop, and the great camp itself.

Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts and the Camp Chief, states, "The Jamboree will dramatize proper camping skills, unit organization and operation through the Patrol method, trained functioning leadership and sectional camp leadership, all a living example of the Scout Method."

Living with American boys throughout the camp will be Scouts of other lands, invited to represent their nations' Scouting organizations. There are more than fifty other countries to be represented.

This 3rd National Jamboree will be held on the Irvine Ranch, located in Orange County, California — whose 90,000 acres stretch for miles along the Pacific Ocean. Originally a Spanish land grant, the Ranch is devoted to the raising of alfalfa, beans and citrus fruits. The Jamboree campsite will be on a 3,000 acre plateau facing Newport Harbor, overlooking the Pacific Ocean and Santa Catalina Island.

Each of the 33,000 tents will have an ocean view and Scouts will be able to see more than half of the entire Jamboree City from every Troop site. The camp is divided by a large ravine, which forms a natural amphitheatre at one end.

A National Jamboree stimulates interest in Scouting for both those within and without the organization. The previous two Jamborees — the last was held at Valley Forge in 1950 — stimulated an interest in the geography and history of the route to the Jamboree site, impressed upon Scouts the value of proper appearance and other aspects of Scoutcraft, and made the boys at home want to "live up" to the fine reputation their buddies created at the Jamboree.

On board the "Yankee Special" with the Norumbega Scouts will be Scouts and their leaders from Councils whose headquarters are in Boston, Leominster, Framingham, Lexington, Walpole, Cambridge, Lynn, Salem, Northampton and Haverhill in Massachusetts; all Councils in Vermont; and from Councils in Hartford, Bristol, New Britain and Middletown in Connecticut. The train today (Thursday morning, July 9) will depart from Boston early 9) and will return the fun-filled Scouts on July 30.

tainers had been placed in all stores and mercantile establishments throughout the entire city. Wilfred Chagnon, president of the Newton Chamber of Commerce, who procured the metal containers for the committee, stated that additional containers were being secured for further distribution in other business establishments.

Harold T. Pillsbury, Chairman of the Mayor Lockwood Worcester County Disaster Committee, made the following comment:

"I've heard it said — Why contribute inasmuch as homeowners losses will be paid off by insurance companies."

"One answer, I'm happy to relate, is as follows:

"All tornado victims are not homeowners waiting for insurance settlements and with a few dollars in the bank to tide them over.

"Thousands of the homeless were tenants many of whom didn't have insurance, even on their furniture. They were folks that were just getting by on what was coming in each week and in many cases spending a little more than came in each week."

"Because a man was caught by the tornado without a dime in the world is no reason to let his family go hungry. And there were a lot of such wage earners killed or hurt in the tornado. Perhaps we are penalizing the thrifty, but that's the way it's been as long as any of us can remember, and if you or I could remedy that situation, it will be a bigger story than the big blow."

"But under this system of local and charitable agencies, those who have more or less personal knowledge of the needs, caring for relief and then seeking reimbursement out of the generosity of donors to the fund, we believe we are proceeding with wisdom."

"Yet, all of a sudden, in time of great trouble, many of them learned that 'A brother helped by a brother is a strong city.'"

"If you have any doubt, remember — God Spared You — Give All You Can Spare."

Folks who clamor most for equality know a few people they are going to snub if they ever get their hands on some money.

Utilities Commission Has No Alternative on Fare Rise . . .

Friday's Hearing a Case of Going Through the Motions . . .

Even though four of the five members of the State Public Utilities Commission are appointees of ex-Governor Dever, there is virtually no question but that they will approve the proposed increase to a 20-cent fare on the MTA.

They actually have no alternative in the matter, and after the last protest is voiced at Friday's public hearing there will be no real course open to them but to sanction the rise in fares.

Because of the time element involved the new fare schedule probably will not go into effect next Sunday, as the MTA trustees requested, but it is almost certain that it will be operative by a week from Sunday.

If a majority of the utilities commission decided to block the fare increase, a group of property-owners, who have to make up part of the MTA deficit in the real estate taxes, could and probably would take them into court and compel them to approve it.

Confidence in Gov't Restored By Gov. Herter, Says Rawson

Gov. Christian A. Herter's accomplishments to date "constitute an impressive record unmatched in many years," Rep. George E. Rawson of Newton declared this week, crediting the governor with restoring "the confidence of the people of Massachusetts in their government."

"The wild spending of the last four years has been stopped," declared the representative. "Nine million dollars less was spent than last year, even after cleaning up the obligations left by the last administration, and there is ground for hoping for tax reductions next year. There are no new taxes this year."

"There is a more favorable climate for business and industry. Request reporting, so-called, will cost industry and the state less for unemployment compensation and hasten the return of merit rating."

"The new Department of Commerce will be a great help to business, as will also the governor's new credit corporation, financed entirely by private capital. "Reorganizations of the Department of Corporations and Taxation, the Port of Boston Authority, the Milk Control Board and the M.T.A., plus the beach development bills and the return of rent control to the cities and towns, constitute an impressive record unmatched in many years."

Rep. Rawson pointed out that the governor had received "the full cooperation" of both branches of the legislature for his program. He credited House Speaker Charles Gibbons of Stoneham with putting through the governor's program despite a slight majority of only six votes at first and later eight.

"As a member of the governor's party in the House, I am happy to have had a part in this record. I wish my constituents to know that I supported Governor Herter on all of his recommendations, for all were definitely in the public interest," Rep. Rawson concluded.

Taxpayers Group Advocates Publication of Assessments

Publication of a listing of all real estate valuations every five years was advocated by the Newton Taxpayer's Association this week in the current edition of the bulletin "Taxpayer's Topics."

According to the bulletin, the publication of the assessed values would enable each resident to determine just where he stood in the tax structure of the city. The public notice would also tend to level out inequitable valuations.

tions and might even result in a complete revaluation of Newton.

The Association directors declared that the issuance of such a listing would definitely accelerate citywide agreement on real estate taxes.

However, the bulletin stated, "it is believed that the market is becoming more stabilized now, and perhaps a complete overhaul will soon become advantageous to the city and equitable for the citizens. Factors which still make the short term period uncertain are the fate of rent control, the location of the toll road and the equitable assessment of properties which are nominally single family residences but which actually are multi-family business investments."

RENT CONTROLS VOTED OUT BY THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN

Deny House Use for Dormitory

B.C. Request Turned Down By Aldermen

By a vote of 10 to 5, the Board of Aldermen at its meeting Monday night, turned down the request of Boston College for permission to use a two-family house at 38 Commonwealth avenue, Chestnut Hill, as a dormitory.

Chairman Ernest G. Angevine of the Claims and Rules Committee stated that a public hearing held on the request of the college to conduct a dormitory near the campus, opposition was expressed by two abutters, including a trustee of the Baptist Home for Aged. He said that the college trustees assured the Board that there would be no noise in the dormitories, where lights would go out at 11 p.m.

Urging the granting of the dormitory permit, Alderman Leo M. Cannon pointed out that the college has owned the property for many years and that it would be conducted under strict control with no parties and no noise. Denied also was the petition of Franklin N. Flaschner, attorney

3-Month Term Suspended on Bookie Charge

A Cambridge man who took bets on horses while handing out coffee and doughnuts from his canteen truck was given a three-month suspended sentence Saturday morning in Newton District Court.

John F. Barry of 76 Fairmont street, Cambridge, pleaded innocent to a charge of "registering bets on the speed of horses" but admitted a finding of guilty. He was placed on probation from a term in the House of Correction until December 12 by Judge W. Lloyd Allen.

Testifying for the Newton Police Department, Lt. John N. McMullen reported that Barry was seen writing bets Friday on Chapel street, Newton, near the Raytheon plant. When arrested at about 1 p.m., a slip of paper listing several bets was found on him.

Bold N'ville Bandit Nets Nearly $400

An unmasked armed bandit apparently made a clean getaway last Thursday after taking $391 in a daring noon robbery of a Newtonville variety store owner as the victim was preparing to take the money to a bank.

Avedis (John) Boyajian of 41 Harrington street, Newtonville, was alone in his store, the Oakley Spa at 979 Washington street, Newtonville, when the holdup occurred. He ran after the gunman and saw him drive off toward Watertown but the criminal eluded a police search.

Mr. Boyajian told police the bandit entered his store at about 11:30 a.m. and handed him a $5 bill for a package of cigarettes. As he changed the bill, the man suddenly demanded all the money in the cash register, enforcing his demand by partially exposing a revolver in his jacket pocket.

The victim handed over $391 to the robber. The money represented several days' receipts and was mainly in $10 bills. The gunman then ordered Mr. Boyajian to go in the rear of his store and stay there.

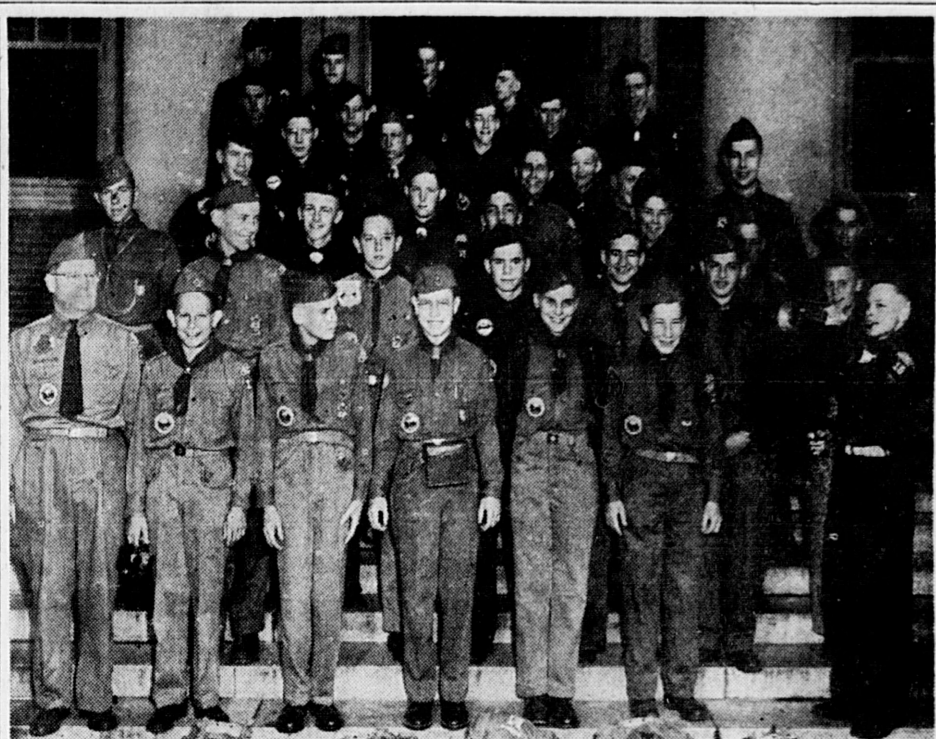

After the man left, Mr. Boyajian dashed into the street in time to see him climb into a black sedan parked on Walker street and drive towards Watertown.

Mr. Boyajian described the holdup man as being 5 feet 8 inches tall, about 35 years old, brown hair, tanned complexion, and wearing a sport shirt and a blue and gray suit.

In Piano Recital

The pupils of Mrs. Elizabeth Lawry presented a piano recital recently in the All-Newton Music School.

Those taking part included Martha Hayes, Peter Bergsman, Diane Fisher, Linda Bergsman, Judith Matson, Richard Hartnett, Joanne Valley, Gail McClain, Richard Knapp, Richard Haldane, John Bignoyottatoin Haldane, John Boyington, Robert Craig, Dorothea Goudas, David Craig, Anna Cochran and Warren Knapp.

ATTENTION, with overtones of "California Here I Come," is sounded by Bugler J. Dixon Bergman as these wide-eyed Newton, Wellesley and Weston Scouts muster for final instruction before starting for the third national Boy Scout jamboree to be held July 17-23 at Santa Ana, Cal. Special police escorts accompanied the Scouts to Boston where they boarded the "Yamkee Special," one of three special trains taking nearly 1,100 New England Scouts westward to the jamboree and scenic stops across the nation.

Bike Clinics At Playgrounds Teach Safety

Police-Recreation Department Bicycle Safety Clinics are continuing into their second week at playgrounds throughout the city under the supervision of Chief Philip Purcell of the Newton Police Department and C. Evan Johnson, recreation commissioner.

The purpose of the clinic is to teach bicycle safety rules, road courtesy, hand signals and traffic awareness. Chief Purcell stated that a complete understanding will improve the attitude and skills of the bicycle rider. He further stated that with approximately 38,000 automobiles and 10,000 active bicy-

Rep. Herter Resigns State Post 'With Deepest Regret'

Announcing his resignation with "deepest regret," Rep. Christian A. Herter, Jr., gave up his seat in the state legislature this week to go to Washington as an aide to the vice-president.

However, the West Newton representative indicated that his departure from the local political scene may not be permanent, stating that he was leaving the state "for the time being at least."

Rep. Herter praised the residents of Newton, Newtonville and West Newton for being "understanding and intelligent about the problems on Beacon Hill" and thanked them for their confidence. The open letter written by Rep. Herter follows:

"It is with deepest regret that I resign my position as your representative to the general court. For reasons which are not altogether easy to explain, but which I hope you will understand, I plan to leave the State of Massachusetts, for the time being at least. I have accepted an offer of the vice-president to come to Washington as his Assistant.

"It would be extremely ungrateful on my part were I not, with utmost sincerity, to thank you one and all for the confidence you have placed in me as your representative. It is doubtful whether another district exists in the State where the voters are as understanding and intelligent about the problems on Beacon Hill and about the role their representative must play up there. It has been an unusual pleasure to serve you, and I have tried to be conscientious and competent.

"My warmest good wishes to yourselves and your families."

Aldermen to "Keep Eyes" On Situation

Controls over Newton rentals were voted out as of the end of July by the Board of Aldermen Monday night before a noisy, demonstrative audience of tenants and renters overflowing the aldermanic chamber at City Hall.

However, the aldermen also voted to "keep their eyes" on the rental situation, serving notice that controls might be reimposed and rents rolled back if the lifting produces "an excessive increase."

The 16-2 vote on the lifting of controls came after a 40-minute discussion punctuated by cheers and handclapping by nearly 500 spectators. At one point, when Alderman Winfield C. Anderson was interrupted by cries of "Sit down, sit down," President of the Board Wendell R. Bauckman threatened to clear the chamber unless the demonstration ceased.

The only discussion on the controls came between Alderman Anderson, who entered the motion for their continuance, and Alderman Earle D. Wood, who opposed their extension. No public hearing was scheduled, although many residents appeared at City Hall under that impression.

About 150 persons, attracted by a newspaper advertisement indicating they would be allowed to express their opinions, were waiting outside the aldermanic chambers at 7:30 p.m.

Their presence forced Monte Basbas, assistant city clerk, to post a notice that there would be no opportunity for them to "let their hands be counted" as advertised. Most of them remained for the aldermen's meeting which got under way at 9 p.m.

Alderman Anderson, who said his "primary interest" in seeking a vote on controls was to have the aldermen take definite action one way or another, recommended keeping the controls in effect until a referendum could be included in the November municipal voting.

Newton Red Cross Chapter Still Aiding in Tornado Work

Over a month has passed since the June 9th tornado struck the Worcester area. In that time what has the Newton Chapter of The American Red Cross done to assist in the relief of suffering in this neighboring community where already over 1350 families have applied for Red Cross rehabilitation need?

only the night of June 9th but during the days since then. In cooperation with Civil Defense, blankets and cots were driven to Worcester immediately. The 50 welfare inquiries processed here were only a few of the 5338 which poured into the Worcester Chapter within four days.

When the Worcester Chapter asked Newton for assistance, Red Cross did "answer the call," not

The Newton Chapter received many offers of donations of used clothing. However, in accordance with instructions from Worcester, they were not accepted because clothing needs were being adequately met by the generosity of people in that locality.

When Newton Red Cross received a call for personnel assistance, nine graduate nurses gave volunteer time — Mrs. Esther Abend, Miss Julia Dobosz, Mrs. Lela E. Hare, Miss Gladys E. MacBey, Miss Eleanor Madden, Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, Mrs. Edwina J. Thompson, Mrs. Blanche Sherer and Miss Jessica Tulloch. Mrs. Frances Caine also responded along with others whose services could not be used at the time.

The following Nurses' Aides reported at Worcester hospitals:

Mrs. Harold Amidon, Mrs. Margaret Boudreau, Miss Catherine Conington, Mrs. Edward Farmer, Mrs. Helen Garrepy, Mrs. Walter Hartford, Mrs. Ruth Hebb, Mrs. Charles Henley, Mrs. Edith MacDonald, Mrs. Robert W. Moore, Jr., Miss Patricia Nagle, Mrs. Eleanor Perry, Mrs. Celestine Saleeby, Mrs. Ralph Schoonmaker.

Not to be outdone by the female members of their group, the following Male Nurses' Aides proved the value of the enviable record of Nurse Aide service: Mr. E. Graham Bates, Mr. Robert MacKinnon, Mr. Charles Mullins, Mr. Will G. Wilton and Mr. Robert R. Walker.

The following members of Newton Red Cross Motor Service assisted in many and varied ways: Mr. David Blackall, Mrs. Robert Brandt, Mrs. Beneville Clark, Mrs. David L. Coffin, Mr. Robert B. Cooper, Mrs. Robert M. P. Kennard, Miss Margaret Magoley, Mrs. Bruno Mickleit, Mrs. Muriel Murphy, Mr. Leigh Packer, Mrs. Paul Shipman.

Mrs. Marie Myers and Mrs. George E. Rawson reported at Amcross, the Red Cross Telecommunications Center in Boston and assisted in the welfare inquiry work there.

Newton Chapter gratefully announces that over $1000 has been received directly toward the National Red Cross disaster expenditures in the Worcester area.

The job of disaster relief in Worcester, as elsewhere throughout any emergency, could not be done without the Red Cross credo of "people helping people."

New Citizens Are Joining Swim Classes

Newton citizens are showing interest in the Red Cross swimming classes for adults being held as a part of the Red Cross "Learn-to-swim" program at Crystal Lake, Newton Center. Adult instruction is given on Tuesday evenings from 8 to 7 and 7 to 8 through August 18th. Adults may register when reporting for the classes on Tuesday evening.

The following children passed the Beginners Test the week of July 6th: Calvin Bates, Marshall Drummond and Karen Swainson. Jay Bryant, Frances Fleming and Sheryl Waugh passed the test for Intermediates.

American Legion Auxiliary

Mrs. Mary Wragg, president, with Mrs. Gladys Newcomb, Mrs. Julia T. Mullan and Miss Julia V. Mullan, past presidents, of Needham Unit No. 14, attended the Department Convention of the American Legion Auxiliary held at the New Ocean House, Swampscott June 4, 5 and 6.

New York Central Shopping List Now Totals $189 Million a Year

1. YOU'D EXPECT New York Central to be a big buyer of iron and steel products. And it is. Last year, it bought 150,000 tons. But your Railroad is also a major farm customer. To stock dining cars and work trains, it spent $4 million on milk, meat, fruit, vegetables and other food in '52.

2. TIM-M-BER! Naturally, Central needs lots of locomotive fuel. Last year, it purchased 4,685,000 tons of coal and 197,500,000 gallons of diesel oil. But it takes wood as well to run a railroad. In 1952, Central paid $13 million for cross-ties, lumber and other forest products.

3. 150,000 ITEMS are included on Central's shopping list. They range from hard rock for track ballast to soft, foam rubber for upholstery. And from tons of paper for tickets to diamonds for drills in New York Central's shops. In 1952, the total bill for purchases came to $189 MILLION!

4. EVERYBODY'S CUSTOMER! Besides the things it buys, New York Central pays wages, salaries, payroll taxes and pensions of $493 million a year. Most of that is spent in local stores along the line. One more way your Railroad helps business in your town and state. And that's always the CENTRAL DEAL!

Senators Again Cop Pennant In Newton East Minor League

The Minor League of Newton East Little League has completed its second successful season with the Newton Centre Senators winning the pennant for the second year in a row. The Thompsonville Athletics finished second and the Chestnut Hill Phillies and Oak Hill Cubs third and fourth.

Credit for a most successful season belongs to John O'Brien of Oxford road, Newton Centre, who was Director of the Minor League Farm system, and to the managers and coaches. Last year O'Brien managed the Senators' farm team to its first pennant. He has two sons in Little League, Jack who played with the Senators major league champion team, and Tommy, who was with the minors.

Both O'Brien and Clarke Fisher, president of Newton East, have credited the success of the Minor League to the managers and their assistants who generously gave their time to the boys throughout the season.

Harry Woollard of 53 Bontempo road, Newton Centre, managed the champion Senators. Woollard was a track and field star at Brookline High School and the Rivers Country Day School, and played in the Cape League before World War II. This was his second year of Little League work. He has three sons, two of whom are Little Leaguers; Hal was an outfielder with the Senators Major League Team, and Howie a second baseman with the Minor League Champion Senators. Woollard was assisted by Charlie Delaney, Doug Alton and Mat Gondolfo. Gene Blinn of 13 Oakmont road, Newton Centre, managed the second place Thompsonville Athletics for his second year of Little League activity. Blinn is a graduate of Dorchester Boys' High School, Northeastern and Northeastern Law School. He played for the Pennons in Dorchester and is an assistant scoutmaster. As a Scout, Blinn earned all 16 merit badges. He has one son, Eddie, who played for the Major League Thompsonville Athletics. Blinn was assisted by George Franklin.

Charlie Gallagher of 143 Wiswall road, Newton Centre, led the Oak Hill Cubs in his first year in Little League. Gallagher has an illustrious athletic background. He captained both the basketball and baseball teams at our Lady's in Newton and played basketball and baseball at Providence College. In 1938 he went south with the Cleveland Indians and then spent the next three years playing in the Cleveland farm system.

Last year Gallagher coached the American Legion Junior Baseball team and won the Middlesex County Championship. He has coached Our Lady's basketball team for the past several years and has won several Catholic League titles. He has two girls and one boy. Gallagher was assisted by Bill Duane.

Al Abramson of 252 Upland road, Newton Centre, piloted the Chestnut Hill Phillies. He is a former director of the Hawks Athletic Club in Roxbury and played first base and the outfield in the Suburban Two League. Abramson is Athletic director of the Temple Emanuel Athletic Club and managed its baseball team. Herb Cohen was his assistant manager.

An ironical aspect of the controversy being waged over the proposed fare rise is that the law provides that the MTA must charge whatever fare is necessary to cover its operating expenses.

The legislators now protesting against the increase know that, but most of them did nothing to change the law, and if they did wipe out that provision it would be tantamount to declaring that the home-owners must bear the brunt of any deficit incurred by the road.

It's highly unfortunate that the MTA trustees must raise fares because the loss in patronage which follows the rise may cause still another headache for the financially hard pressed road.

But if the trustees are going to comply with the law under which they are operating they have no other choice.

Chairman David M. Brackman of the State Public Utilities Commission made that clear when he was questioned concerning the attitude of his board to the fare rise.

He said there is really only one question which will determine whether his commission approves the fare increase. That is whether the MTA is taking in enough money to cover its operating expenses. There isn't anyone in Massachusetts who doesn't know the answer to that question.

At Friday's hearing the MTA officials will submit figures showing that the transit system is operating at a staggering loss and will cite the law which says that they must fix fares at a figure which will enable the road to meet expenses.

Then a small army of politicians will go through the motions of putting up a great fight in behalf of the car-riders. The time for their fight was when the Legislature was in session and new laws could be enacted. If they had any ideas as to how the MTA deficit could be reduced, they should have advanced them then. It's a little late to start screaming now, particularly when they haven't yet advanced a constructive idea on the subject.

Legislature Has Regained People's Respect

Governor Herter declared the other day that the outstanding accomplishment of the 1953 Legislature was the regaining of public confidence and trust. He said he would place that at the top of this year's legislative achievements.

The Governor explained that he considered it vitally important that the people have faith in their State's great law-making body because, he pointed out, there is no substitute for the legislative branch of the government.

His remarks brought home to his listeners that this Legislature by its conduct over the first six months of the year did undo at least some of the harm caused by the prorogation scandal of a year ago.

The public did lose confidence in the 1952 Legislature because some of the leaders in that body broke faith with the people, and it could have tragic results if it were not regained.

The angry outburst of public protests, which followed the shocking disclosures of the "gold rush" that occurred just before the 1952 Legislature prorogued, probably had a good deal to do with the fact that the political tide shifted in Massachusetts last November.

The sudden attitude of some of the legislators, as they returned to a history-making special session last September and wiped out their own generous pension privileges, did little to alleviate the public indignation over what had transpired some 10 weeks earlier.

When the 1953 Legislature began its session last January, its leaders realized that the public had adopted an attitude of wary watchfulness and were waiting to see what was going to happen.

Under strong suggestions from Governor Herter an extremely tight rein was maintained by Republican chieftains over the Legislature during the year, and legislative course was planned with unusual care and prudence.

The legislators were quietly informed that it was going to be a year of real austerity as far as they were concerned. There were to be no sumptuous feasts and no junkets at public expense. If the law-makers felt impelled to do any travelling in connection with their official duties, they could pay their own expenses and pick up their own checks.

Governor Herter set an example by ordering 75-cent lunches for himself and the Governor's Council in place of the elaborate dinners that the year before ran as high as $23 per plate, and it didn't take the legislators long to realize that he meant exactly what he said.

The result was that only two legislative committees made trips away from the State House. Its members paid their own expenses, and the meals on which the law-makers dined were a little more modest than in the past because they were picking up their own tabs.

Pressure from various groups seeking special favors during the year was pretty sturdily resisted, with the legislative leaders working to set the stage for a sharp reduction in the State income tax in 1954.

Even the State employees, a formidable political group who were considered to have gone Republican in the 1952 election, were turned down in their demands for a salary increase, although they made out a pretty good case to show they were entitled to one.

A public realization gradually developed that this was a serious-minded Legislature intent upon doing the job assigned to it, and the people's confidence and faith that were lost in the 1952 prorogation scandal were gradually recovered.

Some criticism has been directed at the action of the legislators in voting themselves even more liberal expense allowances than they enjoyed in 1952.

Actually, however, they adopted the recommendations made by a committee appointed by the Governor to study the problem, and for those lawmakers who live at too great distances from the State House to go home for the night the expense accounts were not over-generous.

A legitimate complaint might well be made against the payment of a $400-a-year expense allowance to legislators residing within a 15-cent car ride of the State House, and there it is a matter of opinion whether they should get any expense money at all.

That action, however, was overshadowed by savings in other directions, and the overall legislative record was an extremely creditable one.

Some lawmakers were determined to enact some kind of pension law for themselves, but moves of that nature were squelched and pigeon-holed.

A major share of the credit for the commendation this 1953 Legislature received belongs to tall, hard-working Speaker Charles Gibbons who a little over a year ago at this time was in an opposite political camp from Governor Herter, plugging for Senator Robert A. Taft at the G.O.P. national convention while Herter worked for Eisenhower.

The two branches of the Legislature, of course, are of equal importance and stature, and no law can be adopted until it has received the approval of both bodies.

But Gibbons presided over a House with 240 members, and on a percentage basis his party's margin of numerical superiority was substantially smaller than the comfortable edge it enjoyed in the 40-member Senate.

It is considerably more difficult to maintain a high degree of party discipline in the bigger House with three and a half times as many members, and the same political camaraderie does not exist there between legislators of opposite political parties as in the Senate.

Next to Governor Herter himself, the Republican whose stature mounted most during the first half of 1953 was the soft-spoken, Kentucky-born Gibbons who has become one of the outstanding leaders in his adopted state.

The second half of the record of this Legislature remains to be written in 1954. Gibbons and other G.O.P. chieftains predict that much of the work done during the past six months will pay dividends next year. If that is true, the legislative record should be one of the most important Republican assets in the 1954 campaign.

Accused of stealing an automobile in Elyria, Ohio, Crawford Casebolt explained to unsympathetic police that he needed a car in order to report to authorities in Tennessee where he is on parole for the theft of an auto.

A survey has shown that the average doctor in the United States devotes seven hours a day to caring for charity patients. Some, of course, give considerably more time than to treating persons unable to pay for their services.

Two soldiers at Fort Sill, Okla., last week tried to get out of the army under an 1880 law providing that a man could leave the service if he bought his uniform. The law was suspended in 1940 by President Roosevelt until April, 1953, but on March 31 Congress extended the suspension until July 1. The army hopes to have it repealed before then.

Leroy Bernhard of St. Louis stopped three burglars as they were making a getaway after holding up a drugstore, demanded an explanation for bumping into his parked car, was told to shut up and hand over his wallet.

After Mr. and Mrs. Martin Dolezar were granted a divorce in Dallas, they agreed on a division of their mutually owned property. To the surprise of attorneys they specified that Mrs. Dolezar would get the family automobile and Mr. Dolezar the washing machine.

A prankster who took a police prowl car from in front of a restaurant in Morristown, Tenn., and parked it eight blocks away, explaining that he felt the police should be broken of the habit of leaving ignition keys in their cars and that he desired to "teach them a lesson." We trust that the officers appreciated his motives.

Tokyo statistics disclose that crime is not one of the more lucrative occupations in that city. Burglars net an average of 14 cents a day, pickpockets and petty thieves about 10 cents.

Liquified Gas Much Hotter Than Regular; More Explosive

For a number of years liquified petroleum gases have been used as fuel outside the reach of city gas mains. A common arrangement has been the use of portable cylinders of the liquified gas, kept in a cabinet outside of the building. These are refilled or replaced by full ones at intervals as required.

Liquified petroleum gases consist principally of butane or propane or a mixture of the two. They are obtained from petroleum and natural gas wells. Propane and butane are much more volatile than gasoline and remain a liquid only while kept under suitable pressure. The hazard of these products in the gaseous state is similar to that of natural or manufactured gas, somewhat increased by the fact that they are much heavier. As they are heavier than air they have a tendency to collect in low spots and to diffuse slowly, requiring careful attention to ventilation of rooms where they may collect. In the liquid state the hazard is somewhat greater than that of gasoline because of the pressure under which it is stored.

The storage tanks are preferably installed above ground to permit thorough and regular inspection of the tanks and connections and to prevent the corrosion which might occur if buried. Tanks not over 1,200 gallons individual water capacity, when installed either underground or above-ground, should be located at least 25 feet from the nearest important building or group of buildings, or line of adjoining property which may be built upon; for tanks of over 1,200 gallons individual capacity, the minimum distance from buildings or property lines should be 50 feet. No liquid storage container should exceed 30,000 standard U. S. gallons capacity.

Tanks used exclusively for gas manufacturing or distributing and industrial operations should be installed on substantial masonry foundations and never on unprotected steel supports. In the case of bulk storage in heavily populated or congested areas, the authority having jurisdiction should determine restrictions of individual tank capacity, total storage, and distance to nearest important building or group of buildings, or line of property which may be built upon, and also the fire protection facilities needed. Tanks should be so located in respect to railroads and highways as not to be subject to damage.

Safety devices for relief of excessive internal pressure in tanks are essential, due to the increase pressure inside the tanks as temperatures increase. It is evident therefore, that if a tank is exposed to heat or a fire the pressure will dangerously increase. Safety relief devices should be piped vertically upward to a point at least 7 feet above the container.

The usual practice in using liquified petroleum gases in town gas plants is to vaporize the liquid by heat and mix the vapor with air before conveying it through the street piping system. Industrial systems frequently operate in the same way. Heat must be applied to increase the rate of vaporization.

This liquified gas is much hotter than regular city gas and is much more explosive, therefore everyone using this product should use the utmost care at all times to see that only safe practices are used.

7 Children in N.C. Collect $8 to Aid Worcester Fund

Seven children living on Westbourne road, Newton Centre, launched their own door-to-door collection last week to help children whose homes and clothing were destroyed in the Worcester tornado.

The children, aged 7½ to 9 years, also were performing their "Brownie good deed," as some of them are Brownies. They collected a total of $8, which they presented to Harold Pillsbury at City Hall in the absence of Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood.

Participating in the collection were Jang Shuster, Harriet Abby Tessler, Marcia Falkof, Ellen Matulsky, Marjorie Schuster, Nancy Smith, and Frances Gandolph.

The girls were taken to City Hall for the presentation of the collection by Mrs. Anne Falkof.

Harness Racing Proving Popular In Foxboro

FOXBORO, Mass. — Thrilling stretch drives and blanket finishes with three and four horses on the wire are increasing harness racing's popularity by leaps and bounds at Bay State Raceway on the Providence turnpike.

The improvement in 1953 at the track, in which photo finishes have dominated nearly every evening's program, has brought warm compliments from harness horse fans to Racing Secretary Don Roberts.

Roberts, a young Michigan farm owner, who received his early trot and pace training at the country tracks in Maine, credits the tracks increased purses for the better racing.

Higher purses for winners have attracted smarter stepping, more consistent trotters and pacers, he points out.

Typical of the sparkling striding by top performers at the track within the past week was a sharp mile paced by White Mountain Boy in 2:05 1/5. King Adam, quick moving gelding of Ralph Del Rosse of Augusta, Me., paced another mile in 2:07 2/5, pacing the last half in a brisk 1:02 1/5.

Other brilliant victories have been by the consistent, stretch charging, Bay State Tom 2:04 1/5, and by Army, owned by Albert Simon of Wilmington, Del., a horse that is renewing his claim to be the track's best trotter.

Bay State Raceway is expected to benefit within the next week by a rule invoked at Roosevelt Raceway, N. Y., requiring that all horses stabled there be capable of 2:10 or better.

Many horses cannot be raced at the N. Y. track as a consequence, and because many stables probably will be unwilling to split their strings of trotters and pacers, many new arrivals, including a substantial number of horses of high calibre, are expected at Bay State Raceway soon.

The Raceway currently is in its third week of "racing under the stars" which will continue until Sept. 8.

The program, which will be given today (Thursday) as well as July 23 and July 30, features storyteller Miss Virginia A. Tashjian of the Children's Division of the Newton Free Library.

Miss Mary Grace Norris Bride of Mr. Edwin T. Wyman, Jr.

A reception at the Wayside Inn in South Sudbury followed the wedding ceremony there at the Martha-Mary Chapel last Saturday, July 11, when Miss Mary Grace Norris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Norris of Newton Highlands, became the bride of Mr. Edwin T. Wyman, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Wyman of Brookline. The Rev. Rent—

He quoted a statement by Gordon L. Hawes, who recently withdrew from the race for mayor of Newton, that if the aldermen vote against controls "they will be voting against the people's mandated vote to retain it."

"At the same time they will be bowing to the demands of a well-organized minority group which has the money, prestige and special interests to sway them away from the people's mandate of last fall."

Mr. Anderson, who represents Ward 7 (Newton Corner), cited the two votes by the public on retaining the controls in 1950 and last September as the deciding factor in his motion to continue them.

"One thing I resented completely in trying to weigh my decision," the alderman continued, "was that the pressure group 'had a foot on one side of the scales.' This group, he charged, spent 'hundreds of dollars in presenting their opinions.'"

Quoting from a pamphlet mailed to Newton home-owners by the group, Alderman Anderson said the publication intimates that rents determine assessments. In rebuttal he read a letter from the Newton Board of Assessors explaining that the probable sale price is the top factor in assessing, although other factors, such as rental income, are considered.

Since 1947, rents have been increased 20 per cent, Mr. Anderson stated. "In my estimation, fair increases have been granted for the landlords."

He predicted that "the courts will be flooded with eviction cases" once controls are abandoned and that there will not be enough room for persons evicted at present if rentals go up.

The city has, according to the 1950 census, 6354 rental units, the alderman pointed out, but there are 8918 units according to the area rent control office in Cambridge.

"We have wanted for some years to take action upon it legal housing, and this is our opportunity. It is a fair estimate that there are at least 500 owners in the city of Newton who are not living up to the zoning laws," said Mr. Anderson.

He estimated that the city faced an annual loss of nearly three-quarters of a million dollars through the children of illegal tenants who attend public schools but whose parents do not share in the tax burden. He advocated a crackdown on illegal housing through the medium of rent controls.

At the end of his speech, Mr. Anderson moved for the adoption of control until the referendum could be taken. President Bauckman asked if anyone would second the motion, and for a moment it seemed as if no one would, allowing the controls to expire without a vote.

Alderman Leo M. Cannon finally seconded the motion. But before a vote was taken, Alderman Earle Wood spoke in opposition.

He disagreed that "very rapid and very extreme rent rises would result." Controls, he stated, have worked hardships on landlords "in my personal knowledge."

Mr. Wood claimed that available housing has increased in areas where rents have been decontrolled, "returning rents to the law of supply and demand upon which our economy has been based and which has made our country what it is."

The federal government's action in turning the rental question over to the states was "obviously an attempt to return to the law of supply and demand," the alderman said. "I don't see why we should discriminate against one certain class of property owners in this country."

Prolonged applause greeted the ending of both Mr. Anderson's and Mr. Wood's speeches. President Bauckman drew a ripple of laughter when he pointed out it was not necessary for the spectators to applaud every statement.

The two votes in favor of the controls were cast by Aldermen Anderson and Cannon. Opposing were Aldermen Angevine, Bigelow, Damon, Davis, Diamond, Jackson, Jones, Lovell, Mattson, Rich, Scipione, Sharf, Ten Bro-

for Mrs. Miriam Hurwitz, seeking reconsideration of the Board's action in denying a variance to permit the construction of a side porch at 275 Hartman road, Oak Hill; refused to permit an extension of the non-conforming use of Odd Fellows Hall, 15 Southgate park, West Newton, as requested by the Home Association of the Newton Council, Knights of Columbus, which was negotiating for the purchase of the property; and denied a petition for reconsideration of a petition for a waiver of a lot line requirement, which was denied last month. The Board granted five requests for variances of the Zoning Law.

eeck, Terkelson, Wood and Bauckman.

Following the burst of applause that signaled the death of rent controls Alderman William R. Mattson asked that the board continue to watch rents in Newton.

He advocated that the aldermen regard controls "not as a dead issue" and be prepared to reimpose them if necessary. Mr. Mattson said he "wished to serve notice to the owners that the board is not in favor of a very radical increase in rents."

Alderman Hirsch Sharf attempted to amend Mr. Mattson's motion and establish a committee of landlords and tenants to watch over the rent situation, but Alderman Mattson said a committee was not necessary at this time. A "grievance committee" was also proposed by Alderman Wood.

The motion was passed by another 16-2 vote, with only Aldermen Bigelow and Davis objecting.

Bottled Gas Systems and Their Inherent Hazards

For a number of years the use of bottled gas systems for heating and cooking has steadily increased, especially in rural and suburban districts where gas is not available. These systems utilize mixtures of propane and butane when are derived from crude petroleum. These materials are similar to gasoline except that they are more volatile and are in the liquid state only when under pressure. For this reason they are termed liquefied petroleum gases.

In order to comply with the regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission they are shipped in heavy cylinders or drums marked to indicate compliance with the commission's specifications.

Because of their inherent hazards the National Board of Fire Underwriters has issued standards governing the installation of these systems. A requirement of cardinal importance is that the cylinders or drums and control equipment used in connection with these systems be installed outside of all buildings, well removed from the openings whereby escaping gas may enter or accumulate within the building. The following illustrates in a tragic manner what is liable to result when this fundamental requirement for safety is disregarded.

The system involved was of a type which introduced liquid into the building. A drop in temperature so lowered the pressure in the drum that it did not force the liquid to the burner. An air pump was temporarily employed to increase the pressure, but the owner installed the drum in the basement about 15 feet from the furnace in order to have the liquid vaporize as it was designed to do.

This arrangement proved satisfactory until the furnace was placed in operation, when the heat therefrom increased the pressure in the drum to such an extent as to force the liquid gas through the burner before it could be vaporized. In order to reduce the pressure, the owner proceeded to remove the fill cap of the drum; he had unscrewed the cap to the last two threads, when the cap was violently blown off and a stream of liquid enveloped the owner and a friend who was watching the operation, and spread to various portions of the building.

There was a violent explosion as the vapor reached the furnace and exploded. Both men stumbled from the building with their clothes burning.

In addition to the use of these gases for cooking and lighting, their introduction into commercial fields is becoming general in connection with heat treating furnaces, small boilers in tailor shops, and other special uses. Everyone who has to use this type of fuel should thoroughly understand the dangers of these compressed gases. If it is realized that they are in reality a form of gasoline, a better idea of their danger will be gained. Many summer homes and camps use this type of gas for cooking. The valves or other controls should never be played with and children should not be allowed to play in or around the tank storage area.

In case of any leaks or trouble notify the dealer that supplies the gas at once. If you are unable to locate the dealer notify the fire department. Keep everyone away from the storage area until the trouble is fixed and do not allow anyone to smoke or use an open flame of any kind.

Little League Ball Game to Aid Fund

Newton Little League Commissioner, James E. Murphy, announced today that arrangements had been completed for a series of Little League ball games in Newton for the benefit of the Worcester Tornado Fund.

The series of three games will start on Monday July 20th, with the Dodgers playing the Senators at the Newton Centre Playground at 6:15 p.m. The losing team will play the Braves the following night at the Richardson Playground on Allen avenue in Waban. The third and final game will be played between the winners of these games at Al-bemarle Little League Field in Newtonville.

Commissioner Murphy stated that the proceeds of the collections at all three games will be turned over to the Mayor's Committee for the Worcester Tornado Relief Fund. All of the expenses for conducting these games will be borne by the Newton Little League Council. The umpires are donating their services.

"The Little Leaguers feel privileged to share in the fine work being done by the Mayor's Committee to aid the unfortunate victims of the recent tornado in Worcester," said Murphy, and "they promise to put on the finest exhibition of Little League baseball ever seen in this city."

Preventative Maintenance Pays Dividends At Hospital

At the conclusion of his first year of service as Chief Engineer at Newton-Wellesley Hospital, a program of preventative maintenance is beginning to show dividends, according to John A. Doherty, who heads up this vital service at the hospital. It's an around-the-clock job keeping the hospital's physical plant in tip-top condition and Mr. Doherty, when interviewed was pardonably a bit weary since he had been up the entire previous night coping with an unexpected emergency. Mr. Doherty, himself, would say nothing about his many accomplishments, for he is by nature a modest man, but all who work with him have caught from him a sense of the importance of what they are doing. The morale in the maintenance department is unusually high.

"We have to think ahead a bit in this job," says Mr. Doherty. "When a chair breaks a rung, we try to fix it immediately before the whole chair breaks down. We apply the same kind of thinking to more important aspects of our work. What we hope to be able to do is to foresee possible mishaps and to prevent them from becoming costly emergencies. The twenty-eight men in this department have all taken hold in fine style and they keep coming up with good ideas which we translate into sayings for the hospital."

There is always a lot of painting to be done around a hospital—fresh shining walls not only look good, they contribute to better sanitation. Formerly the paint spraying equipment that was used was limited by the fact that the can which held the paint only contained a quart of the mixture to be applied to the walls. This meant that the painter had to stop every fifteen minutes or so to refill his spray gun, with a consequent loss of painting time. Mr. Doherty resorted to a discarded sterilizer which had been replaced by some new equipment in the pharmacy and converted it into an eight-gallon tank for the spraying outfit. Using the new equipment, it was possible in a single day to give all of the walls in the hospital basement a new coat of paint in a single day. "We didn't spend a nickel for our improved spray outfit," says Mr. Doherty. "The president of the Massachusetts Wharf Coal Company gave us some of the parts that we needed and we built the rest of the equipment right in our own shop. We'll be able to save the hospital real dollars and cents and the painters can get their work done a lot quicker."

Trucking schedules have been re-arranged so that the hospital's trucks now make only one trip to Boston a week, in place of the three trips that were formerly necessary. This has cut gas bills in half and has produced comparable savings in tires and incidental upkeep. One less driver is necessary—another major saving in a time when salaries make up two-thirds of the hospital's operating budget. This new schedule has required the co-operation of all of the other department heads and seems to be working satisfactorily.

Under Mr. Doherty's direction there have been major improvements to the hospital's physical plant. The conversion of the boilers from coal to oil has been completed. A new fire alarm system has been installed that gives proper protection to the whole of the hospital's plant and sends notice of the exact location of any possible fire to the fire department. This long-awaited improvement was installed under the supervision of the Gamewell Company of Newton Upper Falls. Chief Phillip Purcell of the Newton Fire Department says that the new system, for which he and his department made many recommendations meets a long-felt need.

The refrigerating equipment at the hospital, which was more than twenty years old, has been completely replaced with new, modern installations. Five new small Freon units have replaced the old single tank which formerly made the ice. The new units are sanitary and flexible and together can produce up to one ton of clean ice a day in usable form. It is no longer necessary to break up large chunks of ice into usable size. The circular pool behind the main building of the hospital which formerly supplied water to the cooling system of the old ice plant has been filled in and planted with roses. This attractive display can easily be seen from the main waiting room at the hospital and has converted an eyesore into an asset. Funds for the rose garden were given by friends of Mrs. Alexander McW. Wolfe of Wellesley in her memory. Dr. Morris Courtiss of the hospital staff and Mr. Herbert C. Fraser of Newton planned and planted the garden.

Air conditioning for six of the operating suites is currently in process and will shortly be completed. This major improvement will mean greater comfort and safety for physician and patient alike. The surgeon can work more efficiently in an air-conditioned atmosphere and the patient will be more comfortable and in better post-operative condition as a result of the new installation.

With his staff of plumbers, machinists, painters, electricians, stationary engineers, carpenters, truck drivers, watchmen and laborers, Mr. Doherty keeps his finger on the pulse of the hospital right around the clock. The phone in the office of Mr. Doherty's department is constantly busy, and Mrs. Grimes, his assistant schedules the work and keeps the records as well as standing by for the unexpected.

The hospital cannot afford to have a power failure and stand-by equipment is constantly ready should it be needed. A hospital uses steam in enormous quantities, too, not only for heating but also for sterilizing instruments in the operating and emergency rooms. It's a challenging job, keeping a big hospital in running condition twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week, but it's a job that Mr. Doherty and his crew tackle with evident enthusiasm. Their work, although generally unseen, makes a tremendous difference to the health and comfort of all of the patients who come to the Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Report Only 2 Measle Cases During June

The every-other-year character of measles was emphasized again last week when Dr. Ernest M. Morris, director of public health for Newton, reported that only two cases of measles in the city during June, compared with 142 in June of 1952.

In his monthly resume of communicable diseases, Dr. Morris also cited a three-fold increase over the two months in mumps, while there was an increase of seven chicken pox cases.

Following the alternate year trend, German measles slumped from 83 cases in June 1952 to seven cases last month.

The comparison of communicable diseases between the two June follows:

| | 1952 | 1953 |
|----------------|------|------|
| Chicken pox | 31 | 38 |
| Measles | 142 | 2 |
| German measles | 83 | 7 |
| Mumps | 16 | 48 |
| Poliomyelitis | 0 | 0 |
| Scarlet fever | 1 | 4 |
| Whooping cough | 1 | 4 |
| Diphtheria | 0 | 0 |

WHAT'S NEWS—a bathing suit made of resin-treated paper does not disintegrate when wet, is said to be as strong as cloth, and many times cheaper.

Some 28,380,000 passengers traveled 15,500,000,000 passenger-miles on U. S. domestic and international scheduled airlines during 1952 a newspaper survey shows.

When Logan International Airport was dedicated on Sept. 8, 1923, it was only 189 acres large. Today it comprises more than 2,000 acres.

"Although most girls' bathing suits aren't as big as a postage stamp, they still deliver the males!" — Randy Merriman.

Highland Glee Club Closes. 45th Season

The forty-fifth concert season was officially closed for the Highland Glee Club of Newton last recently with a dinner and annual business meeting at the Hotel Beconsfield in Brookline.

The joint report of D. Ralph Maclean, director, and James Gray, accompanist, took form in a club sing of several of the past year's choral numbers with Mr. Maclean, between selections, citing his memories of highlights of the 1952-1953 activities.

Among the important announcements given by President George H. Wight was the awarding of the Highland Glee Club Scholarship this year to Pamela Cook who graduated this month from Newton High School. Miss Cook plans a musical career and will enter Bennington College next fall.

The election of officers for next season was the closing business of the meeting and continuance of the current slate was recommended by the nominating committee consisting of Lloyd B. Marks, chairman, Edgar M. Randle, and Clinton W. Kyle.

Returning to office are George H. Wight, president; Ernest W. Schleicher, vice president; Gustav R. Breitske, treasurer; Richard W. Loud, secretary; Leonard R. Clinton, librarian, and Raymond S. Carman, historian.

Committee chairman also re-elected for another term consist of Bertram F. Whipple, concert; Cecil J. Hall, music; Edward B. Roberts, publicity; and Stuart J. Dewey, sponsoring membership.

Past-president John F. Capron spoke briefly of his past association and continued interest in the glee club and again issued an invitation to the group to attend an outing at his summer home in Falmouth on July 11.

Newton's National Guard Companies Return from N.Y.

Newton's two National Guard units returned Saturday morning from Camp Drum, N. Y., after taking honors during the First Army Command's Summer training camp at the New York base.

Army instructors cited both F Company, 2nd Battalion and K Company, 3rd Battalion, 101st Infantry, 26th Division, for excellence in training. Company F also ranked first in a three-day combat problem in the field.

The two companies were named the best in their respective battalions. Pvt. Robert G. Jackson of Somerville who recently joined Company F, was listed second among 100 men in the regimental recruit school.

3 Commissioned In Boston U. ROTC

Tobin's Early Rise in Politics Due to G.O.P. Support ... Being Elected Mayor and Governor His Greatest Thrill

An unusual aspect to the career of former Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin, one of the great Democratic figures of his time, was that Republicans started him on his way to the political fame he was to achieve in a short, colorful breath-taking span of life.

As observers conjecture on the effect the death of the ebullient, dynamic, likable Tobin will have on future political developments in Massachusetts, their memories go back over one of the most spectacular public careers this State has known in modern times.

Sixteen years ago at this time, Tobin was an obscure member of the Boston School Committee, waging an uphill campaign for the right to serve as Mayor of Boston, fighting for political recognition, a handsome young man of 36 with an enthusiastic army of energetic supporters at his back.

He wasn't conceded much chance in a field that included ex-Governor James M. Curley, then at the height of his political power; former Mayor Malcom E. Nichols, an extremely sturdy vote-getter, and the late District Attorney William J. Foley. Both Nichols and Foley had been nosed out by Frederick W. Mansfield in the 1933 mayoralty race.

I'll Never Forget Coronation Day, Says Auburndale Airman

An Auburndale youth who is stationed with an Air Force band in Eisenhower's old headquarters in London recently described his graphic impressions of the coronation of Queen Elizabeth in a letter home.

Airman First Class James Kay of 239 Woodland road, Auburndale, witnessed the coronation ceremonies in the streets of London after playing for a reception at the home of the American ambassador to England. Airman Kay plays the French horn in the band. A graduate of Newton High School, he played the same instrument in the high school orchestra and band as well as in the High Pines Symphony Orchestra.

Following the band's performance before many noted American and English personalities, Airman Kay went to London with a group of friends. "I have never in my life seen such crowds," he reported.

"All along the parade route people were lying down six deep, huddled in blankets. And the parade wasn't to start until 8 o'clock the next morning. Many were singing songs, dancing, just about anything to keep warm. It was 1 o'clock in the morning, and you'd really think it a Saturday afternoon shopping time."

The Auburndale airman spent the night sitting up in a restaurant before going to the Pall Mall to view the processions. He said it was lucky he was tall, or otherwise he "might not have been able to see between all the periscopes" that the spectators were carrying.

"When you see the movie," he advised, "look for me in the crowd. We stood right under the last big crown that hung over the Mall. The Mall looked like a big fairland."

Over 400 Boys in 3 Camping Programs Sponsored by YMCA

More than four hundred boys from Newton and nearby communities are currently active in three Newton YMCA sponsored camping programs running for eight weeks this summer.

Camp Massasoit, one of two Y sponsored day camps, is now open for its tenth season with an enrollment of 171 boys. Richard B. Simmons is the camp director, and Eugene R. Clark is associate director. Galen A. Bloom is chairman of the Camp Massasoit committee.

Boys enrolled in the program are divided into "Indian Tribes" for group work. Tribe leaders are Alden Read, Ralph Morse, David Miller, Robert Read, Francis A. Tanner, E. Willard Woodruff, Mr. Clark, and Mr. Simmons. Elinor Babbitt is crafts leader. Robert Stefank is assistant swimming instructor.

Camp Chickama, second oldest YMCA day camp founded in 1916, opened for its eighth season on June 22. Boys now enrolled total 101. Camp activities are carried on at Riverside, on the grounds of the Metropolitan District Commission. Bruno J. Ot-

tavi is the camp director with David B. Potts as associate.

Boys at this camp are also enrolled in groups, each with a leader-counselor for effective work. Leaders at Chickama are: Donald Robinson, nature study; H. Carl Sulzen, crafts; Dean Farnham, aquatics; and James Miller, athletics. Other leaders include Steve Buchanan, John Gracey, Jeffrey Gordon and Warren Hoey. John Crosby is chairman of the Camp Chickama Committee.

Camp Day, residence camp of the Newton YMCA, located on the shores of Lake Quaeumquasset at Brookfield, opened for its 39th season on Wednesday, June 24, with the arrival of a capacity camp of 161 boys for the first four week period. The camp's second four week period opened July 22, also with capacity enrollment.

Newton YMCA officials who attended the camp's opening dinner included Eldred M. Peterson, clerk; Charles E. Smith, assistant-treasurer of the Newton YMCA; Harry W. Bascom, general secretary emeritus; Alex R. Miller, general secretary; and Andrew H. Kasper, building su-

Street Dep't Seeks More Space

Report Asks Expansion of 2 City Yards

The magnitude of operating the rapidly-growing city of Newton was clearly revealed last week when Street Commissioner Harold F. Young made his annual report to Mayor Lockwood, listing expenditures of his department amounting to better than two million dollars.

But Mr. Young emphasized that more room was already needed to house the Street Department equipment in the city's three yards. He advocated expansion of two of the yards and also urged allotting more office space to the "over-crowded" office at City Hall.

Citing a "lack of sufficient buildings to properly house the equipment now owned," Commissioner Young said that an "ideal condition exists for the construction of a building at the Auburndale Avenue Yard" for the Sanitation Division units. He declared this would "relieve the present crowded conditions at the Crafts Street Yard."

Polio Strikes Son Of Second Church Representatives

Two-year-old Timothy Cook, son of Dr. and Mrs. Hale Henry Cook who are the special representatives in India of the Second Church in Newton, Congregational, was stricken with polio late in June.

Latest word states that Timothy has been almost completely paralyzed in both shoulders and in the right arm extending to the fingers and in his left arm to the wrist. His neck and back are also weak, and his left hip is partially affected.

Definite plans for future action will be worked out with the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions in Boston, and may include bringing Timothy and his parents to the United States in the Fall for special polio treatment.

Dr. Cook is medical superintendent of the Pierce Memorial Hospital in Wal, India, and also engages in some village extension work. The hospital, which contains 105 beds and is 98 per cent occupied continually, is located near the sacred Krishna River.

Aldermen to Hear Public At City Hall Ask 7-Member Unit to Probe Youth Problem

The establishment of a human relations committee to probe juvenile vandalism in Newton and promote better relations between various groups residing within the city will be the subject of a public hearing scheduled for Monday, August 24, at Newton City Hall.

The hearing, which will be open to the general public and at which all interested residents may speak, will be conducted at 9 p.m., before the regularly-scheduled alderman's meeting that night.

Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood proposed the ordinance setting up the committee as the result of studies made earlier this year by the Newton Community Council into the reasons behind the beating of a Jewish boy in Newton Centre.

The ordinance calls for a committee "of seven persons who shall be appointed by the Mayor with the approval of the board of aldermen and who shall serve without compensation." The members must be Newton citizens and "so far as practicable" will represent all major racial, religious and economic interests in the city.

The ordinance prohibits executive or administrative officers of the city from accepting appointments to the group, but allows them to serve in an advisory capacity "at the request of the committee."

In order to allow a yearly turnover in membership, the first appointments are for terms of from one to three years. Thereafter the members are appointed for three-year terms.

The ordinance as recommended by the Mayor states, "The purposes of the human relations committee shall be to promote understanding and amicable relations between persons and —HEARING—

All campers dressed in Sunday whites for the exercises, and a turkey dinner was prepared and served under the direction of Fred L. Brown, camp chef.

Boys at Camp Day are divided into three units: midget, headed by John E. Danielson; junior unit, headed by Harold F. Fisher; and senior unit, headed by Edward Poskitt. Frank M. Simmons is director of the camp, and the department heads are Paul Wilber, Vincent Marotto, sailing and music; and Reginald Smith, waterfront. Mrs. Everett Hambley is the camp nurse.

The Newton YMCA is a charter member agency of the Newton Community Chest and a member organization of the Newton Community Council.

groups, juvenile and adult, in the city and to advise and assist other agencies . . . concerned with such matters.

Proposals for such a committee stemmed from an assault February 7 on Stephen Berger of Newton Centre by a group of teenage boys as he was leaving a dance at Temple Emanuel.

The boys were subsequently arrested by Newton police and faced charges of assault and battery in Newton District Court. Testimony at their trial revealed that the Berger boy was attacked after one of the youths asked him "Are you a Jew?"

The beating evoked a cry for action from aroused Newton citizens, and a committee was named under the Newton Community Council to investigate the causes behind the attack and make recommendations. The complete report by the committee was printed in the April 30 issue of The Graphic.

The investigating committee noted an increase in inter-group tension "due in large measure to the fact that there has been such a marked increase in population in the Newtons with the preponderance of such population coming from Jewish families."

Going beyond the question of prejudice, the committee also stated that "the problem of gangs of teenagers and what to do about them is a serious one and indicates that we have not yet met the challenge presented by these youths and the resultant vandalism and other evils."

The committee estimated that juvenile vandalism costs the city "from 10 to 15 thousand dollars a year to repair the damage." The report continued that libraries, movie theaters, eating places and commercial recreation places "have all been troubled by hoodlums. Minors have been able to purchase liquor in Newton. Juvenile delinquency does exist in Newton and constructive action is needed."

Airman-

He managed to work his way through the throngs until he was in the third row of spectators, where he had "a perfect view."

When the procession started, he "couldn't believe this was me watching all this. Words can't describe how I felt."

"Finally came the queen in her golden coach. In front of her were the horse guards with their golden trappings. The high, white string shakos will be a sight I'll never forget as long as I live."

"As the coach approached our position, the band behind us began to play 'God Save the Queen.' Everyone began to sing and shout the words. I swear I had to hold back tears, and I surely had a big lump in my throat. Nothing has ever impressed me that much, and I never had so many chills go up and down my back."

"I really had a good look at her majesty, too," he continued. "She certainly is more beautiful in person than in her pictures. The crowd was cheering so loud I couldn't hear myself talk."

After the procession passed his vantage point, the Auburn-dale union and his two companions listened to the coronation ceremony on loudspeakers stationed throughout London. That night they went to Buckingham Palace to catch another glimpse of the newly-crowned queen as the conclusion of "the most exciting day I've ever spent."

"We had not eaten all day but we stuck it out," Airman Kay wrote. "We tried to make our way back to Waterloo Railroad Station as we didn't feel like waiting in line for the 'tube' to the station. We finally got back to the base, but this was one tired little boy from Auburn-dale. It's one thing I'll never forget, and for this alone I'll always be glad I joined the service, if for no other."

Routine Check By Patrolman Routs Thieves

The routine check by a police officer of a West Newton building material company, building apparently foiled a safecracking attempt last Thursday night.

Patrolman John J. Bartinelli discovered a broken window at Waldo Brothers Company, 96 Border street, West Newton, at about 11 p.m. Investigating, he found that intruders had entered the building and had broken off the knob of the office safe.

Nothing was reported missing, however, as the intruders were apparently frightened off as the patrolman approached the building. The break happened after 8:55 p.m., when Patrolman Bartinelli also made a routine check of the premises.

Marlon Brando Features County Playhouse Cast

The job of following a hit musical like "Annie Get Your Gun" which is now playing through Saturday at the air-conditioned County Playhouse, located in Shopper's World, Route 9, in Framingham, is no easy task for any actor.

But those people who have seen the controversial Marlon Brando, either on the stage or on the motion picture screen, agree that he is the man for the job. Brando opens Monday in George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man" and will remain through Saturday. The evening show is at 8:30 p.m. There will be, as usual, two matinees, Wednesday and Saturday, at 2:30 p.m.

Brando plays the part of Sergius in "Arms and the Man," a typical Shaw work. It opens in an atmosphere of military melodrama: the dashing officer of cavalry going off to face death, the brass band, the noise of guns and the red fire.

Into all this enters Bluntschli, the little sturdy crop-haired Swiss professional soldier, a man without a country but with a trade. He tells the army-adoring heroine frankly that she is a humbug; and she, after a moment's reflection, appears to agree with him. The play is like nearly all Shaw's plays, the dialogue of a conversation.

A laugh-provoking comedy, "Arms and the Man" has received wonderful reviews and Brando is ably assisted by William Redfield, Anne Kimball, Sam Gilman, Philip Rhodes, Janice Mars, Carlo Fiore, and Nydia Westman.

you read these facts!
How to get your full money's worth of cooling power!

When you buy a room air conditioner, you're paying for cooling power. It's measured in tons. A 1-ton capacity unit is supposed to deliver enough cool air to freeze 1 ton of water in a 24-hour period. A 1-ton capacity unit would freeze 1/2 ton of water . . . and so on.

When you buy, follow the example of so many tough, wary buyers for hotels and motels who know how to get their full money's worth. These buyers often find that a Fedders 1/2-ton capacity unit out-performs a competitive 1-ton unit . . . that a Fedders 1/2-ton capacity unit often will deliver more cooling than other 1/2-ton models!

FEDDERS Delivers Full Power

Fedders has the cooling power of fifteen refrigerators* for less than the cost of one! But the Fedders unit doesn't tell you how cool you should be! You're the boss. The amazing Fedders Built-In Weather Bureau gives you the weather you want with the touch of a button. It's the most remarkable feature in air conditioning history.

MORE EXCLUSIVE FEATURES!

You get full measure of cooling power when you buy Fedders — and the utmost in comfort, too! Fedders Automatic Comfort Control Thermostat keeps room temperatures at the exact degree you set it. Two double-size spun-glass filters catch a greater amount of irritating dust, soot and pollen before they reach your lungs. You get your full money's worth when you buy a Fedders' room air conditioner — get the 1953 Fedders unit at your dealer's today!

V-COILS -- SECRET OF FEDDERS COOLING POWER!

How can the sleek, compact Fedders unit give you greater cooling capacity than bigger, bulkier units? The secret is Fedders exclusive V-type Evaporator Coil! It's a good example of how you can benefit from Fedders long experience in designing precision cooling systems for fine automobiles and refrigerators. Fedders can put greater cooling power at your fingertips because the V-Coil has more square inches of cooling surface! This also accounts for its greater dehumidifying ability.

needed at the Elliot Street Yard in order to provide proper housing for equipment and automotive vehicles used by Highway Division C and also the Sewer Division.

"Consideration also should be given to conditions now existing in the Street Department office at City Hall which is now overcrowded and does not provide facilities for the comfort and efficiency of those employed in this office," the report stated.

In listing the expenditures of his department, Mr. Young said that $223,942.42 went for street lighting. He pointed out that 100 old type gas street lights were still in operation in Newton and "strongly" urged their replacement with "modern electric lights."

The total spent by the department during 1952 amounted to $2,193,523.59, of which salaries of the street commissioner and "supervisory administrative employees" accounted for $111,687.87.

Maintenance of property required $25,745.44. This included "such items as the repair of fences, construction and repair of street signs, repairs to bridges, tunnels, buildings, steps, construction of barricade horses, placing of stone bounds, repair and construction of shanties, tool boxes and sand boxes."

The department spent $66,308.18 for the maintenance of sidewalks and curbing, and $212,601.70 for surface treatment and general patching of streets.

Cleaning all accepted streets in Newton cost a total of $102,556.64. This sum included the daily cleaning of the city's business centers. The collection of garbage, done under a contract, amounted to $86,902.38 last year.

"One of the largest items of work carried on by the department," Commissioner Young reported, "is that of the collection of ashes, papers and rubbish. The cost of this work to the city in 1952 was $268,082.40. This figure includes the cost of operating the city incinerator, which is approximately $50,000, and an expenditure of $20,000 for the maintenance of the Pine street dump.

"During 1952, $164,597.78 was expended for snow and ice removal. This work is carried on not only in the accepted streets but also in the unaccepted streets in the city, the total of which exceeds 300 miles. One of the most costly portions of this work is the removal of snow from all business districts in the city as well as from all churches and public buildings. At the present time, after a snow storm, snow is removed from over 25 miles of gutterlines within the city."

Mr. Young continued, "The city installs new improved cement concrete sidewalks in cases where the abutter agrees to pay one-half the cost. During 1952, approximately $27,000 worth of this work was done at an expense to the city of $13,910.10. New curbing was also installed under the same conditions, and the city's cost of this work was $6,581.97."

Other expenses listed by Mr. Young included: sewer maintenance, $49,428.48; sewer house connections, $96,212.24; drain maintenance, $77,720.91; maintenance of city yards and buildings, $56,035.27; "maintenance and servicing of all traffic signals, the making and repairing of all traffic signs and all street traffic lining and lettering," $34,784.99.

Maintenance of city garage and maintenance and repair of tools and equipment, $210,748.93; purchase of new equipment, $49,927.54; sick leave, $66,370.02; vacations, $61,047.34; (Forestry Division) Dutch Elm disease, $9475.85; moth work, $23,568.91; care of trees, $42,135.71; care of grounds, $59,677.64; cemetery maintenance, $2,032.69.

"This department includes in its yearly budget, items of construction desired by other departments which do not have the equipment or personnel to take care of such construction," Commissioner Young explained. "During 1952, a large part of this work was carried on at various school grounds and at various locations as desired by the Recreation Department at a cost of

The Street Department also was responsible last year for the installation of 541 parking meters in West Newton, Newtonville, Newton and Newton Centre.

The boys came in to his store about 2 p.m., Mr. Albano told police. One of them came around the corner of the counter and pointed his hand—wrapped in a handkerchief—at the proprietor in a threatening manner. Refusing to be intimidated by the "weapon," Mr. Albano then charged the youth.

He described one of the boys as being six feet tall and weighing about 170 pounds. The other, he said, was five feet 10 inches tall and weighed about 150 pounds. Both wore sports shirts and khaki pants.

Those in opposing political camps remarked on Tobin's courage but pointed out that a man needed much more than courage to battle the vaunted Curley who was a heavy favorite to win the election.

Then the Republicans, with former State Senator Henry Parkman, Jr., their spokesman, began to rally behind Tobin as a fusion candidate for Mayor in the closing stages of that hectic '37 campaign, in which the man who was to go on to become governor and sit in the Presidential cabinet received a strange combination of powerful support.

When the votes were counted on election night, Tobin had scored a sensational upset victory, with a startling plurality of nearly 25,000 over Curley. He had run close to Curley in the latter's strongholds and spurred far ahead of him in the Republican and conservative Democratic districts.

Again in 1941, the Republicans went to Tobin's assistance and made possible his re-election in a surprising tight fight which he won by less than 10,000 votes over Curley.

There was an unusual contrast between Tobin's two mayoralty battles. He was conceded little chance by the experts in 1937, and he won by nearly 25,000 votes. He was an overwhelming favorite in '41, and Curley's cause was regarded as hopeless, but a shift of a scant 5000 votes would have given the latter a victory, for Tobin won by less than 10,000.

Because of Tobin's political philosophy, he was to draw Republican criticism
while Governor and Secretary of Labor
but he never lost the respect or the friendship of members of the G.O.P. who helped give him his first great victory in 1937
and who saved him from defeat in 1941.

Tobin, of course, could not have won election as Mayor with Republican help alone, but he probably couldn't have won without it in 1937, and he certainly would have been defeated in 1941 had not virtually every G.O.P. element in the city rallied behind him.

Governor Christian A. Herter, then the Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, was one of the Republican figures who endorsed Tobin in '41, and one of the top lieutenants in the Tobin camp in that fight was Robert Cutler, now President Eisenhower's administrative assistant.

This writer covered Maurice Tobin's activities during much of the past 16 years,
and many memories rush back of the colorful things he did, the quiet kindnesses he performed, of his boyish enthusiasm, of the way he worked to straighten out Boston's municipal finances and reduce its debt during his seven years as Mayor.

Just a year ago tonight in Chicago's steaming amphitheatre at the Democratic national convention he made a gesture which emphasized why so many men held such affection for him.

Tobin had gone to the Democratic convention intending to cast his vote for Vice President Alben W. Barkley. Nobody thought Barkley had much chance of winning the Presidential nomination. The Democratic bosses almost to a man were backing Adlai Stevenson.

But a friendship between Barkley and Tobin had ripened while they served together in the Truman cabinet, and Tobin was deeply and sincerely fond of the old man who had helped and guided him and been almost like a father to him. He intended to go down the line with the colorful Kentuck-
ian as a gesture of his own feeling.

On the first day of the convention a group of labor leaders sat down with Barkley and told him to get out of the race,
that they wouldn't support him and that he couldn't win. Barkley reluctantly yielded to their pressure and announced his withdrawal from the field.

Tobin felt the old man had been treated coldly, cruelly and shabbily, that he should have been allowed to stay in the fight and his name placed in nomination.
Tobin himself was under pressure from many sources. Ex-Governor Dever was lining up every possible vote for Stevenson who seemed certain of achieving the nomination.

But the sentimental Tobin decided to ride out the convention with an old man who couldn't win, an old man who had been driven out of the fight by the words of labor barons.

And Tobin arranged to have Barkley's name placed in nomination and set up a demonstration for the Vice President. The members of the Kentucky delegate, whitelipped and on the verge of tears, couldn't help him because they had given their word to Barkley that they would abide by his decision. All they could do now was give their moral support, but they went wild when Barkley's name finally was placed before the convention at Tobin's contrivance.

Even when President Truman himself instructed his alternate in the Missouri Delegation to cast his vote for Stevenson, Tobin stood firm with Barkley. It was an unusual gesture in an era of power politics.

It was somewhat the same strain in the man that caused Tobin to withdraw from the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1948 at President Truman's request and accept the position as Secretary of Labor.

Tobin wanted to run again for the Governorship. He had been defeated for reelection in 1946, going down before a Republican wave of tremendous proportions, and he wanted to wipe out the memory of that reverse.

As events were to develop, he didn't live to achieve that ambition. He intended to decline the cabinet post in '48, but Truman
made a personal appeal that he accept it,
and Tobin bowed to his wishes.

Tobin was a man of great physical strength and stamina, but the intensive campaign routine he set for himself in 1948,
when President Truman appeared to be facing almost certain defeat, taxed even his physical resources and probably hastened his death.

He was one of the few persons who felt that the political prophets were wrong
and that Truman had a chance of winning election, and his loyalty and devotion to the ex-President undoubtedly prompted Truman to come on from Independence,
Mo., for his funeral.

Reminiscing not long ago over his political victories and setbacks, Tobin revealed that his two biggest thrills came from his sensational elections as Mayor in 1937 and as Governor in 1944. Those were his greatest hours of political glory, and next he placed the thrill which came when the word
was flashed across the country that Truman,
in whom he had placed his faith, had won a staggering upset victory.

Few men have known the political glory
and fame that came to Tobin, but we are not certain that those two days of triumph
were his greatest hours.

We're disposed to remember him standing almost alone for Vice President Barkley
at the 1952 Democratic national convention and fighting to push back the Republican tidal waters in 1946, pleading for votes for elderling Senator David I. Walsh, when he himself was facing likely defeat but still was refusing to desert Walsh.

Tobin was a hearty man of great enthusiasm who received a tremendous amount of enjoyment from life, who liked people and enjoyed helping them.

His terms as Mayor of Boston were not a particularly happy time for him. The city's finances were such that Tobin was forced to say "No" many times, and he was a man who found it difficult to turn down a request.

He was running the city government
when Boston was struck by the awesome hurricane in 1938, when it was engulfed
by the St. Valentine's Day blizzard in 1940 and when the terrible Coconut Grove disaster occurred in 1942. Each of those events left a mark on Tobin for he did not easily throw off troubles and worries
the way some men do.

What effect his death will have in a political way is something only time will determine. He planned to run for State office next year, probably the Governor-ship, although some of his supporters sought to persuade him to set his political gunsights on the Senate instead.

But Tobin, who wanted to offset the defeat he suffered in 1946, was disposed to seek the Governorship. He said he didn't want another long period of service in Washington because he didn't want to be away from his family again.

RANDOM CLIPPINGS

Arrested in Oakland, Calif., for driving
an automobile without a steering wheel, Emmet Williams testified that he used a wrench to turn the steering mechanism. "I was very careful," he emphasized.

An eight-year search by police in Hazard, Ky., for Elhanon Napier who was wanted for alleged horse-stealing, ended
when Napier was found employed as a cook
at the city jail.

After pleading guilty to a $353 bank
holdup in Madison, Wis., Frederick L. Keller, 18, explained in court that he needed
the money to convince his probation officer
he was earning a living.

Fireman raced 28 miles from Bartlesville, Ohio, to Pawhuska to fight a $50,000 conflagration, discovered on their arrival at the scene of the blaze that they had lost their hose along the way.

During National Safety Week in Tokyo,
a group of garage owners issued warning
leaflets to U. S. drivers which read: "Traffic rules help your safety . . . is easy to speed upside down on this road so that the traffic accident wants to break out openly.
Please drive in safety and to avoid a miserable accident . . . please come again."

After petitioning municipal officials in Birmingham, Ala., to pave their streets,
three residents of 61st Street South were informed that due to a surveyor's error,
their homes had been built in what was technically the street, and that they would have to remove the structures, whether they wanted paving or not.

Carted off to Melbourne, Australia, hospital for the removal of two razor blades
he had swallowed on a bet, Seaman Albert Graham told doctors: "It was a silly thing to do for only two quid ($4.48). It was worth at least a fiver ($11.20).

Letters

"Restraint and Fairness"

Editor, Graphic:

Newton is free of rent control.
The Board of Aldermen so voted,
16 to 2. Now is the time for property owners to be fair, restrained, moderate. This is Homes, Inc. opportunity to make more friends and win more loyalties from our tenants. For we have a wonderful group of tenants who already know some of our problems during 10 years of difficult times.

Many of our tenants know that since March of 1942, when rent control was imposed, that soft coal went from $7 a ton to $17
a ton; that what few repairs
have been made have cost 200
per cent to 300 per cent more;
that real estate taxes have skyrocketed. (Last year on one apartment house—Newton assess-added 50 per cent more to our bill.)

That is why our tenants will appreciate our policy of making moderate increases, with restraint and fairness. After paying some of our increased costs,
this money will be used to give you a better home.

Tenant and owner have a problem in common—to combat high costs. Mutual sympathy, cooperation and fairness will help solve the problem.

Oil Paintings

An interesting and colorful group of oil paintings of Rockport scenes are on display at 1286 Washington street, West
Newton, by Miss Rita Louise Guzzi. Painted under the direction of Stanley Woodward of Newton and Rockport, artist and art instructor, the subjects include "Plum Cove," "Motif No.
1," a beach scene and two homes.
Miss Guzzi, a graduate of Newton High School, attended the Massachusetts School of Art.
She started painting seriously
only two years ago, previously having used the talent only as a hobby.

Last year's traffic toll of deaths
and injuries was the heaviest in history.

North All-Star Team Defends Title August 1

The Newton North Little League All-Star team will defend its Greater Boston championship when it enters tournament play-off competition against the Needham All-Star aggregation at Al-bemarle Little League Field on Saturday, August 1, at 2 p.m., according to the tournament sched-ule received by T. Frank Copp, league president.

The Newton North team will go into action with a nucleus of three heavy hitters who starred on the All-Star team last year. Topping the team is twelve year old Dave Seeley with a batting average of .524 and a pitching record this season of seven wins and no losses. Seeley pitched in eight games, pitched 45 innings, allowed only 14 hits and struck out 87 batters. Two of the games he pitched were no-hitters.

Runner-up for batting honors is lanky John Gill, star catcher for the Kiwanis Indians, with an average of .510. Billy Woodlock, who also played on the All-Star team last year, has a deceiving average of .450. Woodlock was at bat 60 times, had 27 base hits, 51 total bases, scored 23 runs and hit 5 home runs, 7 doubles and 1 triple.

The third carryover from the 1952 team is Buddy Russo with a batting average of .440 including 5 doubles and 1 home run. Close behind come Bob Fitzpatrick with an average of .431 and Francis Donnellan, a newcomer, with an average of .410. Fitzpatrick was the Newton North home run leader with six.

Making up the Newton North All-Stars for 1953 are:

NEWTON GRAPHIC

The Newton Elks baseball en-try in the Newton Twi League seems to be duplicating last year's runaway in the regular season's play, but Manager Charlie Hopkinson hopes the team doesn't follow the 1952 script.

At that time the Elks swept through the season as if they owned the baseballs. Then came the playoffs for the American Division title. . . . When the dust had settled on the final game, Cabot had registered an extra-ordinary victory to snatch the title from the heavily-favored Elks in a spine-tingling finish. Again the Elks have run away from the rest of the league, dropping only two games to date. . . .

Closely bunched behind are the Italian-American Club, Cabot and Gath's, which are perennially tough teams. Cabot and Gath's especially have a reputation for bumbling along in the middle of the league through most of the season, and then springing their best games when the blue chips are down. . . . The surprise of the year to date has been the Highlands A. C. which held down first place in the early part of the Summer before succumbing to the power of the Elks. . . . Only three of these teams can make the playoffs along with the leader, so a hot battle for the lucky spots can be expected.

The cerebral palsy fund will be the beneficiary from a top-notch softball attraction at Adams Field, Quincy, Saturday and Sunday afternoons at 3:30. Hank Henry of Newton, who is one of the top pictures in softball circles hereabouts, will pitch one of the games against Ed Feigner, the "King" of softball hurlers.

Feigner has been featured on television and magazines as the "King and His Court." This amazing pitcher plays with only three teammates: a first base-man, shortstop and catcher. . . . The four-man outfit started to-gether in 1946, and since then have racked up 507 wins against only 53 losses. That's a fantastic record for a nine-man team, let alone his abbreviated squad! . . . Feigner who underhands the oversized ball at speeds like Bob Feller in his prime, averages a mere 17 strikeouts a game. He uses 16 types of windups and throws with four speeds. He blasts in strikes from the out field, pitches blindfolded, throws from a kneeling position, tosses between his legs and, al-though he is a right-hander, serves the ball up occasionally with the left hand. . . . Who said softball was an old man's game? . . . Hank Henry is no slouch with a softball himself. When playing in the Newton Twi League, Henry was the most feared hurler in the circuit, and he an-nually averaged a no-hitter or two along the way. As yet, we don't know which game he'll pitch.

A record field of about 240 is expected to enter the Newton Fire-Police Golf Tournament, which will be held Tuesday, August 25, at the Commonwealth Country Club. Two trophies will be awarded. The Callahan Memorial Trophy, given by former State Public Works Commissioner William F. Callahan in mem-ory of his son who was killed in World War II, goes to the New-ton veteran with the lowest medal score. The Harry Gath Trophy goes to the winning po-lice or fireman's team.

The tournament will be played in three divisions, so that all in-terested will have a chance to play. One division is for Newton police and fireman, a second is for police and fireman from other communities, and the third in-cludes guest. . . . Newton fire-fighters and policemen who score 85 or less will play in Class A of their division. Those ending up with 86 to 100 strokes will compete in Class B, and the over 100's will be in Class C. In 1949, the tournament's first year the policemen ran off with the title.

But since then the firemen have poured cold water on the hopes of their brothers in blue and have nabbed the Gath trophy every year. . . . Regardless of the score, we know all the en-trants stand a good chance of breaking par at the roast beef dinner which follows.

Speaking as we were of spec-tacular pitchers a while before, let's not omit Little Leaguer Dave Seeley of the championship Newton North Dodgers. This year Seeley has a 7-0 record, giving only 19 hits in the 45 in-nings the diminutive southpaw has pitched. In his three-year career in the Little Leagues, he has tossed seven no-hitters. . . . Dave also led the Dodgers in hit-ting, collecting 22 hits — three more than were made off his de-liveries — for a lousy .524 ave-rage.

While we're in the Little Leagues, let's not forget the tourna-ment play which gets under way for the three Newton teams on August 1. The local representa-tives actually are opening their play in the second round of the tournament, since two previous games were played by other teams to pare the entrants from 18 to a more manageable 16. . . .

The draw calls for the Newton teams to open at home. Instead of having the three league champions enter the tournament, all-star teams have been selected so as to give the city the strong-est representatives possible. The Needham Little Leaguers will play at the Newton North's Al-bemarle Field. The Waltham American All-Stars (Waltham has a pair of leagues) will op-pose the Newton East All-Stars at the Newton Centre Playground. In the third encounter, the Wa-tertown West All-Stars (that town also has a pair of leagues) will face the Newton South All-Stars at the Allen Avenue Play-ground. . . . The Newton teams don't have to take a back seat to any of their opponents. Al-though the local league, like most in Massachusetts, is fairly new, the caliber of play is amazing for youngsters in that age group. Last year the Newton North All-Stars took the Boston District championship and then lost a 1-0 heartbreaker to the New Ed-ford team. . . . In these games, one player makes a tremendous difference, so one boy who has a good night may knock the New-ton boys out of contention. We feel that the Newton Little Leaguers, however, are going places

Al Huberman Captures East Batting Title

Knocking out 51 hits in 59 trips to the plate, first sacker Al Hu-berman of the Newton Centre Sen-ators won the batting crown of the Newton East Little League last week with a lofty .525 mark.

Besides having the highest average, Al also, led the league in hits, with 31, was second in runs, with 23, and second in home runs, with two circuit clouts to his credit. Al's hitting led the Senators to the league champion-

James E. Murphy To Direct Little League Tourney

Newton Little League Com-missioner James E. Murphy has been appointed as a tournament director for the Little League championship playoffs in Boston Little League Advisory Associ-ation.

Because of the large number of teams in this area, Greater Boston is divided into four dis-tricts. Districts 1 and 2, cover-ing the northern portion, will be directed by Baron Mayer of Dan-vers, president of the Associa-tion. Districts 3 and 4, which cover the southern portion, will be directed by Murphy. Assisting Murphy will be Joe Dischino of Waltham, Joe Twombly of Waltham, and Jack Cunningham of Dorchester.

Tournament play will begin on July 29, with the Brighton All-Star team meeting the Brook-line South All-Star team at Brookline and the Allston All-Stars playing the Waltham Na-tional All-Stars at Waltham.

The three All-Star teams of the Newton Little League will be in action on August 1, with New-ton North playing Needham at Al-bemarle, Newton East play-ing Waltham American at New-ton Centre Playground and New-ton South meeting Watertown at Richardson playground. The Newton games will start at 2 p.m.

Mr. Murphy stated that play-offs in each district must be completed by August 8, and the finals between district champions will be played August 10. The playoff for the Sectional title will be August 12.

Television Sets More of Fire Hazard than Radio Receivers

By Newton Fire Prevention Bureau

The rapid increase in the use of television receivers has brought a flood of inquiries as to the relative fire and life hazards of television sets, and as to their proper installation and the installation of their antenna systems.

Since television operates on essentially a line-of-sight basis, proper reception usually necessitates an exterior antenna. As the distance from the television transmitter increases, the antenna must of necessity extend higher in elevation. This increases somewhat the possibility of damage by lightning, and as the antenna is usually mounted on a pole or tower on the roof, there is a possibility that unless properly installed and supported the system may fall in high winds, dropping across power lines or injuring persons or property.

Arresters for ordinary aerials are not suitable for television. But proper arresters are available. These arresters should be placed on each conductor of a ribbon-type lead-in. If a co-axial cable is used for lead-in, suitable protection will be provided by an arrester connected to the outer sheath or by grounding the outer sheath, in which case the arrester may be omitted.

Where the antenna is mounted on a metal pole or tower, the pole or tower should be properly grounded. Opinions vary as to the size of the grounding conductor. The National Electrical Code requires not smaller than No. 14 Awg., but under some conditions, such as a high metal tower, it should approach the dimensions of a lightning rod down conductor, or a No. 6 wire. The grounding conductor should be connected to a suitable ground such as an underground pipe or lightning system if there is one available. The type of lead-in commonly used is the polyethylene ribbon type. Although this material burns much like rubber and falls in flaming drops, its use for this purpose is not considered particularly hazardous.

Recent improvements of the polyethylene lead-in, although still flammable, have eliminated the flaming drops. The co-axial cable lead-in is generally considered the best from the fire hazard viewpoint, but is considerably more expensive and has operational disadvantages.

Considerable care should be given to the mechanical stability of the antenna and its support. When located on the roof of buildings, the antenna and supporting guys should not be located so as to interfere with operations of the fire department or where they might cross electric power lines.

Some fears have been expressed as to the possibility of shock hazard on contact with an antenna or lead-in because of the high voltage used in the receiver, but these fears are groundless if the receiver is properly designed.

It is generally considered that a television receiver has a greater inherent fire hazard than a conventional radio receiver, because of its greater current consumption, greater number of heat producing components and the higher voltage used. Particular care should be taken that the natural ventilation built into the set is not obstructed or reduced by location or blanketing. Television sets should not be left turned on while unattended.

OPENING NEW RADIO-TV SHOP—Gregory Coppola, a radio technician, is shown congratulating Leo Conzo on the opening of the new Silver Lake Radio Shop at 337 Watertown street, corner of Chapel street, Newton. Standing by is Francis Price, who is also employed in the shop's repair department. Mr. Conzo, owner and founder of Silver Lake Radio, moved to the new location recently after 12 years in his former building. (Photo by Gordon Wilk)

New Building for Silver Lake Radio But Service Unchanged

After 12 years at the old location, the Silver Lake Radio Shop has moved to a new, air-conditioned building at 337 Watertown street, corner of Chapel street, with complete facilities for servicing all makes of radio and television.

Actually, Leo Conzo, owner of Silver Lake Radio Shop, has been in the radio and television business for about 27 years. Starting with repairing sets while in the Stearns School, under contract to two Nonantum stores, Mr. Conzo grew up with the industry, from the crystal set on.

Mr. Conzo continued his interest in servicing radios when he attended the F. A. Day Junior High School with the first class to enter that building. He helped form the Radio Club there and was its first president.

He attended Newton High School, where he was a member of the football team, and entered the repair business for himself at the old Silver Lake Radio Shop at 375 Watertown street.

Always looking ahead in his chosen field, Mr. Conzo arranged the first mass showings of television in the Newton area. When television signals were being experimentally produced here, he had some sets shipped from New York so he could demonstrate the coming medium to his customers.

At present the new store has one of the largest television part stocks in New England, and Mr. Conzo plans to expand his services even further. He runs the store now with the aid of his brother, Pat, but soon will expand his repair force so several can work at once in his spacious repair shop.

He is a dealer for all recognized makes of television and radio sets, and holds an exclusive dealership for Raytheon sets in this area. His sales of the Raytheon sets have been so high that the company is flying him to Chicago for a sales convention.

Mr. Conzo is the father of five children and the grandfather of five. The children are Leo Jr., a Navy veteran who has two children; Pat, who saw service during the war in both the Merchant Marine and the Army; Joseph; Betty, who is married and is the mother of three children; and Carol.

Mr. Conzo promises his customers that the change to his larger and more comfortable quarters does not signify any change in his policy. He is merely expanding so that more people can receive the honest, careful workmanship which he has specialized in for 27 years.

What Shall We Eat... The Sudden Picnic

You will double your summer fun if you are ready for the "sudden" picnic. We mean the kind of picnic for which someone gets the idea at just the right moment.

While youngsters whip out bathing suits, you make sandwiches, fill a thermos of milk, add some fruit and dessert, and ride off for hours of fun outdoors.

Here are five plans for an easy-to-pack picnic lunch. Tuck them away in your memory, or better still in a handy spot in your pantry. All these picnic lunches are from the popular foods which you keep on hand. They combine lots of good flavor combinations, and they are the stay-with-you kind of refreshment that youngsters and adults need when they are enjoying the outdoors.

One more thought for the ever-ready picnic: keep a box in which you store and tote the extras that add good taste and convenience to simple outdoor eating. In the box keep your extra salt and peppers, bottle and can openers, a corkscrew, serving and relish spoons, pickle forks and paper napkins. A washcloth and soap can come in very handy when children finish their picnic lunch.

Fod happy, easy eating outdoors:

Picnic 1
Cheese Sandwiches, Devilled Eggs, Carrot Sticks, Oatmeal Cookies, Plums, Milk.

Picnic 2
Devilled Ham Sandwiches, Lettuce Sandwiches with Lemon Butter cream butter with grated rind and lemon juice, to suit taste, Whole Tomatoes, Bananas, Milk.

Picnic 3
Tuna Salad Sandwiches, Oranges, Chocolate Sandwich Cookies, Milk.

Picnic 4
Egg Salad Sandwiches with Chopped Bacon, Whole Carrots (cut in 4" pieces) Dates or Raisins, Cupcakes, Milk.

Picnic 5
Sliced Meat Sandwiches with Lettuce, Gingersnaps, Grapes, Milk.

There were 127,400 more persons injured in U. S. motor vehicle accidents last year than in 1951.

Newton South Little League Selects Stars

Showing that sports ability must run in the family, shortstop Larry Zeno, son of Watertown football coach Joe Zeno, topped the Highlands Red Sox batters with a .500 mark to notch down a spot on the Newton South Little League All-Stars.

Other Highlands Red Sox players on the stellar team included pitcher Jim Kelley and Dave Connor. Holdovers from last year's All-Stars are Chris Stout, Tim Gosch and Fraser Wright of the pennant-winning Waban Braves, and Dave Quinn, Bob Delorie and Fred Lundberg of the Lower Falls Giants.

The remainder of South Little League All-Stars is composed of Dick Abrams and Vin Conroy of the Waban Braves, Larry Zeno and Dave Connor of the Highlands Red Sox, and Bob Watson and Cliff Galsunas of the Tigers.

Alternates are Peter Dalton of the Red Sox and Ken Downing and Joe LeBrun of the Giants. Honorary alternates are Peter Norstrand of the Braves and Ozzie McConathy of the Red Sox, who is recovering from an attack of rheumatic fever.

Miss Mary Louise Wetherbee, a teacher of English in Newton High School from 1910 to her retirement in 1945 died July 21, at the age of 81.

Miss Wetherbee, who graduated from Wellesley College in 1894 and attended Framingham Normal in 1894-1895, began her teaching career in Greenfield High School in 1895.

In Newton High School she was a beloved and accomplished leader in dramatic affairs, aside from her regular duties as a teacher of English. She coached the senior play each year, had charge of properties and costumes, became adviser to the Drama Club and coach of the plays, coached faculty plays, and for many years served of the Drama Board.

Miss Wetherbee traveled in England, France and in many parts of the North American continent. Active in community and professional affairs, she was a member of the Boston Women's City Club and the Foreign Policy Association for many years. At the time of her retirement in 1945, she was a member of the High School Women's Club, the National Council of Teachers of English, the New England Association of Teachers of English, and the National Education Association. She was also a member of The Every Saturday Club, the Newtonville Women's Club, the Women's Educational and Industrial Union, and the Boston Wellesley Club.

She continued her studies at Brown and other universities, and with Samuel Thurber, Head of the Department of English in Newton High School, edited two books. She was one of the teachers who stayed in the classroom by special arrangement during the war years after her compulsory retirement at the age of 70.

Since her retirement she has continued her interest in drama, coaching plays for young people's and other groups.

"Too often individual cities and states are in favor of reduction in federal government spending only if it is some other city or some other state," Kenneth R. Miller, NAM Senior Vice President.

'Most Courteous Cop' to Win 8-Day Cruise From AAA

The most courteous uniformed officer in Massachusetts will win an 8-day cruise to Havana and Nassau as part of an American Automobile Association campaign to increase Massachusetts' share of the important, 400-million-dollar-a-year tourist business.

The Massachusetts Division of the AAA plans to bring travelers to the state by offering visitors courtesy from all, particularly from police and registry inspectors who usually are the first to meet out-of-state tourists.

Voting to choose "The Most Courteous Cop" is underway throughout the state, and ballots are being distributed to visitors and residents alike through AAA offices, chamber of commerce, gasoline stations and hotels. The winner will be announced after Labor Day. If he is married, the AAA will send his wife with him.

Eligible to win the eight-day cruise aboard the S.S. Nassau are all uniformed officials, local and state police officers, customs men and registry of motor vehicles inspectors.

All this is part of an AAA plan to show "real Yankee hospitality" to visitors in an effort to promote Massachusetts' tourist business, now the fourth largest industry in the state.

First Lt. Letitia E. Doten, a public health nurse in Newton before entering the service two years ago, reported recently for duty in the Army Hospital at Carlisle Barracks, Pa. Lt. Doten, whose home is now in Ossipee, N.H., was graduated from Newton High School in 1943.

State Treasurer Furcolo May Be Candidate for Governor ... Mayor Hynes Backs Gov. Herter on MTA Fare Increase ...

State Treasurer Foster Furcolo may be the Democratic candidate against Governor Herter in next year's State election as a result of the sudden death of former Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin which completely changed the Massachusetts political picture.

Unless Paul A. Dever changes his mind and consents to run again for Governor, the three prospective candidates for the Democratic nomination for the Governorship are Furcolo, Sheriff Howard W. Fitzpatrick of Middlesex County and Congressman Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., of Cambridge.

Boston's Mayor John B. Hynes would be the No. 1 choice of most Democratic leaders, but Hynes has made it clear that he is not interested in running next year against Herter.

Dever declared some weeks ago that he would never again run for the Governorship. At that time, of course, he had every reason to expect that Maurice Tobin would be his party's gubernatorial standardbearer, and he might reverse himself, if it appeared the Democrats had no outstanding candidate to match against Herter.

It is more likely, however, that Dever will seek a place in the U. S. Senate, if he runs for anything, and will engage Senator Leverett Saltonstall who defeated Dever by a scant 5588 votes in their hectic race for the Governorship back in 1940.

N. C. Major Head UN Historian For Panmunjom Truce Talks

A former Newton Centre major is currently serving as chief military historian of the United Nations Command for the vital truce negotiations at Panmunjom.

Major John J. Devlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Devlin of 309 Langley road, Newton Centre, was chosen to be in charge of recording the truce talks from a list representing officers of the entire Far East command.

Major Devlin is now living in a "tent city" at Munsan-ni, which is in a neutral zone near Freedom Village and the site of the true talks. His assignments, however, is only temporary, and he is scheduled to be transferred to Japan at the end of August.

His wife, Nancy, and their two children, John Jr. and Tresa, plan to join him in Japan at the end of next month from their home in Santa Barbara, Calif.

Before going overseas, Major Devlin earned a citation from the First Army for his work as civil defense officer last year with the state of New York.

"Major Devlin's exemplary leadership, resourcefulness and selfless devotion to duty, coupled with the highly intelligent utilization of his rare and unusual professional qualifications, resulted in a distinct contribution of infinite value to the Civil Defense Program for the city of New York and First Army Area."

Major Devlin was graduated from Harvard College, Tufts College and Columbia University. During World War II, he saw Army service as a captain.

Newton North Dodgers Blast Way to Championship of City

Blasting their way to a pair of impressive runaway victories last week in a charity round-robin series for the Worcester Tornado Fund, the Newton North Little League Dodgers clearly showed that their league's all-stars will be a power to be reckoned with in the Little League tournament.

Led by their all-star nucleus of six players, the Dodgers romped to 15-3 and 15-1 victories over the Newton Centre Senators, champions of the East Little League. Between the two games, the Senators edged out the South Little League champions, Waban Braves, by a 6-5 margin, for the right to enter the final game.

The Dodgers just had too much power for the Senators, scoring early and often in both encounters. Al York limited the Senators to four hits in the first win at the Newton Centre Playground, and Dave Seelye completed the drubbing with a one-hitter at the Albemarle Playground.

The "in-between" game was taken by the Senators thanks to a one-man rampage by Paul Fitzgerald who hurled 5-hit ball and blasted a 3-run homer at the Waban Braves home field at the Allen Avenue Playground.

The Senators scored the deciding tally on a wild throw to the plate in the sixth and last inning to nip the Braves. Again it was Fitzgerald who proved the difference, scoring on a bad throw by the Waban Braves, by a 6-5 margin, for the right to enter the final game.

The Braves took a one-run lead in the first frame, but five Senators crossed the plate in a wild third-inning rally to wipe out that thin lead. Two runs scored on a throwing error, and Fitzgerald capped the rally with two on and two out with a homer over the left field fence.

Waban notched a single tally in their half of the third, and

ALDERMEN MAY VOTE MONDAY ON FARLOW PARK CONVERSION

Angevine Not To Ask Re-election

WN. Alderman First Served On 1945 Board

Alderman at Large Ernest G. Angevine of 95 Prince street, West Newton, a member of the board of aldermen for eight years and chairman of the important claims and rules committee since 1948, announced today that he would not seek re-election.

In his announcement, Alderman Angevine stated, "It has been both a pleasure and a privilege to serve the City of Newton for eight years as Alderman at Large from Ward 3. The work has been very interesting but like many honors it has been very time consuming."

"One of the most rewarding experiences of membership on the Newton Board of Aldermen is the association with board members who are men of honesty, ability and possessed of an unstinted measure of public devotion, and with the City officials and employees who bring to the difficult task of public administration a high level of skill and patience."

"I have enjoyed serving as Alderman but I am not going to seek reelection. I am grateful to many loyal friends and workers who have supported me in past elections."

Mr. Angevine was first elected to the aldermen in 1945 and served on the license and franchise, public buildings and claims and rules committees. Together with Alderman Kenneth E. Prior he served under the chairmanship of Alderman Sydney Baylor on the special committee of the board which studied and recommended the Oak Hill Park development as Newton's answer to the problem of veterans' housing.

Alderman Angevine became a member of the finance committee and chairman of the claims and rules committee in 1948. Under his chairmanship the committee studied and rewrote, and the

Reds May Hold 2 Newton Men In POW Camp

Although hope has been expressed that two missing Newton servicemen are prisoners of war of the Chinese Communists, there has been no definite information to date to indicate that the soldiers were in Red prison camps.

The name of neither man was included in the supposedly complete listings of United Nations POW's released in December, 1951, by the Communists. Prisoners exchanged earlier this year, however, have indicated that the Red listings were far from complete.

Master Sgt. Richard A. Haley of 22 Charles street, Auburndale, was the first Newtonite to be on a Korea casualty list when he was reported missing in action in July of 1950. The following month the War Department placed him on a prisoner of war list, but there has been no word of him since either directly or indirectly.

Pvt. Norman E. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin K. Moore of 157 Hicks street, West Newton, has been "missing in action" in Korea since January of 1951.

Sgt. Haley last visited home at the beginning of 1949 before he left for assignment in Japan. He is the son of the late Newton Police Officer William Haley, himself a veteran of World War I, and the late Margaret (Flanagan) Haley.

Born in West Newton, he is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Foristall of the Auburndale area. A career soldier, he served in the European Theater during World War II and later with the occupation forces. Sgt. Haley was first sergeant of Company I, 21st Infantry Regiment, 24th Division, before his capture.

Pvt. Moore was the second Newton serviceman to be listed as "missing in action." His parents were notified of this in a

Mortar Shell Hits Shoulder Of Newton GI

A Newton Army corporal received a shoulder wound from enemy mortar fire during the battle for "Christmas Hill" in Korea, according to a telegram to his mother from the War Department.

Mrs. Helen L. Greathead of 209 Adams street, Newton, reported that she has received two letters from her son, Cpl. George J. Greathead, since his hospitalization. The wound was described as "slight."

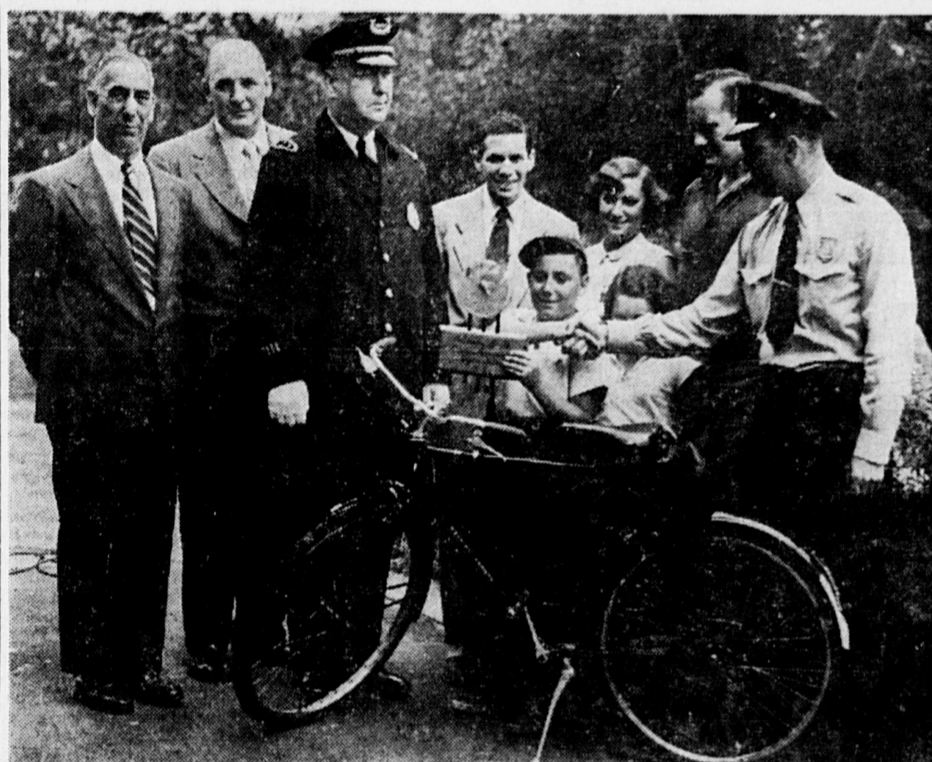

Also sent to Mrs. Greathead was the Purple Heart won by her 33-year-old soldier son, Cpl. Greathead, who served 26 months in World War II, re-enlisted in the Army in January and went to Korea in March.

Plan $9500 Playground For School

Board to Meet At 9 P.M. After Com'ttees Sit

The appropriation of close to $10,000 for the development of a portion of Farlow Park adjacent to Vernon and Eldredge streets, Newton, as a playground for the Underwood School features the docket to date for Monday's meeting of the Board of Aldermen in City Hall.

For the second meeting this Summer, the aldermen will begin their meeting at 9 p.m. instead of the former 7:30 starting time. The later time was voted so that committee meetings may be held that night and not the Thursday before.

By combining the committee and aldermanic sessions, the members of the board who spend their Summers some distance from Newton are saved a double trip back home.

The $9500 appropriation for the park conversion has been referred to the committees on finance and public works after being approved by Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood. The committees will probably act on the matter Monday so the funds may be voted the same night.

Mayor Lockwood has also recommended spending $8000 for new cement sidewalks, including curbs, at the Countryside Elementary, Oak Hill; Beethoven Avenue, Waban; New Clafin, Newtonville; and Murray Road, Auburndale, Schools.

The sidewalk appropriation must be acted upon by the finance and public works committees before coming before the meetings, as must a recommendation for $5000 for new water meters and $1720 for closing a dead end water main on Westland avenue, West Newton.

Before the aldermen consider the docket, a series of hearings will be conducted. Two hearings will be on the construction of board adopted the Vacation and Sick Leave Ordinances.

The committee on claims and rules, in conjunction with the Planning Board, worked for two years with the firm of Adams, Howard and Greeley on a complete revision of the zoning laws for Newton, during the course of which study many public hearings were held. The so-called "Adams" report was widely discussed and as modified by the committee was adopted by the board and constitutes the present zoning law of the City.

The committee on claims and rules took the initiative in recommending a new codification of the city ordinances and the employment of an outside firm of specialists to work with the city solicitor, Matt S. Jones, to bring the ordinances up to date and to recommend eliminations, changes and regroupings.

This was finished and adopted by the board, and the Revised Ordinances are now available for the first time in complete book form with pocket supplements for current ordinances.

ON ROOM AIR CONDITIONERS

and Beat the Heat of Aug. Dog Days!

FEDDERS AIR CONDITIONERS

Give Full Money's Worth of Cooling!

When you buy a room air conditioner, you're paying for cooling power. It's measured in tons. A 1-ton capacity unit is supposed to deliver enough cool air to freeze 1 ton of water in a 24-hour period. A 1/2-ton capacity unit would freeze 1/2 ton of water . . . and so on.

When you buy, follow the example of so many tough, wary buyers for hotels and motels who know how to get their full money's worth. These buyers often find that a Fedders 1/2-ton capacity unit out-performs a competitive 1-ton unit.

Fedders has the cooling power of fifteen refrigerators for less than the cost of one! But the Fedders unit doesn't tell you how cool you should be! You're the boss. The amazing Fedders Built-In Weather Bureau gives you the weather you want with the touch of a button. It's the most remarkable feature in air conditioning history.

You get full measure of cooling power when you buy Fedders—and the utmost in comfort, too! Fedders Automatic Comfort Control Thermostat keeps room temperatures at the exact degree you set it. Two double-size spun-glass filters catch a greater amount of irritating dust, soot and pollen before they reach your lungs. You get your full money's worth when you buy a Fedders' room air conditioner.

How can the sleek, compact Fedders unit give you greater cooling capacity than bigger, bulkier units? The secret is Fedders exclusive V-type Evaporator Coil! It's a good example of how you can benefit from Fedders long experience in designing precision cooling systems for fine automobiles and refrigerators. Fedders can put greater cooling power at your fingertips because the V-Coil has more square inches of cooling surface! This also accounts for its greater dehumidifying ability and that's what really counts here!

Jamboree Jottings

The following account of the National Boy Scout Encampment in California was written by Salvatore DeFazio Jr. for the Norumbega Council, Boy Scouts of America. The local contingent is en route home at the present, and the Scouts' month-long jamboree trip is scheduled to end today (Thursday). The Graphic plans to print the conclusion of "Jamboree Jottings" soon after Scout DeFazio's return.

The morning of July ninth broke cool and slightly overcast, but the Jamboree Scouts from Norumbega Council did not let the weather affect their spirits. This was the great day that everyone had waited for so long, after months of preparation and work the troop was finally on its way to the big Jamboree in California.

The bus, for the trip to Boston and our train, left shortly after six in the morning but not until farewells were given and pictures taken. A police car gave us recognition by escorting us to South Station. There we boarded "The Yankee Special," one of the three special trains for Jamboree Scouts from New England. At 7:30 the train pulled out on the New York, New Haven and Hartford line and we sensed the thrill of our expectant destination.

We dug out maps and began to plot our route across the country, checking off the towns that we passed. In Massachusetts we picked up fellow Scouts from Norwood and Walpole. Connecticut brought us boys from Putnam, Willimantic, Hartford and New Haven.

A box lunch was served just before we arrived at New York City, and after a short stop under the city we proceeded across New Jersey. Our car swung and swayed as we swiftly rolled on and before long we stopped at the outskirts of Philadelphia, city of brotherly love.

The time spent on the train was occupied by everything from playing cards to discussing the layout of our campsite at the Jamboree. Lap boards provided by the Quartermaster proved very helpful. In the late afternoon we had a short stop at Harrisburg, the capital of Pennsylvania.

Around supper time we viewed the beautiful horseshoe curve around the Altoona Water Works in the Allegheny Mountains. Across the vast country we passed mining towns and picturesque villages, typical of Pennsylvania. As the sun slowly settled in the West, we occupied ourselves reading, writing, catching up on our notes and singing songs with the help of a harmonica and a sweet potato. We bunked down just about the time we bumped into Pittsburgh and we were able to get a glimpse of the skyline.

40 Winks in 3 States
The night brought some rough traveling and several times we were jarred by the crisscross of the rails, but on the whole we managed to snatch forty winks as we traveled across Ohio, Indiana and Illinois to the second largest city in the United States. At 6 o'clock we pulled into Chicago's Union Station and left our car bag and baggage to head into the huge waiting room of our packs. Breakfast was served mass production in the famous Fred Harvey's restaurant.

Our tour of the city followed. It began at Union Station at 7:15 and went across the Chicago River and to the Merchandise Mart, largest privately-owned building in the world. State street brought us to Marshall Field's the second largest department store in the world. Heading toward Lake Michigan we passed the Conrad Hilton and Blackstone Hotels and at Grant Park we stopped for a view of the Chicago skyline.

Chicago's Natural History and Science Museum was our next stop. There the buses were emptied and for almost a half hour we were intrigued with modern implements of science. When our Troop Bugler sounded Assembly we organized back to the buses and drove back past the Lake-view Press (home of Life magazine), Soldiers Field and Fifth Army Headquarters to Union Station.

A small hike with our packs across the River to the LaSalle Street Station took us up an escalator to another train. A Pullman would serve as our home for the days of pushing on across the rest of the country. We made ourselves comfortable and pulled out at 12:30 CST.

A new scene faced us as we pulled away from Illinois—corn fields! More and more of them, with an occasional farm house, passed our windows. In mid-afternoon we pulled into Rock Island, the last town in Illinois; and signifying the entrance into the Midwest: "the Mississippi River. As the sun began to set on the horizon our train came into Des Moines, the capital of Iowa. Ten minutes later the train's occupants lined up and marched to the Kirkwood Hotel's restaurant where we enjoyed a delicious meal in the hotel's banquet hall. About an hour later we paraded down to the train again where we parted on our journey.

We were quite tired from the days' travel, and we climbed into our bunks early. Sleep did not make us realize that we passed the Missouri River into Omaha, Nebraska at 11:30 that night. All through the night we pounded through Nebraska at a "mild" 90 miles an hour and at six o'clock yours truly was awakened in the small village of North Platte in western Nebraska. The weather was cloudy and drizzly, but it cleared up much to our pleasure.

Just before breakfast, on this eleventh day of July, our train "clipped Colorado at Julesburg and breakfast was served shortly after we passed Sidney, Nebraska. We really made time. At 9:10 we arrived at Cheyenne, Wyoming, for another of our frequent refills of ice for our refrigeration, then on to a small stop called Tie Siding near Laramie. This place got its name as the spot where ties were unloaded for the first railroad out to the West. From there we boarded buses and drove over the hills, down valleys and around horseshoe curves to the Double Bar 7 Ranch.

Wyoming Rodeo
At this ranch we were served dinner and invited to see a horse and steer show, something like a rodeo. We were thrilled by the cowhands who did branding, riding steer, bulldogging steer, calf and team roping and clover-leaf racing for us inside the arena. This was a truly thrilling experience.

We sensed the West in true tradition laying out the doormat for friends of the East. The rugged cowboys, the Wyoming red soil and the hills made everything quite different, but the hospitality of the folks made us feel right at home.

The sun began to cast long shadows in the valley when we were served a delicious barbeque supper right from vats on a hot fire, and at eight o'clock we had to leave. We took the bus while singing. Back at Laramie we met our train and around 9:30 left with the feeling of a successful and interesting day having passed into history.

All night we pounded across lower Wyoming and entered Utah early on Sunday morning. The Scouts woke around six in the morning, for we were scheduled to arrive in Salt Lake City at 7:15. After final preparations we pulled into the station and were greeted by signs saying "Welcome Scouts."

Outdoors at Pioneer Park the hundreds of boys from our train and several thousand other Scouts ate an extraordinary breakfast of "coke" and minute steaks. (Was this the kind of breakfast they always serve out West? No, I found out later, it wasn't!)

A half hour later we boarded buses for church. The Catholic boys went to the Cathedral of the Madelene and the Protestants went to the First Presbyterian Church. A tour of the city followed which included the State Capitol and the grave of Brigham Young, the first leader of the Mormons. Dinner was served in the Park. This time we had something a little more natural to eat.

Great Salt Lake
Afterwards we eagerly boarded buses and headed across big salt flats to Salt Lake. Our eyes met the sight of a large amusement area which included a roller coaster. The Scouts changed clothes and, under a "buddy system," swam and floated in the salt water. One fault with the water was that it was very thick and if by accident the salt would get into the eye it would cause a stinging. But regardless, we all had a good time. Showers were given to wash off the excess salt that would stick on us. We arrived back at the station in late afternoon where we had free time sending cards and souvenirs. At six we departed.

Supper was served as we crossed the end of Salt Lake and we caught a last glimpse of the mountains that surrounded the city. On this last day on the train we had our medical exams to save time when we arrived at the site.

As a tribute (?) to our last night on the train, we had a terrific pillow fight, but the tiring exercise overtook us and we soon dropped into sleep. All night we sped across the rest of Utah and through Nevada where in the morning we met another scene outside our windows. It was hot and barren except for the desert cactus in sight and jack rabbits scrambling from the tracks as we clicked by.

The morning was spent in packing up our packs and cleaning up our car. We began to get a different view as we came closer to East Los Angeles. Small houses and palm trees passed our windows. At 2:45 PST our train came to its last stop, after four days of travel. After a short wait in Los Angeles we clambered aboard buses and sped south 38 miles to our Jamboree campsite.

We gave a rousing cheer as we entered the area, and when the man at the gate asked us where we were from, we proudly yelled "MASSACHUSETTS" and pushed on.

main drains, and eight are scheduled for the construction of main drains and sewers. Hearings will be held on taking land for and the construction of the drains through private land, from Christina street to Bernard street, Newton Highlands, and Christina street, from west of Goddard street.

Other hearings are scheduled on taking land for and construction of main drains and common sewers through Larkin road, West Newton, through Murray road to beyond Westwood street; Dorcar road, Newton Centre from Vine street to beyond Eastham road; Cheever avenue, Newton Centre, from Dorcar road to Brookline street.

Also, Scotney road, Newton Centre, from Dorcar road to Vine street; Tirrell crescent, Newton Centre, from Dorcar road easterly; Eastham road, Newton Centre, from Dorcar road southeasterly; private land in Newton Centre from Eastham road to the main sewer; and private land in Newton Centre from Tirrell crescent to the main sewer.

Joint petitions of the Boston Edison Company and the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company for pole and wire locations are scheduled for public hearings.

The two companies are seeking nine pole locations on Alhambra road, Newtonville, near Joseph road; two locations on Shirley street, Auburndale, near Auburndale avenue; one location on High Rock terrace, Oak Hill, near Rolling lane; and one location on Irving road, Waban, near Waban avenue.

The aldermen will also conduct a hearing on a petition by the Moye Chevrolet Company of Newton for a license to erect and use a 14-car capacity addition to the firm's existing garage at 431 Washington street.

The preliminary docket lists for the aldermen's action a number of land offers, several petitions from residents seeking street acceptance and drain and sewer construction, several permits and four appointments.

The appointments by Mayor Lockwood, which by parliamentary law have been "on the table," are of Charles S. Grover, 38 Vista avenue, Auburndale, as an associate member of the Board of Appeals, Building Laws, for a one-year term; Mrs. Orpha Zimmer, 24 Shady Hill road, Newton Highlands, as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Library Department for five years; Endicott Smith, 81 Lee road, Chestnut Hill, a member of the Board of License Commissioners to fill the unexpired term of Hugh Harwood; and Donald D. McKay, 46 Woodcliff road, Newton Highlands, as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Jackson Homestead.

Dodgers-

then erupted for three in the fifth to tie the score. The Braves' runs came as the result of an infield error, two doubles and a pair of wild pitches.

The other two games were strictly "no contest." The Dodgers scored nine times in the first two innings to ice the first contest, and completed the carnage with six runs in the fifth frame. Top hitters for the Dodgers were third baseman Bud Russo with a three-run homer, a double and a single in four trips; shortstop Billy Woodcock with a double and two singles; and first sacker Dave Seely with another three-run homer and a single. York also banged out a double and a single in addition to his pitching chores.

The championship game followed the same script, but was mercifully called at the end of four innings because of darkness after a seven-run rally by the Dodgers had skyrocketed the score to 15-1.

This time Seely moved from first base to the mound, and completely baffled the Senators with his southpaw slants. After the Senators took a brief lead in the first inning on a bases empty homer by Paul Fitzgerald—hero of the Senator's win—the Dodgers tallied five times in their half-inning.

A pair of walks followed by a single and a double gave the Dodgers two more runs in the second, and the champions ended the game with seven runs in the last inning on six hits, a steal, a walk, two passed balls and three miscues.

Dodgers catcher Frankie Donnellan and first baseman Tommy Ryan both hit a single and a double, while York, now playing second, and Russo both spanked out a pair of singles. Seely went hitless in one at bat, but

In comparing automobile values, one of your first considerations is price—and here's where Pontiac stars. Pontiac is priced next to the lowest—but in size, appearance and luxury, it measures up to far costlier cars.

Carrying your value comparison even further, consider Pontiac's unsurpassed reputation for long life, dependability and over-all economy.

But Pontiac's big plus is in its performance. Whether you're guiding it through rush-hour traffic or skimming the highway, Pontiac's big, husky, high-compression engine answers every demand with power to spare.

A Time For Tears

The truce was official; the fighting, at long last, was to halt. The prayers of a million mothers had not been wasted.

The news of the "tense armistice" was greeted in Newton with the sporadic blowing of whistles and horns. The demonstration was weak and self-conscious, as if the people thought they should celebrate something, but were not exactly sure what.

In all truthfulness, we do not yet know what we celebrate this week. The crack of weapons has stilled, to be true. The agonizing shadow of sudden, unavoidable death has for the moment been lifted from the bloody Golgotha of Korea.

There never has been such a war as this.
The old rules were cast aside for a brutal conflict that seemed to have no end. Korea became a perpetual memorial to an ever-increasing number of American dead. There was only the continuous battle of today,
and tomorrow was only a hopeful dream.

The blessed tomorrow of "peace in our time"—so mistakenly prophesied by a little man with an umbrella before the holocaust of World War II—has not yet come.

Ahead of us lies the real battle, for in our efforts toward a peaceful existence, we must not drift into the happy playland of delusion. In bringing youth of our country home from that snow-covered peninsula halfway around the world, we can only at the risk of our lives and liberties ignore the malignant cancer of Communism.

This is not a time for gay celebrating,
for the New Year's Eve blowing of horns and whistles, for cries of delight and the pleasure of forgetfulness.

This is, instead, a time of reeducation,
of a purposeful reevaluation of our future. It is a time for thankfulness, a time for prayer. It is also a time for tears.

Political Overtones

As matters now stand, Dever can come pretty close to naming the Democratic candidates for both Governor and U. S. Senator,
if his party chooses to hold a State convention next year. There has been some uncertainty whether the Democrats will hold a State convention next year or simply allow the voters to nominate the members of their State-wide slate in a party primary, but the guessing now is that they probably will hold their own convention in an attempt to produce a strong and balanced ticket.

Furcolo gave up his seat in Congress last year and accepted an appointment as State Treasurer, an office he could not hold for more than six years under the law, with the understanding that he would be given a chance to bid for the Governorship in the near future.

It now appears that Furcolo may be given an opportunity to make his gubernatorial fight in 1954. To assure him of the nomination, however, it may be necessary to clear the primary field for him. That is the reason it is now assumed the Democrats will hold a State convention next year.

Furcolo is extremely popular in central and western Massachusetts, particularly in the Springfield area, and he might prove a formidable candidate for the Governorship.

In a Democratic primary, however,
the great bulk of votes are cast in Greater Boston, and a number of Democrats in this area might put up a real battle and possibly win the nomination,
if they chose to oppose Furcolo.

If Furcolo is the Democratic candidate for Governor, it is probable that the nominee for Lieutenant Governor would be selected from Greater Boston to give the ticket geographical balance.

Most Democrats, incidentally, believe that Governor Herter is extremely strong
at the present time and that if he continues building his strength, as he seemingly has,
he is likely to be a very potent standard-bearer for his party next year. There may be little clamor for the privilege of running against him.

An unusual political scene was presented in the Governor's office the other day, when Republican Governor Herter and Democratic Mayor Hynes sat side by side at a joint press conference answering questions on the proposed MTA fare increase.

On the very morning of the meeting the Christian Science Monitor printed a front-page story booming Hynes as a candidate for the Governorship next year and sizing him up as the strongest standard-bearer his party could run against Herter.

During the press conference one reporter
asked the Governor if he felt the fare rise would cost him votes if he ran for re-election in 1954.

A trace of a smile flicked across Herter's features, and he answered that he hadn't given any thought to that phase of the situation or to what the political consequences
might be to him from the efforts of the MTA trustees to straighten out the transit system's financial predicament.

There was a momentary lull in the room. Then Hynes spoke up and said he didn't think the MTA should be a political issue, declaring that he considered it an economic issue which "transcends politics," that he and other Democratic Mayors in the Greater Boston area regarded it in that light, weren't trying to make political capital
of it or to criticize anyone.

What he in effect was saying was that the MTA fare increase should not cost Governor Herter any votes and that it is a matter which should not be viewed against a political background.

It was rather unusual to hear a Democratic Mayor going to the assistance of a Republican Governor, but Hynes is one man
in public life who practices what he preaches,
and he believes that the MTA affects the daily lives of far too many people to be made a political football.

He subsequently supported a statement
by Governor Herter with his own assertion that as the law is presently written the MTA trustees have no alternative but to seek a raise in fares and that they are simply doing what the law requires they must do.

There aren't too many men in politics
who would have been as completely fair with a member of the opposite political party, as Hynes was with Herter.

In all fairness, of course, Governor Her-ter inherited the MTA problem. He didn't create it. The road last year lost about $9,500,000, and the only reason the deficit was not that great was that a refund in a tax abatement case held it down.

The real question at stake in this MTA controversy is whether the road should obtain a greater amount of money from its riders or simply continue placing its deficit on the property-owners.

There isn't any pleasing answer to that problem because the riders don't want to pay higher fares, and the home-owners already are staggering under the weight of their own tax burden.

Whatever criticism may be directed at the MTA trustees appointed by Governor Herter, they certainly have adopted a program of action in marked contrast to the see-no-evil, hear-no-evil, speak-no-evil attitude of their predecessors.

Frank W. Rourke, whom Herter induced to accept the chairmanship of the MTA, is an extremely able railroad man, and, despite the fact that the former trustees insisted they had accomplished all the economies that were possible, Rourke has made a sizeable reduction in the road's payroll
and has achieved other savings.

He has taken a terrific amount of abuse
from political demagogues when one stops to consider that the law requires the trustees
to fix fares which they consider will come
most closely to meeting the operating expenses of the transit system.

It would be a great thing if Rourke could cut expenses to the point where a fare increase would not be necessary. It obviously is not possible to do that and still provide the service needed by the public. But it also is a fact that it was never intended that the property-owners in the 14 cities and towns should subsidize the MTA to the extent of paying upwards of an additional $10,000,000
in their yearly tax bills.

RANDOM CLIPPINGS

Firemen were summoned to put out a blaze in the Oakland, Calif., Y. M. C. A. after Jim Heckle, a carnival fire-eater, was seized with a fit of coughing during a performance.

Bookseller Michael Rustine of Lorain,
Ohio, was arrested and fined $50 for gambling after admitting that he had allowed his customers to roll dice, double or nothing,
when it came time to pay for their purchases.

Arrested for selling his wife and three children along with his home and household furnishings for $480 to Giacomo Martina in Mons, Belgium, Emilie Rondoti was finally freed by the local judge but ordered to pay court costs.

After an Akron, O., court named Attorney Joseph Roulhac to defend Charles Williams, 19, an alleged automobile thief, appointment was hastily rescinded when it was discovered that the car Williams was charged with stealing belonged to Roulhac.

While being treated for eye and back injuries after falling from a 20-foot rock wall
in Kansas City, Mo., Robert Thompson, 41, explained that he had been so impressed by the conquest of Mt. Everest that he felt the impulse to do some climbing himself.

The Forever Young Club in Providence announced recently that it was merging with Activities for the Aged, Inc.

Arrested for distributing moonshine whiskey in a Nashville, Tenn., hospital, John Clardy, 51, admitted that he had regularly delivered about five gallons a week to patients "because I thought it was good for them."

When neighbors of Mrs. Coddie Hunt in Canandaigua, N. Y., complained that her pets were making too much noise, she admitted that housed in her cellar were 34
cats, 12 roosters and guinea hens, three dogs
and two calves.

James R. Duffy, 42, explained to police in East Chicago, Ind., that the reason he had been unable to show up in court to answer a charge of drunken driving was that he had been arrested for drunken driving in nearby Valparaiso and clapped immediately into jail.

tion of the children of its members. Its membership is well over 66,000 members who carry

It has branches or lodges in more

Public Health Dept. Opens Accident Prevention Program

A three-year home accident prevention program aimed at reducing the State's "shockingly high" number of home accident fatalities will be launched Aug. 1 with a $96,600 grant awarded the Massachusetts Department of Public Health by the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, it was announced today.

Dr. Samuel B. Kirkwood, State Health Commissioner, reported that the director of the new program will be John A. Bellizzi of Arlington, an associate engineer with the department. His staff will include a public health nurse, a health educator, and a clerk.

"Home accidents are one of the most serious public health problems in this State," pointed out Dr. Kirkwood, "causing even more deaths than motor vehicles. For example, last year 500 motor vehicle fatalities occurred while more than 970 persons were killed as a result of accidents occurring in their homes. In addition, approximately 114,000 were disabled or injured at home. In dollars and cents, including medical expenses, wages lost, and increased premiums, these accidents cost $26,000,000."

The grant, the Commissioner declared, will enable the State Health Department to expand its home accident prevention activities into a full-scale demonstration project. In making the funds available, Kellogg authorities expressed the hope that experience gained in the Massachusetts study will serve as a guide for the development of home safety programs in other state and local health departments in the nation.

In carrying out its program, the Department will work closely with the medical and nursing professions, the Massachusetts Safety Council, the American Red Cross, local health and school departments, insurance companies, housing and building officials, and other interested groups.

An intensive educational campaign is planned, according to Dr. Kirkwood. Special research projects will be conducted in determining specific causes and methods of eliminating home accidents. The department plans to cooperate with architects, building associations, and realtors in "building out" physical hazards in the home through better design, construction, equipment, and maintenance.

Attractive New Designs For Fall Wardrobes

Look your absolute best this fall with clothes that are distinctly your own because they have been made by you. There's a design to suit every type and shape among McCall's Patterns, and the most fashionable colors of the coming season are described by Helen Carlton in McCall's Magazine. In the August issue, she assembles a complete and varied wardrobe of suits, dresses, coats and separates for you to choose from:

"First choose your color, and pick the most becoming from a delicious palette of bold or subtle shades. You'll find just what you want in all sorts of fabrics—in wool and silk, in cotton, in man-made fibers and in blends. Here's a report on the colors that the most fashionable fabrics will be wearing this year:

"Deep brown to eggshell—for everything from your winter coat to your best party dress.

"A forest full of green—from the mossy muted olive tones to the deep brilliance of spruce.

"All the heavenly blues—royal and turquoise and hyacinth, but all with a softness of tone.

"A delectable range of reds—all with a warm rosy cast, from rambler - rose pink, through heather, up to true scarlet.

"Black will be worn with color this fall. You will find it in all kinds of fashionable fabrics—with multicolor stripes, vivid as a gypsy or restrained as a man's business suit; with white, in crisp prints, newest on corduroy, and in subtle woven patterns and stripes; with one color, printed or woven in fascinating textured effects of black and bright.

"Make yourself a coat and suit. You'll have no trouble finding just what you want—the coat that goes best in line and color with all your clothes, the suit that's exactly your type. One coat with button-on side-belts is easy and elegant. It slips over the new tulip-top dresses and suits.

"One such tulip-top suit is gently fitted above its stalk-slim skirt. The roundness of the bosom is emphasized by curved shoulders. A tulip-top dress, a French inspiration, has puffy sleeves and a billowing skirt with unpressed pleats.

"Other suit and coat patterns include: an utterly elegant coachman's coat with buttoned, flanged sleeves, a beautifully detailed collarless coat with pockets set in curved seams, a black-bloused suit with double-breasted closing and a contour belt that buttons on, and a topper to make in a jiffy in four main sections plus pockets and facings.

"Make yourself a flattering dress. This fall's fashions are essentially slim but not tight. Soft fullness and gentle gores are fine for hips that don't take kindly to the straight and narrow. A low-backed sheath plus an overdress looks like a bolero and skirt. A bare shoulder dress has no sleeves and a skirt full only in back. A scalloped sheath dress has a shaped stole cut double-thickness and scalloped too.

"Make your own separates. Mix them and match them to add up to costumes in the way that's more important than ever. A four-gored skirt has a fringe sewn in points, plus a stole with a pointed back and angled ends. A jumper and blouse are your smartest standbys. You can wear them together or let them go separate ways.

"A wrap-skirt made of one length of fabric plus a triangular stole gives you a terrific costume. A sweater-look blouse fits neat as a pin at waist and neckline. Its little sleeves are cut in one with the bodice. A weskit goes under a suit jacket or with a skirt, either alone or with a blouse. A tucked bib front adds an expensive look to a simple blouse."

Backyard Gardener

By ALFRED W. BOICOURT

Many gardeners fail to make full use of their cold frame. As soon as spring planting is over, they let the soil in the cold frame go to weeds or use it as a storage space for house plants which might be stored somewhere else. A cold frame is too valuable to be left idle or to be used for storage. There are many shrubs and evergreens that can be rooted from cuttings taken in July and August. Aronia (chokeberry), Deutzia, forsythia, lilac, Pieris (andromeda), privet, rose (rambler type) Taxus (yew), weigelia, and wisteria are some examples of shrubs and evergreens that can be started in your cold frame. The average length of the cutting will be about 4 to 5 inches. Be sure to use a sharp knife or razor blade in making a slanting cut below the node or joint of the stem.

Dig out the soil from the frame and replace with a mixture of 2 parts of sand and 1 part of peat moss. Drench the rooting medium with water and then insert basal end of the cutting 1 inch deep in a narrow trench made with an old knife or similar tool. Firm the sand/peat mixture around the base of the cuttings and water again thoroughly.

Cuttings in a cold frame need shade during the summer. Thus, you may whitewash the underside of the sash or cover the frame with several layers of cheesecloth. Another method would be to build a close knit frame of laths to provide the shade.

The cuttings should be rooted by late fall. They may be left in the sand until spring or transplanted to soil but still protected by a frame. I'll mention more about using your cold frame in another release, but right now something must be said about preventing late blight to tomatoes. This disease has already been reported in the Connecticut Valley. Gardeners should dust or spray regularly at weekly intervals with a copper fungicide.

Savory, Easy Meat Casseroles Make Ideal Meals

Meat casseroles are a wonderful answer to the quick, easy summer meal. They include in one dish all the tasty nourishment your family needs and let you off kitchen duty lightly, says Margrit Lutz in McCall's. Writing in the August issue, she gives recipes for several good casseroles and suggests ending the meal with cheese and fruit:

MIXED MEAT CASSEROLE

Casserole:
1 lb. each beef, veal, lamb and pork
2 big onions
3 stalks celery
3 leeks or 6 spring onions
3 potatoes

Bouquet garni:
10 peppercorns
2 bay leaves
2 cloves garlic
½ teaspoon cumin
½ teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon marjoram
1½ teaspoons salt
2 to 3 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon white vinegar
Cut the four kinds of meat in to bigish chunks, then slice in ¼" slices. Cut all vegetables in same size slices. Tie all bouquet garni ingredients into a little cheesecloth sack.

Start your oven at 375°F or moderate.

Now in a medium casserole put layers of the different meats and vegetables. Sprinkle layers with salt and poke the bouquet garni sack into center of casserole. Pour in water and vinegar. Cover casserole tightly and bake 1 to 1½ hours or until meats are tender when tested with a fork. Take out the bouquet garni and discard it before serving to 4.

CREOLE CASSEROLE

1 cup uncooked rice
2 tablespoons butter, margarine or shortening
2 medium onions
6-oz. can tomato paste or 8-oz. can tomato sauce
2 green peppers
4 green onions
½ lb. boiled ham
1 lb. small link sausages
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper

Cook rice according to package directions and drain. Start your oven at 375°F or moderate.

Heat butter, margarine or shortening in a large skillet, add until onions are golden and limp, the chopped onions and cook. Now pour in the tomato paste or sauce, mix in chopped green peppers, chopped green onions (tops and all), chunks of ham and sausages which have been cut into ½" slices.

Cook over a low heat, stirring frequently, for 15 minutes. Add the cooked rice, salt and pepper. Transfer to a medium casserole, cover and bake 45 minutes. Enough for 4.

This entire affair is designed to raise money for the Parishes of the Archdiocese while at the same time assisting in collecting enough to build this NEW TV CHAPEL. If the Parish itself is not in need of funds, then any one of the Organizations within the Parish—the CYO, the Boy Scouts, the Holy Name Society, the Tabernacle Society, the Sodality, etc. — can raise funds for its own program, while assisting with this one.

These books of tickets will be given to the Parishes or Organizations without any charge whatsoever. You can take as many books as you want. You have no expense, you take no financial risk. The only work you do is to distribute the books.

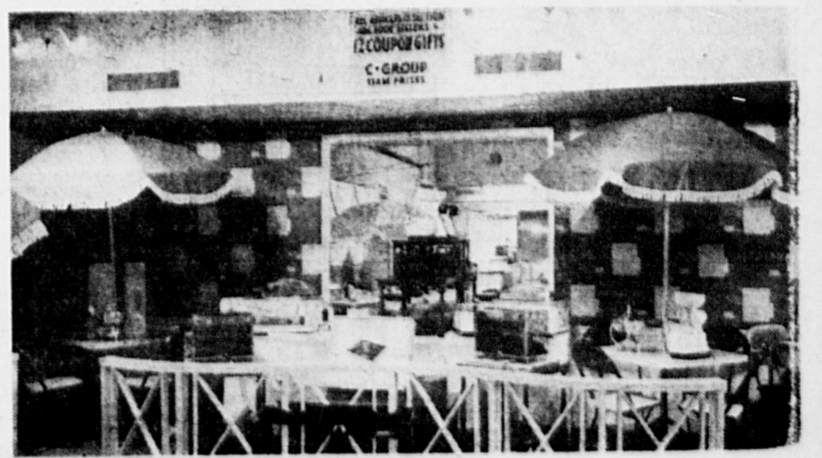

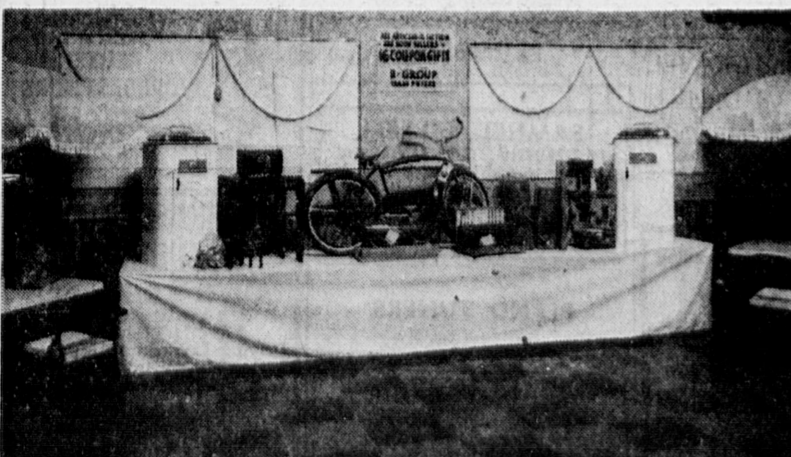

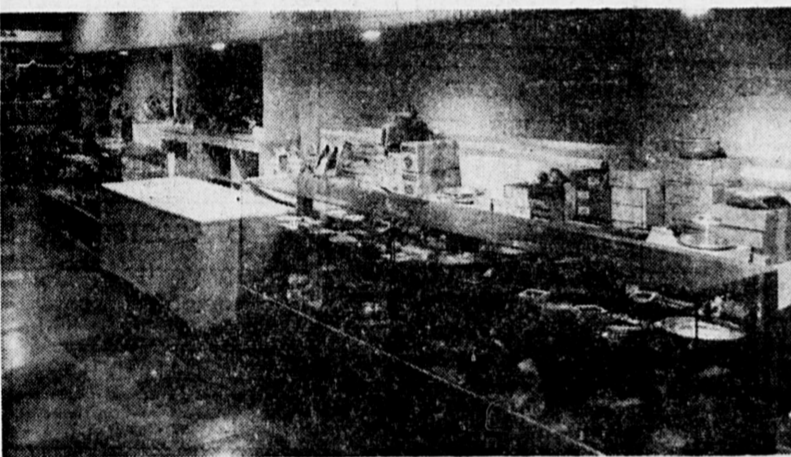

In addition to the money you receive, we will give to the Book Sellers their choice of many valuable gifts. These gifts will be governed by the number of books sold.

You can also form Teams of 5 Members and we in turn will give Team Prizes, one to each member. The value of these gifts will be in accordance with the amount of money turned in by the Teams.

No single parish could possibly manage such a gigantic plan. Together however, it can be done. Everyone will benefit—the individual, the person who attends the show, the parish or organization which takes part and the Archdiocesan TV Building Fund.

Tickets will be available about Wednesday, June 17th. A list of the participating Parishes and Organizations will be published. It is of great importance that Priests and Laypeople come into Headquarters to see the wonderful gifts that they can earn for the sale of tickets.

Show Headquarters at 130 Boylston Street, Boston. Open every day, Monday thru Saturday — 9:00 A.M.—8:00 P.M., later also by appointment.

W.N. Surgeon Aids Campaign to Build Dr. Lahey Pavilion

Dr. Samuel F. Marshall of 257 Prince street, West Newton, a prominent surgeon, will be one of 10 unit chairmen of the Half Million Dollar Club of the New England Baptist Hospital which will raise $500,000 for the new Dr. Frank H. Lahey Memorial Pavilion adjoining the Hospital.

The Club will eventually comprise 500 members, each of whom will enlist the cooperation of five or six friends. Already more than 200 professional, business, civic and social leaders have become charter members.

Dr. Marshall is on the staff of the Lahey Clinic, the New England Baptist Hospital and the New England Deaconess Hospital. He has been a surgeon at these three institutions since 1935.

He is a member of the American Surgical Society, Southern

Youngsters Give Talent Program At Farlow Park

A total of 14 young artists participated in a talent show for children of the Farlow Park area in Newton, in the first of a series planned by the Newton Recreation Department.

The participants included Catherine Donahue, ballet dancer; Mary Anne Flaherty and Lillian Curley, recitations; Richard Donahue, Irene MacLean, Catherine Donahue and Alexandria MacLean, songs; and Stephen O'Brien, Thomas McGoldrick, William Semple, Paul Lanigan and Robert Terry, humorous skits.

No Vacations During Summer For Red Cross

Theoretically, the Service Groups of the Newton Chapter, American Red Cross, have suspended much of their volunteer activities for the summer; however, Mrs. Robert W. Moore Jr., chairman of service groups, reports that the need for volunteer service is always present.

During July, Mrs. James H. Orr, chairman of entertainment and supply, with the able assistance of Mrs. Wilmot Hitt and Miss Dorothy Simpson, has arranged three evenings or afternoons of diversion for the patients at the Mary MacArthur Respiratory Unit of the Wellesley Convalescent Home.

Miss Carole Taylor of Needham, vocalist and pianist, was the featured artist for the first program. Four of the "Irish Dancers," Mary, Dolly, Catherine and Gerry in costume with Tom Senior playing the accordion, were so popular that they have promised to give a repeat performance in the fall. This past week members of the cast of "Annie Get Your Gun" gave excerpts from their play.

In the other services, Canteens continue to work at the Regional Blood Center. Motor Service has been busy answering emergency calls, many trips having been made transporting volunteers to Worcester. Nurse's Aides and Gray Ladies have been on duty in Veterans Hospitals and at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital. They also helped in Worcester. Staff Aides have been busy with the Water Safety Program.

The Red Cross Volunteer continues her quiet, unobtrusive job of helping wherever and whenever the need arises, even during the hot summer days.

Electric Refrigerator's Gas Is Irritating to Eyes, Throat

By NEWTON FIRE PREVENTION BUREAU
Fire departments are frequently called to extinguish fires in the domestic electric refrigerators such as are found in the home and in many apartment houses.

To some extent there is the impression that these fires are connected with the refrigerator, but such is not the case. The refrigerator most extensively used actually has fire extinguishing properties, and when it escapes the danger in not any way one of fire, but that of an irritant gas. The fire hazard of these refrigerators is related to the electrical feature and, in the main, to the motor.

Losses due to these fires are small and are mainly due to smoke damage and the need of replacing the motor. An investigation of these occurrences has disclosed that many of the fires were due to insulation failures in the motors.

Lack of oil on the bearings and cleaning the dust away from them accounts for many of the fires starting. These motors should be given periodic inspections in order to give the best and safest operation.

Because of the absence of or insufficient emergency facilities of some companies selling electric refrigerators, the local fire department is frequently called upon to handle gas leaks. With the exception of the gas-fired absorption type domestic refrigerator, the method of obtaining refrigeration, or what is termed the cycle of refrigeration, is practically the same in all domestic type refrigerators.

The compressor, motor and evaporator are similar, the principal difference being that in some the apparatus is hermetically sealed, thus permitting the refrigerating unit to be removed for repairs and temporarily replaced by another. Gas leaks usually occur at joints which may be weakened by vibration; frequently leaks occur in the evaporator coil surrounding the ice tray due to removing the frozen trays from this unit.

In the electric refrigerator sulphur dioxide is still one of the most commonly employed refrigerants. Sulphur dioxide is non-combustible and in fact will extinguish fire, but it possesses a sharp irritating odor and causes lesions to form in the delicate membrane of the throat and nasal passages if inhaled in any material quantity; it similarly affects the eyes.

In case a leak develops in your refrigerator, get everyone out of the building. Call the fire department and they will do whatever is possible to relieve the condition. The local refrigerator serviceman should also be called.

Osterlund Shows Nash-Healey 1953 Sport-Convertible

A premiere showing of the new 1953 Nash-Healey convertible sports car is being held today (Thursday) at August Osterlund Inc., 724 Beacon street, Newton Centre from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The low-slung and racy convertible sports car, powered by the Nash Ambassador Le Mans Dual Jet-Fire Engine, was styled by Pinin Farina, renowned European custom body designer.

The convertible features the famous Healey "trailing link" front suspension, which provides outstanding road holding and cornering characteristics. The low hood and fender contour extends beyond the cowl through the windshield and out into the rear deck without any interruption, providing greater front and rear vision.

Over four years of competition at Le Mans, France, the engine has set finest record of any American engine. Equipped with an aluminum cylinder head, it has an 8 to 1 compression ratio.

The engine has two side draft carburetors working in conjunction with an oversized "Sealed-In Iso-Thermal" intake manifold. Its seven-bearing crankshaft is 100 per cent counterbalanced.

The engine and major mechanical parts for the Nash-Healey convertible are manufactured by Nash Motors in the United States. The chassis is made by the Donald Healey Company, Warwick, England, and the sleek custom bodies are built at Farina's body plant in Turin, Italy.

Cost Accountants Elect Newton Man

Mr. Choroszy is affiliated with the Raytheon Manufacturing Company with offices at 55 Chapel street, Newton. The NACA is the largest accounting society in the country with 116 local chapters.

Sgt. William Bell Among Top 10 in Courtesy Contest

A Newton police sergeant is listed among the top 10 vote-getters to date in the "Most Courteous Cop" contest sponsored by the Massachusetts Division of the American Automobile Association.

Sgt. William J. Bell of the Newton Police Department was listed in the latest tabulation of votes by the AAA as well as in the running for an 8-day cruise to Havana and Nassau as part of the AAA's campaign to reward the most courteous uniformed officer.

Voting on the "Most Courteous Cop" has been underway for two weeks in all parts of the state. Ballots are being distributed to visitors and residents alike through AAA offices, chambers of commerce, hotels and gas oil stations.

The campaign was planned by the Association to show "real Yankee hospitality" to visitors in an effort to promote Massachusetts' tourist business, now the fourth largest industry in the Commonwealth.

STANLEY T. JOHNSON JR.

NHS Graduate Becomes Cadet At West Point

Stanley T. Johnson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley T. Johnson of 41 Walden street, Newtonville, is undergoing indoctrination training at the United States Military Academy at West Point.

A graduate of Newton High School in June, Cadet Johnson was appointed to West Point by Gov. Christian A. Herter in 1952 when the governor was still a representative.

In high school, he was class treasurer in his junior and senior years. The new cadet was a member of the school, and school exchange program with Glebe Collegiate Institute of Ottawa, Canada, as a junior and served three years in the high school legislature.

He also served on the Orange Shield and worked on the Orange Book, which explains the school to sophomores, and on the year book, Newtonian. Cadet Johnson was on the varsity indoor and outdoor track. His father is owner of the Transmission Engineering Company in Newton Highlands.

Emerson College Play Features Newton Student

Miss Barbara Dow of 38 Eldredge street, Newton, who is attending the Summer Session of Emerson College, is cast in the role of Nina Denery in the current production of "The Autumn Garden" by Lillian Hellman.

This is the second presentation of the Emerson Summer Theatre in Boston in which Miss Dow is appearing. "The Autumn Garden" will be presented tonight (Thursday) and tomorrow at 8:30 at the college's theater, Berkeley street at the Esplanade, Boston. The public is invited.

Dog Training Classes to Be Held in August

The Holliston Dog Training Club is starting new classes in dog obedience on Tuesday evenings in August at 7:30 at the Babson Institute ball field, Wellesley avenue, Wellesley Hills. The field will have floodlights.

Lee Schulmann of the Dog Ranch, Weston, well-known judge and trainer, will take charge during the vacation of Philip Jacobs of Southborough, the Club's regular trainer. The open air training is considered a very valuable preparation for the out-door August shows. Non-members handling dogs are welcome.

To Draft Only Three Newton Men in August

Only three men will be summoned to report for induction into the armed forces by Newton's three draft boards in August, with no one under 20 to be included in the quota.

State headquarters has notified the Selective Service Boards in Newton that no one born after the end of 1932 shall be eligible for the draft. One man will be selected by each of the three boards.

The Selective Service Commission reminded fathers or prospective fathers last week that they have only until August 25 to present to their draft boards proof of parenthood or of impending parenthood.

Federal laws provide that after the August 25 deadline, fathers will be eligible for induction. Birth certificates or affidavits from physicians certifying that a person is about to become a father are required for a deferment before that date.

Ruling Bans Use In Restaurants, Cafes of Candles

New regulations on the licensing of oil burner servicemen and a letter banning the use of lighted candles in restaurants and cafes have been received by Newton Fire Chief John E. Corcoran.

The state fire marshal, in explaining the ban on the candles, wrote that they are now considered "inflammable decorations" and therefore are prohibited. The candles, stated the letter, "are for decorative purposes only and are not a necessity."

The latter continued, "It is my opinion that a fire chief does have the right to prohibit the use of lighted candles in public buildings and places of assembly except those used for religious purposes."

Chief Corcoran was also notified of a change in the method of applying for a "certificate of competency to install or alter fuel oil burning equipment." The fire chiefs now endorse an application only with respect to the individual's character and do not have to certify his ability to install oil burning equipment.

Applicants for the certificates must take an oral test on the state fire marshal's rules and regulations pertaining to oil burners and must take a practical examination on burners set up in the basement of the Department of Public Safety.

"It is the hope of your fire marshal that this test will be the first step toward a better control of oil burner installations in this Commonwealth," the letter said.
